May Help On Future Of Berlin

Rusk, Gromyko Meet Again Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The possibility that the United Nations will play some role in efforts to settle the Berlin crisis appeared to be gaining headway today.

If the United States and Russia in current diplomatic talks fail to agree on a formula for starting negotiations, the war-threatening dispute will likely become an issue of prime concern for the General Assembly.

Many Propose U.N. Hand

If negotiations can be agreed on, both the Soviet Union and the Allied powers may propose that the United Nations take a hand in carrying out any plan they can devise for the future of West Berlin. Indications are that Soviet and Western leaders alike are thinking along these lines:

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko scheduled another meeting today on the East-West deadlock over how to get negotiations started.

The central issue is what to negotiate about.

On that issue Western diplomats found little encouragement in the Soviet policy speech Gromyko delivered to the General Assembly Tuesday dealing at length with the Berlin situation.

Nothing New

In their view the speech contained nothing essentially new on Berlin policy, but that had been expected. If the Soviet government is willing to engage in the wide negotiations demanded by the United States, Britain and France, the first indications of change in its position almost certainly would be made known by Gromyko not in a speech but in his private talks with Rusk.

Today's session was arranged by Gromyko. He invited Rusk to lunch at his headquarters in a sprawling mansion on Park Aven-

PROVISIONAL SOLUTION—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called for a "provisional solution" in the United Nations crisis resulting from the death of the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. Gromyko, speaking to the U.N. General Assembly, also rejected President Kennedy's six-point disarmament plan that emphasized control and inspection at all stages. Soviet sources said Gromyko's speech was designed to parallel many of the points in President Kennedy's speech Sept. 25.

Home Urges East-West Talk to Settle Crises

Raps Soviet's Concept of Coexistence As 'Sterile Policy;' Lauds JFK's Ideas

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Britain called urgently today for East-West negotiations to settle the Berlin crisis, disarmament and other disputes, but urged both sides to renounce the idea of seeking victory in the talks.

In a broad policy speech before the U.N. General Assembly, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, assailed the Soviet concept of coexistence as "a sterile policy."

Changes Text

He made frequent changes in his prepared text, deleting a reference to an "honorable deal" as the goal of East-West talks and a charge that the Soviet Union is "playing with nuclear fire" in trying to set man against his neighbor.

He accused the Soviet Union of deception and double-dealing in the collapsed nuclear test ban talks.

Scores Troika Plan

"Let her cooperate in keeping the peace," he said, "by strengthening the collective will of the United Nations instead of trying to drive her coach, pulled by three horses, through the whole fabric of our collective efforts."

This was a reference to Premier Khrushchev's "troika" plan to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold with a three-man directorate.

Lord Home praised what he called the "stirring" disarmament proposals of President Kennedy and urged that they be used as a basis for renewed arms negotiations either by the 10-nation group of East-West countries or by an enlarged group.

"My government stands ready to take part in renewed multilateral negotiations on this basis," he asserted, "and would like to see them in the most effective forum that can be devised."

Willing to Help

The British leader also declared his readiness to help arrange negotiations on the Berlin crisis, but he warned that the West must have guarantees to protect the right of access to West Berlin.

"If there is to be a negotiation about the situation in Berlin and its people," he said, "settlement must include uninterrupted access to the city, and suitable guarantees that the free life which the people have chosen will be preserved."

He told the Soviet Union there are three ways to peaceful coexistence:

"One is settlement of disputes by negotiation. One is absolute respect for treaties and international obligations freely signed. And one is collective action to preserve the peace if conciliation is discarded and the peace is broken by deliberate intent."

He added:

Cautions Victory Aim

"Negotiators must not seek victory over each other but an honorable deal."

Home backed Kennedy's appeal for a strong United Nations, headed by a single secretary-general.

"If we were ever to accept the doctrine that no man can be impartial in carrying out the orders of the Security Council," he said, "then the members of the United Nations will have to pack their bags and go home, for the world will be morally bankrupt and the doctrine of reaction will have won the day."

The Soviet reply to Kennedy's U.N. address raised guarded hopes that the Soviets may be ready to ease the threat of war over Berlin.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko turned down the President's bid for a nuclear test ban treaty, stuck to the Soviet line on general disarmament and insisted on a three-man board to replace the late Dag Hammarskjold as U. N. secretary-general.

Some Cajoling Sounds

Nevertheless there were cajoling sounds amid the threats in Gromyko's policy speech before the General Assembly Tuesday.

Gromyko stressed that the Soviet Union intends to sign a peace treaty with East Germany whether the West likes it or not. He declared that a war over the divided city could take hundreds of millions of lives.

The Soviet foreign minister also warned th West against "spouting threats" on Berlin and then repeated the Soviet proposition that West Berlin should be a "free city" with free access.

The joker in this proposal, from the Western viewpoint, is that the

Tempers Flare as Congress Quits; Spending Hits Peak

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first congressional session of the Kennedy administration wound up in an angry whirlwind early today with the Senate having to accept a big money bill which the House bounced to it on a take it or leave it basis.

The House passed the $1,125,927,341 supplemental appropriation and then quickly closed up shop at 4:20 a.m. With the House in adjournment and no chance for compromise, the Senate was forced to go along with the bill providing money for a wide vatie of federal agencies.

Angered by House

The slightest Senate amendment would have killed the measure and forced President Kennedy to call a special session to get the needed funds.

Senators minced no words in expressing anger at the House adjournment prior to final Senate action.

"We have taken a shellacking, and I think it's outrageous," protested Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois challenged his colleagues to "show how deep is your conviction."

"Let's find out whether the House of Representatives can affront the Senate," Dirksen roared.

Adjourned at 6:16 A.M.

But after additional angry complaints, the Senate passed the measure on a voice vote and quit at 6:16 a.m.

The session which ended in the flare of tempers had run up appropriations totaling about $92.5 billion, a peacetime record

In its home stretch session of about 19 hours, the heavily Democratic Congress also:

Voted $3,914,600,000 for foreign aid for the year which started July 1. The final figure was a qualified victory for President Kennedy, who originally asked for $4,775,500,000. Although Knnedy was denied the advance Treasury financing he sought, he won a five-year authorization for his economic development loan program —the longest ever voted.

Tabs on Taxpayers

Cleared a $3,908,880,980- public works appropriation for flood control, rivers and harbors, reclamation and atomic energy projects.

Sent to the White House a bill authorizing the Treasury to assign a number to each income taxpayer in a move to keep closer tab on tax returns.

Put aside until next year was a bill designed to ease the tax burden on Du Pont stockholders who might receive 63 million shares of General Motors stock under an antitrust divestiture proceeding.

Since convening last Jan. 3, Congress approved many major points of Kennedy's New Frontiers program. It also rejected several of his major requests.

Democratic congressional leaders said they were well pleased with the record of the 1961 session and predicted that many Kennedy proposals which failed this year would be passed in 1962.

Republican leaders said they had kept their pledge to cooperate with the President on foreign affairs, and had remained true to their principles by seeking to cut or defeat many new domestic spending programs.

The session's spending was exceeded only by two World War II years and one Korean War year. The $92.5 billion in appropriations for the fiscal year which began July 1 includes $8.6 billion interest on the national debt. Not included in the total is a fiscal 1961 supplemental appropriation.

The first session of the 87th Congress was the longest since the Korean War year of 1951, which ran to Oct. 20. Congress will reconvene Jan. 10 unless a crisis forces Kennedy to call it back sooner.

Explosive Issues Face JFK in 1962 Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy apparently is going to stake his political standing on four explosive issues in the next session of the Congress.

Kennedy has passed the word to party legislative leaders he is going to come back fighting in January for three proposals laid aside this year—a general aid-to-education bill, medical care for the aged and establishment of a Cabinet department of urban affairs.

Won't Be Easy

His fourth major effort will be directed at a new extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act which expires next year.

The President has no illusions that putting across any such program is going to be easy. He was reported to be preparing for the toughest kind of battles. He was said to feel that he is going to have to win most of these conflicts to present a record to the voters that will avoid the traditional off-year election losses of House and Senate seats by the administration in power.

Democratic leaders are confident that, unless he is heavily involved in international developments, Kennedy will put in some personal campaigning for party members running next year.

The prospects of passing a general school aid bill at the next session are regarded as less than even. The issue of aid to parochial schools is one that many members would like to avoid in an election year.

The first building in the newly formed Mt. Marion Industrial Park Corporation, under construction near the site of Mt. Marion railroad station, will be the new plant of F. L. Russell Corporation, one of the oldest businesses in the Village of Saugerties.

Fabian L. Russell, president of the firm which manufactures Sterling notebooks, albums and other paper products, said his company signed a lease to occupy the new building, and expects to move in some time in December. F. L. Russell Corp., currently occupies the Martin Cantine Company plant off Ulster Avenue in the village.

Tooth Decay Among Local Children High, P-TA Told

The Parent-Teacher Association Council of Kingstan held its September meeting on Monday in Kingston High School library at which time Dr. David B. Ast, director of the New York State Bureau of Dental Health, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Dental Health."

Dr. Ast said that fluoridation is an important part of dental health and he quoted some rather shocking statistics, saying that by the time the average person reaches 40 he loses half of his teeth as a result of dental defects. He also said that the dental decay prevalence among children in Kingston is highest among a number of studies.

Dr. Ast spoke about fluoridation as being a part of the lives of 46 million people in the United States. The question, he said, whether fluoridation is successful is no longer debatable and 30 miles away is Newburgh as an example of the usefulness of fluoridated water, he said.

The 10-year study of fluoridation which Dr. Ast initiated and supervised, began in 1944. At that time Newburgh and Kingston had almost identical records of dental defects in children 6 to 9 years of age.

Newburgh water was fluoridated and Kingston continued as it was. After 10 years children in Kingston were found to have 57 per cent more tooth decay than those in Newburgh. The number of lost permanent teeth

35-Pound Rock Is Hurled Through Roof by Blast

In a freak accident Monday afternoon during blasting operations on the new Route 209 Bypass in the Town of Ulster, a rock weighing nearly 35 pounds was hurled through the roof of the home of Fred Duna, just off Route 28 and several hundred feet from the blasting site. It crashed into a bedroom, but since nobody was home at the time it wasn't noticed until Tuesday.

Investigator Edward Shannon and Trooper John Salter of the Kingston Barracks investigated and reported no negligence. The Aborio Construction Co., which is building the bypass will make restitution to Duna, who operates Fred's Body Shop adjacent to his home.

Inferno Averted, 1 Dead, 21 Hurt

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) —A Coast Guard fireboat poured foam and water today onto the burning hulk of a Navy tanker that exploded as it discharged aviation fuel.

One person was killed as a series of explosions shook the tanker Potomac for more than half an hour after the first blast. At least 21 were injured and another was missing.

Confined to Tanker

The flames were confined to the broken tanker. Firemen ashore played water around seven fuel storage tanks containing more than 10 million gallons of aviation fuel.

For many hours after the disaster Tuesday night, the flames had threatened to reach the tanks and turn the entire pier into an inferno.

Witnesses told of seeing the flames rush "as a great wall" and engulf the vessel as it stood near the shore. Crewmen scrambled frantically over the sides and leaped through flames into the water.

"I was one of the last to leave —I just made it,' said the ship's paymaster, P.C. Newton.

He said he had swum ashore and run about 250 feet when the first explosion racked the vessel.

Knocked to Ground

"It knocked me to the ground. Another 20 seconds and I wouldn't have lived through it," he said.

Nine of the injured were taken to the Marine Hospital at Cherry Point.

A Marine officer said five were in good condition and may be released today. They are:

John C. Smith, 65, of Largo, Fla.; Eadis Page, 38, of Houston, Tex.; James H. Minter, 37, of Norfolk, Va.; Adelino Mattamala, 30, of Houston; and Henry Pickens, 32, of Greensboro, N.C.

The four injured more seriously were identified as William H. Massengill, 55; William G. Massengill, 19, and Wade H. Stanley, 51, all of Four Oaks, N.C.; and Henry Crawford of Boston, Mass.

R. W. Hunter, 43, of Montauk Point, N.Y., the tanker's captain, said he escaped the burning vessel by leaping from the stern into the water.

"It was a tremendous explosion, like dynamite going off, or an

Ford Pact Near; Reuther, Seaton Sign GM Accord

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union were believed close to agreement today on a new three-year labor contract.

Company and union spokesmen indicated Tuesday night they were filling in the details rather than arguing over major items that could bring on a strike at the nation's second largest automaker.

Talk Without Tension

In negotiations that appeared to be without tension, both sides were under secrecy wraps—pledged to talk only in generalities about the progress of the bargaining in a downtown Detroit hotel.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the discussions dealt with "general noneconomic contract matters." This meant they talked about the section of a national contract covering working conditions for Ford's 120,000 hourly employes.

Reuther took time out from the Ford talks Tuesday to sign formally a new contract with General Motors Corp. It goes to Sept. 20, 1964. Reuther and GM Vice Pres-

McCone Is Named as CIA Chief

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Kennedy today named John A. McCone, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, to succeed Allen Dulles as head of the Central Intelligence Agency in November.

Kennedy introduced McCone as his choice to replace the retiring Dulles at a specially-called meeting with newsmen at the Naval War College in Newport. He is spending a week's vacation at this resort.

Dulles 8-Year Boss

Dulles also accompanied the President to an auditorium where the announcement was made to say that he would step out after eight years as director of the nation's super-secret intelligence gathering agency.

McCone, a Republican, was said to be in line for one of the hottest spots in the government, but one or two hitches had yet to be straightened out.

Kennedy conferred with McCone at the White House several weeks ago. The CIA post may have been discussed at the time, but the announced purpose was the Soviet Union's decision to resume nuclear tests.

Was Aide to Ike

McCone, who headed the AEC for three years under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, had contended previously the United States could not go on indefinitely observing the moratorium on atomic tests. Kennedy asked for a personal account of McCone's views.

McCone, 59, a West Coast builder and operator of a fleet of tankers, served for more than a year as undersecretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration. He built ships during World War II.

The President named another Republican, William C. Foster, as head of the new Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Tuesday be-

GOP Divided on Future Course

Nixon's Decision Due Tonight on Candidacy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard M. Nixon steps before a televised news conference tonight to answer the big question—will he run for governor of California next year?

Even his closest advisors professed not to know in advance whether it would be yes or no. At least they weren't talking.

Everything seemed to point toward a campaign by the 1960 Republican presidential nominee to dump Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

There was the careful staging of the announcement, the steady buildup of a "draft Nixon" clamor within the state GOP, little hints here and there.

But, just as easily, puzzled guessers could make out a sound case for a decision by Nixon, 48, not to chance his political future with state voters who are better than 3-2 Democratic.

Republicans themselves are divided on Nixon's course. Some have told him that he needs the governorship to build a platform for another national race in 1964 or 1968.

Others have argued that Nixon, with his national party stature, doesn't need an office to keep in the public eye. They have warned, too, that he faces a stubborn battle for the state nomination, particularly from former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Talk about Nixon's possible candidacy for governor began right after he lost the presidency. It came into the open in February when Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., declared Nixon must win the state post if he expected to run again for president in 1964.

The former vice president told friends in March that he was not a candidate and he had no intention to be one. By July he was saying he would run "only if the party concludes I am the only man who can 'save' the state."

State Republican leaders, confident they had a winner, have implored Nixon for months to get into the race. A poll of Republican State Central Committee members showed he was the choice of 687 of the 972 who replied.

Lawyer Gets $1,300 From District For Driving 2 Daughters to School

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Each school morning, like numerous other parents, Walter F. Wessendorf Jr. gets in the family car and drives his two daughters to a private school in Albany.

But Wessendorf, a lawyer, is paid $1,300 a year by the school district in the suburb where he lives to drive his children to Albany Academy for Girls in his Cadillac.

The payment is made under a controversial state law that extended the distance school districts must transport pupils who choose to attend parochial and other private schools.

Wessendorf, of Westmere, was the lowest of two bidders on a contract to transport his daughters to the school, the superintendent of the Guilderland Central School District said.

Wessendorf's automobile has been licensed by the State Public Service Commission and is, in effect, a school bus for the two girls, Superintendent Alton U. Farnsworth said.

"The state doesn't say a parent can't bid on transportation of his children," he said.

The law, which went into effect at the start of this school year, requires school districts to supply transportation for pupils within the district to schools they choose within 10 miles of their homes.

"We don't like the law, but we have to live with it," Farnsworth said.

The Wessendorf children were the only ones attending Albany Academy for Girls whose parents had asked for transportation, Farnswoth said.

Not all parents whose children attend private schools ask for the mandated bus service, however, Farnsworth said.

He said Wessendorf, in order to have his car licensed by the PSC, was required to take out "a great deal of extra insurance" and obtain a special license.

Neither Wessendorf nor his wife was available Tuesday night or this morning for comment on the situation. Wessendorf was reported away on business.

A girl who identified herself as a baby sitter answered the door at the Wessendorf home and late at the Wessendorf home and later drove two younger girls to the Albany Academy in a Cadillac licensed to Wessendorf.

The baby sitter said the Wessendorfs were not available and would say nothing more. The children dashed into the school.

Tooth Decay Among Local Children High, P-TA Told

The Parent-Teacher Association Council of Kingstan held its September meeting on Monday in Kingston High School library at which time Dr. David B. Ast, director of the New York State Bureau of Dental Health, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Dental Health."

Dr. Ast said that fluoridation is an important part of dental health and he quoted some rather shocking statistics, saying that by the time the average person reaches 40 he loses half of his teeth as a result of dental defects. He also said that the dental decay prevalence among children in Kingston is highest among a number of studies.

Dr. Ast spoke about fluoridation as being a part of the lives of 46 million people in the United States. The question, he said, whether fluoridation is successful is no longer debatable and 30 miles away is Newburgh as an example of the usefulness of fluoridated water, he said.

The 10-year study of fluoridation which Dr. Ast initiated and supervised, began in 1944. At that time Newburgh and Kingston had almost identical records of dental defects in children 6 to 9 years of age.

Newburgh water was fluoridated and Kingston continued as it was. After 10 years children in Kingston were found to have 57 per cent more tooth decay than those in Newburgh. The number of lost permanent teeth

35-Pound Rock Is Hurled Through Roof by Blast

In a freak accident Monday afternoon during blasting operations on the new Route 209 Bypass in the Town of Ulster, a rock weighing nearly 35 pounds was hurled through the roof of the home of Fred Duna, just off Route 28 and several hundred feet from the blasting site. It crashed into a bedroom, but since nobody was home at the time it wasn't noticed until Tuesday.

Investigator Edward Shannon and Trooper John Salter of the Kingston Barracks investigated and reported no negligence. The Aborio Construction Co., which is building the bypass will make restitution to Duna, who operates Fred's Body Shop adjacent to his home.

Inferno Averted, 1 Dead, 21 Hurt

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) —A Coast Guard fireboat poured foam and water today onto the burning hulk of a Navy tanker that exploded as it discharged aviation fuel.

One person was killed as a series of explosions shook the tanker Potomac for more than half an hour after the first blast. At least 21 were injured and another was missing.

Confined to Tanker

The flames were confined to the broken tanker. Firemen ashore played water around seven fuel storage tanks containing more than 10 million gallons of aviation fuel.

For many hours after the disaster Tuesday night, the flames had threatened to reach the tanks and turn the entire pier into an inferno.

Witnesses told of seeing the flames rush "as a great wall" and engulf the vessel as it stood near the shore. Crewmen scrambled frantically over the sides and leaped through flames into the water.

"I was one of the last to leave —I just made it,' 'said the ship's paymaster, P.C. Newton.

He said he had swum ashore and run about 250 feet when the first explosion racked the vessel.

Knocked to Ground

"It knocked me to the ground. Another 20 seconds and I wouldn't have lived through it," he said.

Nine of the injured were taken to the Marine Hospital at Cherry Point.

A Marine officer said five were in good condition and may be released today. They are:

John C. Smith, 65, of Largo, Fla.; Eadis Page, 38, of Houston, Tex.; James H. Minter, 37, of Norfolk, Va.; Adelino Mattamala, 30, of Houston; and Henry Pickens, 32, of Greensboro, N.C.

The four injured more seriously were identified as William H. Massengill, 55; William G. Massengill, 19, and Wade H. Stanley, 51, all of Four Oaks, N.C.; and Henry Crawford of Boston, Mass.

R. W. Hunter, 43, of Montauk Point, N.Y., the tanker's captain, said he escaped the burning vessel by leaping from the stern into the water.

"It was a tremendous explosion, like dynamite going off, or an

Ford Pact Near; Reuther, Seaton Sign GM Accord

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union were believed close to agreement today on a new three-year labor contract.

Company and union spokesmen indicated Tuesday night they were filling in the details rather than arguing over major items that could bring on a strike at the nation's second largest automaker.

Talk Without Tension

In negotiations that appeared to be without tension, both sides were under secrecy wraps—pledged to talk only in generalities about the progress of the bargaining in a downtown Detroit hotel.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the discussions dealt with "general noneconomic contract matters." This meant they talked about the section of a national contract covering working conditions for Ford's 120,000 hourly employes.

Reuther took time out from the Ford talks Tuesday to sign formally a new contract with General Motors Corp. It goes to Sept. 20, 1964. Reuther and GM Vice Pres-

McCone Is Named as CIA Chief

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Kennedy today named John A. McCone, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, to succeed Allen Dulles as head of the Central Intelligence Agency in November.

Kennedy introduced McCone as his choice to replace the retiring Dulles at a specially-called meeting with newsmen at the Naval War College in Newport. He is spending a week's vacation at this resort.

Dulles 8-Year Boss

Dulles also accompanied the President to an auditorium where the announcement was made to say that he would step out after eight years as director of the nation's super-secret intelligence gathering agency.

McCone, a Republican, was said to be in line for one of the hottest spots in the government, but one or two hitches had yet to be straightened out.

Kennedy conferred with McCone at the White House several weeks ago. The CIA post may have been discussed at the time, but the announced purpose was the Soviet Union's decision to resume nuclear tests.

Was Aide to Ike

McCone, who headed the AEC for three years under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, had contended previously the United States could not go on indefinitely observing the moratorium on atomic tests. Kennedy asked for a personal account of McCone's views.

McCone, 59, a West Coast builder and operator of a fleet of tankers, served for more than a year as undersecretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration. He built ships during World War II.

The President named another Republican, William C. Foster, as head of the new Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Tuesday be-

GOP Divided on Future Course

Nixon's Decision Due Tonight on Candidacy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard M. Nixon steps before a televised news conference tonight to answer the big question—will he run for governor of California next year?

Even his closest advisors professed not to know in advance whether it would be yes or no. At least they weren't talking.

Everything seemed to point toward a campaign by the 1960 Republican presidential nominee to dump Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

There was the careful staging of the announcement, the steady buildup of a "draft Nixon" clamor within the state GOP, little hints here and there.

But, just as easily, puzzled guessers could make out a sound case for a decision by Nixon, 48, not to chance his political future with state voters who are better than 3-2 Democratic.

Republicans themselves are divided on Nixon's course. Some have told him that he needs the governorship to build a platform for another national race in 1964 or 1968.

Others have argued that Nixon, with his national party stature, doesn't need an office to keep in the public eye. They have warned, too, that he faces a stubborn battle for the state nomination, particularly from former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Talk about Nixon's possible candidacy for governor began right after he lost the presidency. It came into the open in February when Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., declared Nixon must win the state post if he expected to run again for president in 1964.

The former vice president told friends in March that he was not a candidate and he had no intention to be one. By July he was saying he would run "only if the party concludes I am the only man who can 'save' the state."

State Republican leaders, confident they had a winner, have implored Nixon for months to get into the race. A poll of Republican State Central Committee members showed he was the choice of 687 of the 972 who replied.

Lawyer Gets $1,300 From District For Driving 2 Daughters to School

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Each school morning, like numerous other parents, Walter F. Wessendorf Jr. gets in the family car and drives his two daughters to a private school in Albany.

But Wessendorf, a lawyer, is paid $1,300 a year by the school district in the suburb where he lives to drive his children to Albany Academy for Girls in his Cadillac.

The payment is made under a controversial state law that extended the distance school districts must transport pupils who choose to attend parochial and other private schools.

Wessendorf, of Westmere, was the lowest of two bidders on a contract to transport his daughters to the school, the superintendent of the Guilderland Central School District said.

Wessendorf's automobile has been licensed by the State Public Service Commission and is, in effect, a school bus for the two girls, Superintendent Alton U. Farnsworth said.

"The state doesn't say a parent can't bid on transportation of his children," he said.

The law, which went into effect at the start of this school year, requires school districts to supply transportation for pupils within the district to schools they choose within 10 miles of their homes.

"We don't like the law, but we have to live with it," Farnsworth said.

The Wessendorf children were the only ones attending Albany Academy for Girls whose parents had asked for transportation, Farnswoth said.

Not all parents whose children attend private schools ask for the mandated bus service, however, Farnsworth said.

He said Wessendorf, in order to have his car licensed by the PSC, was required to take out "a great deal of extra insurance" and obtain a special license.

Neither Wessendorf nor his wife was available Tuesday night or this morning for comment on the situation. Wessendorf was reported away on business.

A girl who identified herself as a baby sitter answered the door at the Wessendorf home and late at the Wessendorf home and later drove two younger girls to the Albany Academy in a Cadillac licensed to Wessendorf.

The baby sitter said the Wessendorfs were not available and would say nothing more. The children dashed into the school.

Harassment Is Blamed by GE For Work Halt

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The General Electric Co., hit by its third work-stoppage in a week, claims the latest walkout is part of a union's "continuing program of harassment."

Approximately 300 workers, represented by the International Union of Electrical Workers, left their jobs Tuesday in support of a grievance.

GE charged that "It is obvious that IUE business agent John Stanley called the employes out... only to harass the company."

Stanley said the workers were demonstrating about a grievance involving an employe's back pay.

He had no comment on the harassment charge.

The company said the IUE claimed an employe, who was not identified, should have been offered a job as inspector in the company's Cathode Ray Tube Department last December.

GE said the employe earlier had given up an inspector's job at his own request and had agreed to forfeit his right to be recalled to that post.

The employe was made an inspector again Sept. 18 and was working at that assignment, the company said.

Last Tuesday, approximately 75 machinists walked out at GE's Electronic Park plant in a dispute over work rules and 240 employes at another Syracuse GE plant staged a sympathy walkout the next day. Both groups returned to work Thursday.

Stricter Laws Asked to Stop Obscene Printing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Stronger punishment and stricter laws barring the distribution of obscene literature to minors was urged at a public hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee on Obscene Literature.

Dist. Atty. Carman F. Ball of Erie County said Tuesday that changes should be made in the law to "authorize the court to enjoin the distribution of such materials to minors."

He urged that courts be given the power to close premises used for that purpose, and direct the confiscation and distruction of the material. Ball said the minimum sentence for violation should be increased to six months in jail from the present 10 days.

Milne School Is Facing Charges of Barring Negroes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state-operated Milne High School, under fire from the state education department for its admission practices, now is charged with excluding Negroes.

"The educational opportunity for Negroes to attend the Milne School was so severely restricted as to exclude them," the state Commission Against Discrimination said.

SCAD disagreed with a finding of the Education Department that race bias did not cause rejection of a Negro applicant to the school, which is operated by the State University College for Education at Albany.

The department held that Milne adminission procedures were discriminatory but rejected the claim of Sharon Bates, 14, that she had been denied admission because she was a Negro.

The reason for her rejection was not made public.

The girl, whose mother complained to SCAD, since has been accepted at Milne, a junior-senior high school used for teacher-training.

The mother, Mrs. Rhunette Bates, indicated yesterday that she was undecided whether her daughter would enroll in Milne.

After the education department report Monday, the State University said it was reviewing admission procedures at Milne and would review admission standards at other teacher-training schools.

SCAD said "the virtually all-white pattern of students has been maintained and perpetuated by the admission policies, which give preference to applicants related to students or to the beneficiaries of community pressures and influence.

Negroes, SCAD said, have neither the family ties nor ability to exert the pressure that gained admission for other students.

A SCAD spokesman said that since Miss Bates had been accepted, no further official action was planned to resolve the disagreement over whether discrimination had figured in her specific case.

SCAD and the Education Department previously have been at odds over SCAD efforts to intervene in school matters that involved charges of bias. The dispute now is in the courts.

Wagner for NYC, More Witnesses Scheduled Today

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission, after rejecting and then accepting a statement by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, prepared today to hear more witnesses in the battle for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads seek control of the financially pressed B&O. The Central, if it fails to gain control of the B&O, proposes to join the two in a three-way merger.

Today was the second day of hearings in Syracuse as the ICC gathered regional testimony.

Wagner, in a statement Tuesday, backed the Central and said the line would suffer "irreparable damage" if it were excluded from a merger of the C&O and B&O.

The statement, read by Bernard Ruggieri, an assistant to the mayor, was stricken from the record by Examiner John L. Bradford on the motion of an attorney for the C&O and B&O.

The attorney held that the mayor was not present for cross-examination.

A Central attorney later entered the Wagner statement in the hearing record by testifying that New York City backed the Central, as reflected by the mayor's statement.

Wagner, in the statement, said he favored an early three-way merger to "provide the financial strength and operating efficiencies which these carriers need."

In addition, the ICC heard about 25 witnesses, most of whom gave outright support to the Central.

Several witnesses, mostly shippers in Upstate New York, expressed fear the Central's service would deteriorate if the road were left out of a merger. These shippers, however, did not give outright backin gto the Central.

Mayor Abraham Williams of Oneida testified that 18 industries in his city depended entirely on the Central for freight service.

Harassment Is Blamed by GE For Work Halt

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The General Electric Co., hit by its third work-stoppage in a week, claims the latest walkout is part of a union's "continuing program of harassment."

Approximately 300 workers, represented by the International Union of Electrical Workers, left their jobs Tuesday in support of a grievance.

GE charged that "It is obvious that IUE business agent John Stanley called the employes out... only to harass the company."

Stanley said the workers were demonstrating about a grievance involving an employe's back pay.

He had no comment on the harassment charge.

The company said the IUE claimed an employe, who was not identified, should have been offered a job as inspector in the company's Cathode Ray Tube Department last December.

GE said the employe earlier had given up an inspector's job at his own request and had agreed to forfeit his right to be recalled to that post.

The employe was made an inspector again Sept. 18 and was working at that assignment, the company said.

Last Tuesday, approximately 75 machinists walked out at GE's Electronic Park plant in a dispute over work rules and 240 employes at another Syracuse GE plant staged a sympathy walkout the next day. Both groups returned to work Thursday.

Stricter Laws Asked to Stop Obscene Printing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Stronger punishment and stricter laws barring the distribution of obscene literature to minors was urged at a public hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee on Obscene Literature.

Dist. Atty. Carman F. Ball of Erie County said Tuesday that changes should be made in the law to "authorize the court to enjoin the distribution of such materials to minors."

He urged that courts be given the power to close premises used for that purpose, and direct the confiscation and distruction of the material. Ball said the minimum sentence for violation should be increased to six months in jail from the present 10 days.

Milne School Is Facing Charges of Barring Negroes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state-operated Milne High School, under fire from the state education department for its admission practices, now is charged with excluding Negroes.

"The educational opportunity for Negroes to attend the Milne School was so severely restricted as to exclude them," the state Commission Against Discrimination said.

SCAD disagreed with a finding of the Education Department that race bias did not cause rejection of a Negro applicant to the school, which is operated by the State University College for Education at Albany.

The department held that Milne admission procedures were discriminatory but rejected the claim of Sharon Bates, 14, that she had been denied admission because she was a Negro.

The reason for her rejection was not made public.

The girl, whose mother complained to SCAD, since has been accepted at Milne, a junior-senior high school used for teacher-training.

The mother, Mrs. Rhunette Bates, indicated yesterday that she was undecided whether her daughter would enroll in Milne.

After the education department report Monday, the State University said it was reviewing admission procedures at Milne and would review admission standards at other teacher-training schools.

SCAD said "the virtually all-white pattern of students has been maintained and perpetuated by the admission policies, which give preference to applicants related to students or to the beneficiaries of community pressures and influence.

Negroes, SCAD said, have neither the family ties nor ability to exert the pressure that gained admission for other students.

A SCAD spokesman said that since Miss Bates had been accepted, no further official action was planned to resolve the disagreement over whether discrimination had figured in her specific case.

SCAD and the Education Department previously have been at odds over SCAD efforts to intervene in school matters that involved charges of bias. The dispute now is in the courts.

Wagner for NYC, More Witnesses Scheduled Today

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission, after rejecting and then accepting a statement by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, prepared today to hear more witnesses in the battle for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads seek control of the financially pressed B&O. The Central, if it fails to gain control of the B&O, proposes to join the two in a three-way merger.

Today was the second day of hearings in Syracuse as the ICC gathered regional testimony.

Wagner, in a statement Tuesday, backed the Central and said the line would suffer "irreparable damage" if it were excluded from a merger of the C&O and B&O.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 27, 1961

REGISTRATION DAYS

Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7 are the first two days of registration in the City of Kingston for the general election November 7. The last two registration days are the following Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14. Polls will be open the first three days from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on the final day from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Non-personal registration dates in communities outside Kingston are October 7 when the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. and October 14 from 1 to 10 p. m.

Kingston residents who fail to go to the polls and register on one of the four days will be unable to vote in this general election.

In non-personal areas, new residents should check to make sure their names are on the registration rolls at the place of local registration.

This is an important election both for the citizens of Kingston and for those in the county. In Kingston a mayor, alderman-at-large, city judge and a board of aldermen will be elected. On a county-wide basis, a county judge, district attorney, county treasurer and board of supervisors will be elected.

In addition to these offices, voters will be called upon to decide seven proposed changes to the state constitution.

For the voters of Ulster County there also is a local proposition up for decision. It is a Community College in Ulster County.

The offices, amendments and the establishment of an Ulster County Community College are vital to all citizens. Every eligible voter should make it his business first to register and then vote. The wise course is to plan on registering either the first or second day.

The poet who wanted a house by the side of the road would see plenty of the world go by these days—until his house was razed to make way for a superhighway.

Senator Byrd says the 1961 federal civilian payroll is 13.6 billion dollars. Government is a going business, all right—and it's going higher all the time.

TRICK MAY BACKFIRE

The Communists have found another way to scrape the nerves of West Berlin residents. They have rigged up loudspeakers on the wall that seals off East Berlin. The loudspeakers, directed at West Berlin, blast propaganda and music all day long, beginning at five in the morning.

This is one of the nastier Communist tricks. West Berliners anywhere near the barricades are a captive audience for this blast which the Communists cynically call "the real voice of the German people." The cumulative effect must be enormous.

But the chances are that the cumulative effect will not be precisely what the Communist bosses desire. Human beings rebel at being a captive audience, as witness the public uproar that forced abandonment of plans to have constant music and advertisements broadcast on New York subways some years ago.

Few West Berliners, we think, will be seduced by the steady blatting of propaganda from loudspeakers attached to walls that give the lie to that propaganda. And it will be surprising if, some dark night, a few of the loudspeakers are not shot out by irate burghers who dislike being aroused at 5 a. m. by the "real voice."

For the first time, an Indian tribe is to receive a federal housing loan but only $30,000 is granted for planning. Does the government figure on teepees?

One thing you can say about West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer: he may not be as indispensable as he thinks, but he's certainly durable.

'These Days'

THE NANSEN PASSPORT

It is not usual that a passport is named after a man, but after World War I, when large numbers found themselves homeless and helpless, a technique was evolved to give the stateless a document equivalent to a passport and generally recognized. That was the Nansen passport, named after Fridtjof Nanses whose hundredth anniversary will be celebrated on October 10.

Too few have recognized that perhaps the most frightful result of war is statelessness which to many means homelessness. Villages have disappeared; homes have been burned to the ground; all documents are lost. There is no money. What does one do? Where does he live? Where does he go? Where are his relatives and friends?

To this problem, Fridtjof Nansen devoted his life. A Norwegian, Nansen had gained fame as an explorer. He was the first man to cross Greenland. In 1896, aboard a small ship, the Fram, he set off to reach the North Pole and came closer to it than any man had before him.

Nansen's professions were oceanography and diplomacy. He was the Norwegian Minister to Great Britain and then led a diplomatic mission to the United States. From 1920 until his death, he represented Norway at the League of Nations. It was during those years, he devoted himself to the stateless.

War to Nansen was a human not a military problem and it dealt with individual human beings whose lives were suddenly dislocated and disturbed. As Herbert Hoover was concerned with feeding the starving, Nansen sought to find a home for the homeless, to move masses of people who had become what we now-a-days call refugees to some place where they could live normal lives, look after families, earn a living by their labor and forget the tragic years which uprooted them.

After 1921, when Nansen was appointed High Commissioner for Refugees of the League of Nations, he knew no nationalities, no distinctions between man and man. He only knew that human beings were struggling to survive as persons and that it was his task to help them. The Nansen passport was accepted by more than 50 governments and many distinguished persons had no other document.

The Nobel Prize was awarded Nansen in 1932 as universal recognition of his labors for the hungry and homeless. There have been too few men like Nansen in our times — too few who lived utterly selfless lives and who devoted themselves wholly to the welfare of those who had been abandoned or for those who could not adjust to the startling changes of this age.

The refugee problem is still with us. All over the world there are refugees from war and revolution and their numbers increase. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees has taken on Nansen's noble work. Such countries as Australia and Canada, which need population, open their doors to refugees from all European countries, but we shall soon have a problem of African refugees which will not be so readily solvable.

The 100th anniversary of Nansen's birth to be celebrated on October 10 is a good date to give thought to this problem of man's inhumanity to man. It is a time to think this problem out.

War does not only destroy; it cripples; it leaves men and women helpless. Its greatest cost is homelessness and it is that problem that neither the conqueror nor the vanquished can do much about. The conqueror is distrusted. Besides, he usually has contempt for those whom he conquered. Pity is a rare quality. On the other hand, the vanquished is stunned by the results of war. Often there are marginal peoples, like Armenians, who are wiped out in large number by each conqueror, perhaps because they die on the highroads of an empire.

For the remote, the distant homeless, we may contribute a few dollars to buy food, but that does not solve their problem, for what they require is a home, a hearth for the family, a place to give birth and a place to die with dignity. For what else is there to the life of man? Whether one is a pauper or a millionaire, these are the ultimate requirements of life. Beyond these there are only degrees of advantage. Less than these is not only poverty but penury.

Out of World War I came two men who understood that it was not geography that moved men; it is a smaller unit — the home and the family. These two men were Fridtjof Nansen and Herbert Hoover.

Role of Sugar in Causing Cavities in Your Teeth

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you enjoy toothaches from dental cavities, get a big bang out of dental drills, have money to burn on useless dentrifices and mouth washes and derive real pleasure from paying dentists' bills, don't bother to read on.

But if, like others of us, you'd prefer to save yourself from discomfort, pain and expense, perhaps you won't mind devoting a few minutes of your time to a study of problems related to dental hygiene as presented before a symposium arranged by the AMA Council on Foods and Nutrition, the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Massachusetts Dental Society.

Here, in brief, are some of the conclusions reached by the various speakers as the result of studies carried out at the National Institutes of Health and at Rochester, Harvard and Toronto Universities:

Many dental characteristics are determined by inheritance. Some of these characteristics that invite cavities are the large size of a tooth and/or the presence of deep pits and cracks (fissures). Thus, susceptibility to cavity formation is greatest in the largest tooth whose surface is most pitted and fissured. Hence it is these teeth that require the earliest and most intensive measures of prevention.

Tooth decay is caused by the action of a wide variety of bacteria. There is no one particular cavity-producing species.

These bacteria have at least one property in common, their dependence on sugar for their maintenance and growth. Stated otherwise, unless there is available sugar in the mouth where cavity-producing bacteria set up housekeeping, tooth decay does not occur.

The combined effects of available sugar and cavity-producing bacteria become most apparent when the flow of saliva is sharply reduced. But, since salivary flow is least influenced by measures of prevention, attention is best directed to a reduction in the amount of sugar that's made available to cavity-producing bacteria.

If the sugar of the diet is fed by stomach tube to experimental animals, dental decay does not occur. To nourish cavity-producing bacteria, the carbohydrate of the diet must be present in saliva and particularly in food that's deposited between teeth and/or in pits and fissures on the surface of the teeth. Hence, the sugar of caramels, sticky candy, chocolate bars, fig cookies, pastry semisolid desserts, bread and ice cream are greater threats to dental health than the same amount of carbohydrate taken as sweetened beverages, fruit drinks or fruits themselves.

And the cavity-producing effects of carbohydrates attain their peaks when the sweet is eaten as a between-meal or bedtime snack.

Washington News

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — Amendments to the Small Business Act of 1958 just approved by Congress are expected to increase greatly the Small Business Administration programs to promote economic growth and decrease unemployment.

A PRINCIPAL EXPANSION will come in loans to small business investment companies. SBA's authority to buy debentures of a local investment company is being stepped up from $150,000 to $400,000. It is also authorized to loan up to 50 per cent of a local company's capital and surplus. This will enable such a company to start with $1.2 million.

The local investment companies are being given authority to make loans of up to $$500,000 without SBA approval from Washington. But SBA procedures for enforcing compliance with regulations has been strengthened.

SBA may now suspend charters of companies whose affairs are out of order.

In a separate measure, SBA is being given additional authority to work with Department of Defense and General Services Administration to obtain more subcontracting for small business from the government's prime contractors.

This new authorization is the result of Congressional disapproval of Department of Defense for giving 84 per cent of its prime contracts to big business corporations.

Congress is also giving Small Business Administration $250 million more money for its job.

Subject to final appropriations on which there is little doubt, Congress has authorized an increase of $150 million for the business loan program. This brings the total of $725 million.

THE DISASTER LOAN authorization is being increased by $25 million to a total of $150 million. This program permits loans to small business firm displaced by federal construction of highways, urban renewal projects or other public works.

The small business investment company authorization is being increased by $75 million to a total of $325 million.

This makes the total lending authority available to Small Business Administration in revolving funds $1.2 billion.

Actual funds appropriated have already been stepped up by $20 million this year. Pending in a final supplemental bill still before Congress is another $130 million appropriation. This would make total funding $890 million to date.

THIS INCREASE in financing reflects the rapidly increasing SBA activites under its new admnistrator, John E. Horne, former administrative assistant to Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Soon after taking office in February, he sent letters to 8,000 local chambers of commerce and development companes to promote his agency.

He got a heavy reply. SBA field offices were then put to work on prospects.

The Area Redevelopment Act of 1961 then gave SBA two new jobs to do. Department of Commerce assigned it full responsibility for making small business loans in depressed areas. And Department of Agriculture delegated to SBA the making of small business loans for rural depressed areas.

Any such area in which Labor Department now reports unemployment higher than 6 per cent automatically becomes eligible for SBA loans at 4 per cent instead of the normal 5½ per cent. Also, standards for determining what constitutes a small business are liberalized by 25 per cent.

HORNE IS NOW trying to shift part of his program out of straight government financing and into commercial banking channels. He has just announced that if a private bank will take one-fourth of any small business loan of up to $350,000 at whatever interest rate it wishes to charge, the government will take the other three-fourths at 5½ per cent.

Horne is also setting up new small business advisory councils.

Though the big industry BAC formerly functioning under Department of Commerce has come a cropper, SBA wants its regional small business advisory councils already in existence expanded into a system of state councils.

And a new national council made up of the 15 regional council vice charmen holds its first meeting in Washington this month. It will be dedicated to maintaining free enterprise.

'Modus Vivendi' on Berlin Could Shelve or Solve Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—If the Berlin issue were the only one that separated the East and the West today, there would be a comparatively easy way to handle it—at least for several years.

Diplomacy has long held a trump card to play in similar emergencies. This starts with the acceptance by both sides of the proposition that a particular dispute is for the time being unsolvable. Then it is usually proposed that a "modus vivendi" be adopted. This means "a way of living" with the difficulty without actually solving it.

But the procedure is often successful. There have been cases where the controversy in question was ultimately solved with the passage of time and with the later development of a spirit of conciliation. There have been other cases where the problem remained unsolved indefinitely, or at least till some other circumstances arose to bring a new approach.

The Berlin problem is partly a legal and partly an emotional question. It is, of course, related to the ambition of the Communist regime in Moscow to extend its influence and its empire and to keep the two Germanys from being reunited.

A "modus vivendi" need not mean an abandonment of the issues themselves, and it could mean a decision to explore various ways of producing a settlement. Thus, what are the rights of the Western Allies? Have they grown obsolete, as the Communists claim? Do rights disappear just because a few years have elapsed, or are they fundmental and rooted in or implied in written agreements?

World Court Suggested

The United Nations has created a court of international justice. Why couldn't the East and West agree to submit the juridical questions to the World Court?

If such an agreement isn't possible now, then a "modus vivendi" could provide that the status in Berlin prior to August 13—when the East Berlin border was closed—be restored and given an indefinite lease of life while the Soviet government pursues its own policies with respect to East Germany. As President Kennedy said in his speech, it doesn't matter what "paper agreements" the Moscow government makes with the East German government. What does matter is whether the East German government, encouraged by the Soviets, starts to commit acts of aggression and seek to brush aside established right of the United States, Britain and France in West Berlin.

Fundamentally, there are today lots of unsettled questions, including the right of the East German people to "self-determination," but a "modus vivendi" could provide a five-year formula in which to move forward toward the attainment of such an objective.

Basically, the agreement that would be made would mean that both sides agreed to disagree, but at the same time they would agree to bring forward a formula to take care of the immediate future—a way of living meanwhile with the problem and still advancing it toward an eventual solution. Diplomacy is replete with examples of this technique.

Plainly the world doesn't want to see a war over a question that is by some means susceptible of adjudication. But, in saying this, it is also pertinent to note that Berlin is not an isolated issue. There are pressures in Viet Nam, in Laos, and in Africa where the ambitions of the Communist regime in Moscow are producing considerable tension. It may be doubted whether any single issue would block an over-all settlement if there were a genuine desire on both sides for a peaceful result.

Up to now the disarmament question has been lost in a welter of words, with each side sparring for an advantageous position which it considers vital to its own security. The controversy over nuclear testing is part of the general problem of relative military strength as between the East and the West. Back of it all, however, is a mutual distrust. No amount of speechmaking on generalties will of itself build up mutual trust. What's needed is more attention to ways and means of informing peoples everywhere as to the true facts behind the tension in the world.

What each side fears today is that it will be represented before the world as having made a "concession" or that its willingness to "negotiate" may be construed as a willingness to surrender on some vital point. None of this is necessary when a "modus vivendi" is offered and accepted. It simply keeps the existing rights intact for both sides and devises a formula to achieve in five to seven years the over-all objective — a reunified Germany under a government to which all governments in the East and West can accord full diplomatic recognition and which can be universally accepted as a partner in maintaining the peace of the world.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Max Eastman, once an intimate friend and later an enemy of Ernest Hemingway, published in 1959 a discussion of this comic poser and barroom bulldozer which well might have been revised for brevity and concentration when Hemingway died, and allowed to go as his obituary. My own squints were taken from the same angle, but I had never met Hemingway whereas Eastman had known him since the Genoa Conference of 1922. They both attended this political sorrow as precious journalists of a sort who swarmed over the diseased body of Europe in the guise of literary reformers doing think-stuff. Many of them were shallow alcoholics and he-chippies. Their beautiful future is now upon us in the Hell Bomb.

Eastman's tribute to Hemingway begins with a sweet acknowledgment that he was a "magnificent writer." But before he is through he has raised up a pitying monument to idiotic vanity and cheap personal dishonesty and has ridiculed as "bull" the Hairy Ape's infatuation with bullfighting. He finds in Hemingway "a celebration of the religious ecstasy of killing—of killing moreover as a protest against death."

This was all a fake to the antennae of a writer who seems to have been the only one of the cult ever to stand against Hemingway and apparently to give him a licking. So Eastman wrote a piece published in the New Republic in 1933 which saluted "gorgeous pages about bullfights" but qualified this praise by scoffing at an "unconscionable quanity of juvenile, romantic gushing and sentimentalizing of simple facts."

"Why does our iron advocate of straight talk about what things are, our full-sized man, our ferocious realist, go blind and wrap himself in clouds of juvenile romanticism the moment he crosses the border of Spain on the way to a bullfight?" Eastman asked: "It is a common place that Hemingway lacks the serene confidence that he is a full-sized man. Some circumstance seems to have laid upon Hemingway a continual sense of obligation to put forth the evidence of red-blooded masculinity. This trait...has begotten a veritable school of fiction writers, a literary style of wearing false hair on the chest."

This reference pinked Hemingway in a secret misgiving about his he-manliness. It goaded him to attack Eastman in the office of the gentlest and most heartening counsellor of young writers who lived in our time. This was my friend, Max Perkins, of Schribner's, who sat in an office above Fifth Avenue. He was George Spelvin's advocate 25 years ago. Hemingway and Eastman met by chance four years after this publication and, after some circling talk, each with the ruff up Hemingway demanded: "What did you say I was sexually impotent for?"

He opened his shirt, revealing a quite respectable rug, and accused Eastman of a dirty innuendo. He snatched up a copy of Eastman's book, opened it to the lines about red-blooded masculinity and false hair. He jammed the open book against Eastman's face.

Eastman couldn't box but he did know wrestling. By this version, he threw Hemingway on his back across the desk and down on his head on the floor. He said Hemingway smiled up and gave him a pat on the shoulder. He let Hemingway up, but they kins, of Scribner's, who sat in were back to earth for only a second when Hemingway shouting schoolyard insults.

The reader may decide whether Eastman's remarks did seem to impugn Hemingway's virility. But the only important point is that Hemingway thought he had been horribly impugned before the world. Why? That reaction set up an irresistible curiosity in Eastman. He revealed this by a lingering emphasis, though not by any specific comment. To make the wound incurable, the incident got into the papers for a few days and into the morgue envelopes and the lore of licentious literati forever. Hemingway's repartee was to compare Eastman's astonishing feat with the clawing attack of a woman in a brawl. And he said he, himself, didn't do his utmost "just held him off."

Eastman't professional appraisal of Hemingway has ups and downs. But I find him good company where he wrote that Hemingway was renouncing the riches of the language.

"The thing began to seem retograde, an effort to write mature things in the language of a schoolboy."

REGISTRATION DAYS

Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7 are the first two days of registration in the City of Kingston for the general election November 7. The last two registration days are the following Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14. Polls will be open the first three days from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on the final day from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Non-personal registration dates in communities outside Kingston are October 7 when the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. and October 14 from 1 to 10 p. m.

Kingston residents who fail to go to the polls and register on one of the four days will be unable to vote in this general election.

In non-personal areas, new residents should check to make sure their names are on the registration rolls at the place of local registration.

This is an important election both for the citizens of Kingston and for those in the county. In Kingston a mayor, alderman-at-large, city judge and a board of aldermen will be elected. On a county-wide basis, a county judge, district attorney, county treasurer and board of supervisors will be elected.

In addition to these offices, voters will be called upon to decide seven proposed changes to the state constitution.

For the voters of Ulster County there also is a local proposition up for decision. It is a Community College in Ulster County.

The offices, amendments and the establishment of an Ulster County Community College are vital to all citizens. Every eligible voter should make it his business first to register and then vote. The wise course is to plan on registering either the first or second day.

The poet who wanted a house by the side of the road would see plenty of the world go by these days—until his house was razed to make way for a superhighway.

TRICK MAY BACKFIRE

The Communists have found another way to scrape the nerves of West Berlin residents. They have rigged up loudspeakers on the wall that seals off East Berlin. The loudspeakers, directed at West Berlin, blast propaganda and music all day long, beginning at five in the morning.

This is one of the nastier Communist tricks. West Berliners anywhere near the barricades are a captive audience for this blast which the Communists cynically call "the real voice of the German people." The cumulative effect must be enormous.

But the chances are that the cumulative effect will not be precisely what the Communist bosses desire. Human beings rebel at being a captive audience, as witness the public uproar that forced abandonment of plans to have constant music and advertisements broadcast on New York subways some years ago.

Few West Berliners, we think, will be seduced by the steady blatting of propaganda from loudspeakers attached to walls that give the lie to that propaganda. And it will be surprising if, some dark night, a few of the loudspeakers are not shot out by irate burghers who dislike being aroused at 5 a. m. by the "real voice."

For the first time, an Indian tribe is to receive a federal housing loan but only $30,000 is granted for planning. Does the government figure on teepees?

One thing you can say about West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer: he may not be as indispensable as he thinks, but he's certainly durable.

'These Days'

THE NANSEN PASSPORT

It is not usual that a passport is named after a man, but after World War I, when large numbers found themselves homeless and helpless, a technique was evolved to give the stateless a document equivalent to a passport and generally recognized. That was the Nansen passport, named after Fridtjof Nanses whose hundredth anniversary will be celebrated on October 10.

Too few have recognized that perhaps the most frightful result of war is statelessness which to many means homelessness. Villages have disappeared; homes have been burned to the ground; all documents are lost. There is no money. What does one do? Where does he live? Where does he go? Where are his relatives and friends?

To this problem, Fridtjof Nansen devoted his life. A Norwegian, Nansen had gained fame as an explorer. He was the first man to cross Greenland. In 1896, aboard a small ship, the Fram, he set off to reach the North Pole and came closer to it than any man had before him.

Nansen's professions were oceanography and diplomacy. He was the Norwegian Minister to Great Britain and then led a diplomatic mission to the United States. From 1920 until his death, he represented Norway at the League of Nations. It was during those years, he devoted himself to the stateless.

War to Nansen was a human not a military problem and it dealt with individual human beings whose lives were suddenly dislocated and disturbed. As Herbert Hoover was concerned with feeding the starving, Nansen sought to find a home for the homeless, to move masses of people who had become what we now-a-days call refugees to some place where they could live normal lives, look after families, earn a living by their labor and forget the tragic years which uprooted them.

After 1921, when Nansen was appointed High Commissioner for Refugees of the League of Nations, he knew no nationalities, no distinctions between man and man. He only knew that human beings were struggling to survive as persons and that it was his task to help them. The Nansen passport was accepted by more than 50 governments and many distinguished persons had no other document.

The Nobel Prize was awarded Nansen in 1932 as universal recognition of his labors for the hungry and homeless. There have been too few men like Nansen in our times — too few who lived utterly selfless lives and who devoted themselves wholly to the welfare of those who had been abandoned or for those who could not adjust to the startling changes of this age.

The refugee problem is still with us. All over the world there are refugees from war and revolution and their numbers increase. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees has taken on Nansen's noble work. Such countries as Australia and Canada, which need population, open their doors to refugees from all European countries, but we shall soon have a problem of African refugees which will not be so readily solvable.

The 100th anniversary of Nansen's birth to be celebrated on October 10 is a good date to give thought to this problem of man's inhumanity to man. It is a time to think this problem out.

War does not only destroy; it cripples; it leaves men and women helpless. Its greatest cost is homelessness and it is that problem that neither the conqueror nor the vanquished can do much about. The conqueror is distrusted. Besides, he usually has contempt for those whom he conquered. Pity is a rare quality. On the other hand, the vanquished is stunned by the results of war. Often there are marginal peoples, like Armenians, who are wiped out in large number by each conqueror, perhaps because they die on the highroads of an empire.

For the remote, the distant homeless, we may contribute a few dollars to buy food, but that does not solve their problem, for what they require is a home, a hearth for the family, a place to give birth and a place to die with dignity. For what else is there to the life of man? Whether one is a pauper or a millionaire, these are the ultimate requirements of life. Beyond these there are only degrees of advantage. Less than these is not only poverty but penury.

Out of World War I came two men who understood that it was not geography that moved men; it is a smaller unit — the home and the family. These two men were Fridtjof Nansen and Herbert Hoover.

Role of Sugar in Causing Cavities in Your Teeth

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you enjoy toothaches from dental cavities, get a big bang out of dental drills, have money to burn on useless dentrifices and mouth washes and derive real pleasure from paying dentists' bills, don't bother to read on.

But if, like others of us, you'd prefer to save yourself from discomfort, pain and expense, perhaps you won't mind devoting a few minutes of your time to a study of problems related to dental hygiene as presented before a symposium arranged by the AMA Council on Foods and Nutrition, the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Massachusetts Dental Society.

Here, in brief, are some of the conclusions reached by the various speakers as the result of studies carried out at the National Institutes of Health and at Rochester, Harvard and Toronto Universities:

Many dental characteristics are determined by inheritance. Some of these characteristics that invite cavities are the large size of a tooth and/or the presence of deep pits and cracks (fissures). Thus, susceptibility to cavity formation is greatest in the largest tooth whose surface is most pitted and fissured. Hence it is these teeth that require the earliest and most intensive measures of prevention.

Tooth decay is caused by the action of a wide variety of bacteria. There is no one particular cavity-producing species.

These bacteria have at least one property in common, their dependence on sugar for their maintenance and growth. Stated otherwise, unless there is available sugar in the mouth where cavity-producing bacteria set up housekeeping, tooth decay does not occur.

The combined effects of available sugar and cavity-producing bacteria become most apparent when the flow of saliva is sharply reduced. But, since salivary flow is least influenced by measures of prevention, attention is best directed to a reduction in the amount of sugar that's made available to cavity-producing bacteria.

If the sugar of the diet is fed by stomach tube to experimental animals, dental decay does not occur. To nourish cavity-producing bacteria, the carbohydrate of the diet must be present in saliva and particularly in food that's deposited between teeth and/or in pits and fissures on the surface of the teeth. Hence, the sugar of caramels, sticky candy, chocolate bars, fig cookies, pastry semisolid desserts, bread and ice cream are greater threats to dental health than the same amount of carbohydrate taken as sweetened beverages, fruit drinks or fruits themselves.

And the cavity-producing effects of carbohydrates attain their peaks when the sweet is eaten as a between-meal or bedtime snack.

Washington News

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, (NEA) — Amendments to the Small Business Act of 1958 just approved by Congress are expected to increase greatly the Small Business Administration programs to promote economic growth and decrease unemployment.

A PRINCIPAL EXPANSION will come in loans to small business investment companies. SBA's authority to buy debentures of a local investment company is being stepped up from $150,000 to $400,000. It is also authorized to loan up to 50 per cent of a local company's capital and surplus. This will enable such a company to start with $1.2 million.

The local investment companies are being given authority to make loans of up to $500,000 without SBA approval from Washington. But SBA procedures for enforcing compliance with regulations has been strengthened.

SBA may now suspend charters of companies whose affairs are out of order.

In a separate measure, SBA is being given additional authority to work with Department of Defense and General Services Administration to obtain more subcontracting for small business from the government's prime contractors.

This new authorization is the result of Congressional disapproval of Department of Defense for giving 84 per cent of its prime contracts to big business corporations.

Congress is also giving Small Business Administration $250 million more money for its job.

Subject to final appropriations on which there is little doubt, Congress has authorized an increase of $150 million for the business loan program. This brings the total of $725 million.

THE DISASTER LOAN authorization is being increased by $25 million to a total of $150 million. This program permits loans to small business firm displaced by federal construction of highways, urban renewal projects or other public works.

The small business investment company authorization is being increased by $75 million to a total of $325 million.

This makes the total lending authority available to Small Business Administration in revolving funds $1.2 billion.

Actual funds appropriated have already been stepped up by $20 million this year. Pending in a final supplemental bill still before Congress is another $130 million appropriation. This would make total funding $890 million to date.

THIS INCREASE in financing reflects the rapidly increasing SBA activites under its new admnistrator, John E. Horne, former administrative assistant to Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Soon after taking office in February, he sent letters to 8,000 local chambers of commerce and development companes to promote his agency.

He got a heavy reply. SBA field offices were then put to work on prospects.

The Area Redevelopment Act of 1961 then gave SBA two new jobs to do. Department of Commerce assigned it full responsibility for making small business loans in depressed areas. And Department of Agrculture delegated to SBA the making of small business loans for rural depressed areas.

Any such area in which Labor Department now reports unemployment higher than 6 per cent automatically becomes eligible for SBA loans at 4 per cent instead of the normal 5½ per cent. Also, standards for determining what constitutes a small business are liberalized by 25 per cent.

HORNE IS NOW trying to shift part of his program out of straight government financing and into commercial banking channels. He has just announced that if a private bank will take one-fourth of any small business loan of up to $350,000 at whatever interest rate it wishes to charge, the government will take the other three-fourths at 5½ per cent.

Horne is also setting up new small business advisory councils.

Though the big industry BAC formerly functioning under Department of Commerce has come a cropper, SBA wants its regional small business advisory councils already in existence expanded into a system of state councils.

And a new national council made up of the 15 regional council vice charmen holds its first meeting in Washington this month. It will be dedicated to maintaining free enterprise.

Eastman't professional appraisal of Hemingway has ups and downs. But I find him good company where he wrote that Hemingway was renouncing the riches of the language.

"The thing began to seem retrograde, an effort to write mature things in the language of a schoolboy."

And this, remember, was 28 years ago.

Merchants Plan Exposition of Christmas Items

NEW PALTZ — A preview Christmas shopping exposition is being planned by the New Paltz Chamber of Commerce for some time in November.

Participating merchants will display items for gift shoppers at a central location according to the plan presented by Walter Offerman, secretary manager of the chamber.

At the last meeting the need for enforcement of town and village ordinances regulating peddling were discussed. It was voted to ask town and village to put up signs warning peddlers of the need for permits and asking the village police to enforce such ordinances.

The chamber board of directors reported on a recent meeting with Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson. Among the problems Mr. Wilson spoke about were the various state agencies gradually taking more and more property off the village and town rolls, the delay in freight and express parcels coming into New Paltz; some of the traffic and ordinance problems in which state highways are involved, and the need for regulations requiring the Board of Cooperative Education. At services to submit bids for building construction as required by other agencies under state jurisdiction.

The directors said that Mr. Wilson was very frank and cooperative at the meeting and promised to look into matters which need clarification and adjustment.

Also discussed at this meeting was the Christmas lighting program which the chamber sponsors each year. It was decided that last year's arrangement would be duplicated this year. Members also voted to ask the village board to cover the parking meters during the last week of Christmas shopping and to purchase the printed bags for this purpose.

Chest Campaign Starts Oct. 4th

Plans for the community chest drive which starts locally Oct. 4 were outlined at a recent meeting at the office of William Haggerty, president of the State University College of Education here.

Attending were Robert Davidson, Harold Wood, Herman Glanz, Jay LeFevre, and the Rev. Dudley Bennett, local community chest chairman.

The local community chest committee, under the direction of the Rev. Mr. Bennett, is a member of the Ulster County Community Chest which is affiliated with the national fund raising organization, and is licensed by the State of New York. The budget for the community of New Paltz is set at $5,500. Seven organizations will benefit from the local drive. They are Cerebral Palsy Foundation, Gateway Industries, AHRC, Salvation Army, USO, and Girl and Boy Scouts.

The local campaign organization is divided into the following divisions with the following leaders:

Financial Division, Alan Lawton; commercial, William Lorenzen and Jay LeFevre Jr.; residential, Mrs. Benjamin Matteson Jr.; advanced gifts, Richard Lent; industrial, Richard Fall and Charles Nation.

The film, Much Like Us, produced for the local drive, is being scheduled and shown in New Paltz by Mrs. Bruce Conklin and her aids.

Boy Scout Notes

Boy Scout Troop 74 began its fall meetings recently at the local VFW Post. It was decided at the meeting that the troop will aid in the distribution of leaflets and other material for the community chest drive.

In order to raise enough money to recharter the troop, it held a Work Weekend last week. The work included doing odd jobs for anyone in the community. All money earned was turned into the treasury.

The yearly program of the troop meetings will include a winter camp-out at Trimount, a dance with the local Girl Scout Troop, as well as trips to Stewart Air Force Base, the New Jersey Boy Scout Museum, and West Point. Also included in the year's program will be a board of review, a court of honor, and a basketball game.

Girl Scout Notes

Announcement has been made by Mrs. Frank Power, Girl Scout chairman of the New Paltz Neighborhood, of the appointment of Mrs. Paul Steiner to the neighborhood service team as intermediate consultant.

Mrs. Steiner has served as an intermediate troop leader in the New Paltz area for two previous years. This year she will be replacing Mrs. Richard Jones who is away for the year. Other members of the service team are Mrs. Charles Van Alst, intermediate troop organizer; Mrs. Anthony Ciazza, Brownie consultant, and Mrs. Clement Lepine, Brownie organizer.

Girl Scout Troop 112 will meet today in Room 10 of the Education Building of the Reformed Church from 3:45 to 4:45 p. m.

Other intermediate Girl Scouts in the New Paltz area will resume their weekly meetings the last week of September and the first week in October. Girls will be contacted by their leaders as to the time and place of meetings, and the complete schedule will be announced when the final arrangements are complete.

The local Brownie troops will begin meetings this week also. Troop leaders will notify the girls about meeting places and times, which are expected to be the same as last year in most cases. Final plans were made at a leader's meeting on last Tuesday afternoon and at the home of Mrs. Ciazza, Brownie consultant. Two new Brownie Troops are being started this fall under the leadership of Mrs. Ben Lardiere and Mrs. Arthur McCord Jr.

Girl Scout and Brownie leaders and troop consultants of district 4 which includes the New Paltz Neighborhood, as well as Wallkill, Highland and Marlboro, met last Thursday in the Fireside Room of the Reformed Church Education, Building Huguenot Street.

Mrs. Sue Abramsky, Ulster County program director, conducted a workshop on programming. The group also discussed plans for the 50th birthday anniversary of Girl Scouting, to be celebrated next March. Plans are in the making for planting yellow-flowering spring bulbs this fall in public places. Since many yellow bulbs will be required, anyone with bulbs to donate may contact Mrs. Anthony Ciazza.

The motto for special anniversary is Honor the Past and Serve the Future, early settlement maps, and other historical study during this period.

NEW YORK (AP)—The troubled times emphasized by President Kennedy in his speech to the United Nations still haven't ruffled noticeably U.S. business planning on the world scene.

Private investment dollars are still pouring abroad. And sales of foreign branches of U.S. firms are rising faster than exports of goods produced here.

Gains Offset Loses

Both the foreign host nations and the American corporations doing the investing are reported still happy on the whole. Gains in friendly lands, such as in Western Europe, have more than offset losses in unfriendly ones, such as Cuba.

Two top executives of the U. S. oil industry—which has been having a bit more than its share of troubles of late—take a look at different aspects of foreign investments.

One stresses the outpouring of U.S. government aid and the rising competition of foreign products here. The other reminds the host nations that while U.S. investments abroad are reaping harvests of sales and earnings, the foreign lands are gaining too, and in more ways than one.

The second view is expounded by M. J. Rathbone, president of Jersey Standard Oil, in Buenos Aires for the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Jersey's affiliate in Argentina.

Reminder to Argentina

The American reminds the Argentine government that until a few years ago it was spending over a quarter of a billion dollars a year in foreign exchange to pay for oil imports. Then it started welcoming U.S. capital for exploration and development. By the end of this year, Argentina should be self-sufficient in oil for the first time in its modern history.

"Many countries," Rathbone points out, "have found that arrangements with private oil companies give them a stake in one of the world's biggest gambles—entirely without capital cost to the country."

Another side of American involvement abroad is taken up by John E. Swearingen, president of Indiana Standard Oil. Speaking in Fort Worth to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association on the impact of government on business, he takes a look at U.S. government assistance to other lands.

"From July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1960, the United States made available to foreign nations a sum of nearly $86 billion in various types of foreign assistance, grants and loans," Swearingen notes.

Even after all types of repayment and returns of grants have been considered, by June 30, 1962, "our net foreign assistance program will represent the astronomical sum of $86.5 billion," he said.

Competition to Be Stronger

Then he notes one prospect on which the oil industry has had a good foretaste—Soviet competition. The oilman warns that "as the years go by, the American economy will be forced to compete with the state-controlled economy of the Soviet Union in many areas of the world."

Swearingen pleads for less government interference with private business so that it can grow and expand—to be strong enough, for one thing, to beat off increasing Soviet competition.

Now for the first time you can choose gasoline realistically rated to make your car run stronger, last longer, keep younger!

The Octane Mistake. Yes, Octane rating measures only 2 of the things your car needs in a gasoline . . . 2 very important qualities dealing with anti-knock. The result is that many people make the Octane Mistake . . . buy gasoline high in Octane but lacking in many of the other brilliant advances made by science. These advances can truly give you a cleaner motor, quicker starting, less stalling, more mileage and power.

Megatane measures total performance. Recognizing this Octane Mistake, Mobil engineers now measure and express gasoline quality in a rating system which enables you to judge not just Octane but the total performance of your gasoline.

This new rating system is called Megatane. It includes Octane, of course, but goes far beyond Octane to measure not just 2, but all 21, of the qualities that Mobil engineers believe should be found in today's ideal gasoline.*

Mobil gets highest Megatane ratings. Of course, the ideal Megatane rating of 21 has not yet been achieved by anyone...not even Mobil. But when you drive into your Mobil station, you will find new Mobil Premium that rates higher on the Megatane scale (19 out of 21) than any leading Premium. New Mobil Regular, with 16 out of 21, rates higher than any leading Regular gasoline.

At first, the difference may not be apparent to you. Your car will probably not leap like a gazelle from a standing start. But never forget this: Five, ten, twenty thousand miles from now, your motor will know the difference...in more mileage, less loss of power, less harmful deposits, easier starting, longer prime of life. For the higher the Megatane rating, the better your motor will run!

To Ask Governor About Loss on Property Values

By ROBERT T. GRAY

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Loss of real estate values as a result of construction of the Niagara Power Project was among problems civic leaders listed for discussion with Gov. Rockefeller today.

A prominent Republican said that this resort-industrial city was proud of being the site of the largest power project in the free world but was worried over loss of the real estate revenues.

The civic leaders planned to comment on the taxes and other problems with the governor who arrived here Tuesday night for a 3-day visit to Western New York.

Land and facilities of the state-sponsored, $720 million power project and related highways, parks and other improvements, are not subject to local real estate taxes.

As a result, land used for the developments have been removed from the tax rolls, along with the properties cleared from the site.

About 100 persons greeted Rockefeller when he arrived at Niagara Falls airport from New York City aboard his private plane.

Several member of his cabinet and other aides accompanied him.

The visit is the fourth in a series Rockefeller is making to upstate cities to help Republican candidates in local elections and boost his own administration.

Busy Schedule

His schedule today, in addition to the meeting with civic leaders, included a visit to Niagara County offices at nearby Lockport, a luncheon with the Lockport Junior Chamber of Commerce, a speech to a carpenters' convention and a tour of the power project and other public facilities in the county.

Tonight, the governor will go to Buffalo for two days of intensive, campaign - like activity in the state's second largest city.

He will speak tonight at a dinner of several planning groups.

To Meet Mahoney

The governor is expected to meet privately Thursday with Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo to discuss the area political situation.

Buffalo Republicans are optimistic about winning the mayoral election this year because of a split in Democratic ranks.

Lost to Democrats

The GOP suffered setbacks last November when Erie and Niagara County went Democratic in Presidential balloting and Democrats captured two Assembly seats from the GOP.

Rockefeller's activity on his Upstate visits also is directed to his bid for reelection next year.

If he succeeds, as most observers now believe he will, the governor is expected to bid for the Republican nomination for President in 1964.

Kremlin Assailed

city's communications would have to be underwritten by what Gromyko described as "appropriate agreements" with Communist East Germany. The West does not recognize the East German regime and insists on its own rights in Berlin.

Suggests U.N. Role

However, Gromyko suggested the United Nations might take a role in West Berlin to help avoid conflict. Delegates noted that in discussing possibilities for the future status of Berlin, Gromyko said the Russians would agree to "the use of troop contingents of neutral states or United Nations troops as guarantors of the status of the free city."

This created the impression that Gromyko was laying the groundwork for bringing the Berlin problem before the United Nations if negotiations with the West collapse.

Apparently the Russians feel they can marshal the votes among the nonaligned nations to support their position if the tension builds sufficiently.

Many delegates felt that Gromyko's 1-hour and 45-minute speech contained little new, although there were some signs of giving ground. Neutrals felt encouraged by what they viewed as a moderate tone.

Ignores New Program

Gromyko ignored the new U.S. step-by-step disarmament program but produced all the standard Soviet objections to its main premise—that disarmament must be inspected, verified and controlled. He said such control would only benefit Western military leaders and serve as espionage for them.

Not only did Gromyko reject Kennedy's appeal for an immediate nuclear test ban treaty—he wants the question lumped with all disarmament problems—but he defended the Soviet resumption of tests.

"The Soviet Union is compelled to do this by the actions of the NATO powers," Gromyko said.

Gromyko touched only briefly on the question of filling the vacuum caused by Hammarskjold's death. He demanded that the Security Council—where the Soviets can veto any candidate—take up the problem first and solve it "on the basis corresponding to the actual situation in the world."

This is the Soviet phrase meaning a three-man board of Communist, neutral and Western representatives, each with a veto.

Several hours later the Soviets came up with a slight shift from Premier Khrushchev's original "troika" proposal. They suggested appointing one top official for the U. N. secretariat with three deputies. They would have to agree on all decisions, thus giving each a veto. The top official would be only a figurehead.

France Is Weak Link In the Chain of NATO

PARIS (NEA)—It is a great tragedy that at this crucial moment in the history of the West, French President de Gaulle, one of Europe's ablest statesman, heads a divided nation hovering on the brink of civil war.

The Berlin crisis has largely obscured the critical situation in France. Yet even perennial diplomatic optimists can no longer ignore the fact that as the West maneuvers for negotiations with Premier Khrushchev over Berlin, France is a dangerously weak link in NATO's chain of defense against Soviet aggression.

Khrushchev, of course, is aware of the internal situation of one of NATO's major powers. His Communist fifth columns help to sow confusion and chaos in France.

The ordinary Frenchman, like the ordinary West Berliner, is by now used to trouble and political upset. He takes them in his stride. Paris is an armed camp guarded by gendarmes and special troops with machine guns. But outwardly the city is calm. In the brilliant autumn sun the open air cafes are crowded as usual.

But underneath the surface calm there is increasing fear of civil strife. "Who will come after De Gaulle?" the man-in-the-street asks.

Rightists, bitterly opposed to De Gaulle's "conciliatory" Algerian policy, proclaim openly that only the removal of the French president could open their way to victory.

"As long as De Gaulle lives there can be no successful coup in France," a leader of the secret OAS organization told me. "Only if De Gaulle is removed will Algeria remain French," he said.

Ex-General Raoul Salan who is groomed by the rightists as De Gaulle's successor recently wrote bluntly to the French president from his Algerian hideout:

"We are determined to continue the underground battle for the defense of France's national integrity. Our grim determination will lead us to victory sooner or later."

The evil that gnaws at the vitals of France, as the Paris newspaper Le Monde commented, "goes well beyond political opposition." Gen. de Gaulle, said the paper editorially, made a mistake in contemptuously dismissing the recent rightist attempt on his life as "a joke in bad taste."

At the most critical period in France's and Europe's history De Gaulle finds himself a lonely man surrounded by weaklings and backslappers.

He can no longer rely on the French army and air force. Even the loyalty of the police is suspect.

At the same time, De Gaulle has caused anxiety among pro-democratic Frenchmen by his pose of isolation and open contempt for the National Assembly. He has alienated the farmers and labor. He has made no attempt to revive democratic political life.

De Gaulle's death would plunge France into a civil war which could result only in a Communist or Fascist dictatorship.

Maris Postpones Bid for 61 HR, Takes Day Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris, who hit his 60th home run of the season Tuesday night, postponed his bid for No. 61 by taking the day off as the New York Yankees met the Baltimore Orioles.

The blond bomber has been saying all along that he wanted to take a day off to rest and ease the tension of his efforts to set a home run record.

Neither Maris nor his Yankee home run twin, Mickey Mantle, were in the lineups posted today by Manager Ralph Houk.

"I'm just bushed," said Maris in explaining why he wouldn't play today. "I think it's for my best interests and for the club's best interests for me to take a rest. Right now we've got to think of the World Series."

Maris disclosed that he has a kink in his back. He said he got it in batting practice before Tuesday night's game.

"It's right between the shoulder blades," said Roger. "But it's nothing."

To Ask Governor About Loss on Property Values

By ROBERT T. GRAY

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Loss of real estate values as a result of construction of the Niagara Power Project was among problems civic leaders listed for discussion with Gov. Rockefeller today.

A prominent Republican said that this resort-industrial city was proud of being the site of the largest power project in the free world but was worried over loss of the real estate revenues.

The civic leaders planned to comment on the taxes and other problems with the governor who arrived here Tuesday night for a 3-day visit to Western New York.

Land and facilities of the state-sponsored, $720 million power project and related highways, parks and other improvements, are not subject to local real estate taxes.

As a result, land used for the developments have been removed from the tax rolls, along with the properties cleared from the site.

About 100 persons greeted Rockefeller when he arrived at Niagara Falls airport from New York City aboard his private plane.

Several member of his cabinet and other aides accompanied him.

The visit is the fourth in a series Rockefeller is making to upstate cities to help Republican candidates in local elections and boost his own administration.

Busy Schedule

His schedule today, in addition to the meeting with civic leaders, included a visit to Niagara County offices at nearby Lockport, a luncheon with the Lockport Junior Chamber of Commerce, a speech to a carpenters' convention and a tour of the power project and other public facilities in the county.

Tonight, the governor will go to Buffalo for two days of intensive, campaign - like activity in the state's second largest city.

He will speak tonight at a dinner of several planning groups.

To Meet Mahoney

The governor is expected to meet privately Thursday with Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo to discuss the area political situation.

Buffalo Republicans are optimistic about winning the mayoral election this year because of a split in Democratic ranks.

Lost to Democrats

The GOP suffered setbacks last November when Erie and Niagara County went Democratic in Presidential balloting and Democrats captured two Assembly seats from the GOP.

Rockefeller's activity on his Upstate visits also is directed to his bid for reelection next year.

If he succeeds, as most observers now believe he will, the governor is expected to bid for the Republican nomination for President in 1964.

Kremlin Assailed

city's communications would have to be underwritten by what Gromyko described as "appropriate agreements" with Communist East Germany. The West does not recognize the East German regime and insists on its own rights in Berlin.

Suggests U.N. Role

However, Gromyko suggested the United Nations might take a role in West Berlin to help avoid conflict. Delegates noted that in discussing possibilities for the future status of Berlin, Gromyko said the Russians would agree to "the use of troop contingents of neutral states or United Nations troops as guarantors of the status of the free city."

This created the impression that Gromyko was laying the groundwork for bringing the Berlin problem before the United Nations if negotiations with the West collapse.

Maris Postpones Bid for 61 HR, Takes Day Off

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris, who hit his 60th home run of the season Tuesday night, postponed his bid for No. 61 by taking the day off as the New York Yankees met the Baltimore Orioles.

The blond bomber has been saying all along that he wanted to take a day off to rest and ease the tension of his efforts to set a home run record.

Neither Maris nor his Yankee home run twin, Mickey Mantle, were in the lineups posted today by Manager Ralph Houk.

"I'm just bushed," said Maris in explaining why he wouldn't play today. "I think it's for my best interests and for the club's best interests for me to take a rest. Right now we've got to think of the World Series."

Maris disclosed that he has a kink in his back. He said he got it in batting practice before Tuesday night's game.

"It's right between the shoulder blades," said Roger. "But it's nothing."

matter of FACT

Crocodiles really do shed "crocodile tears" when they devour large victims. But there's no sentiment involved. Just as our eyes water after a big yawn, a crocodile's eyes water when his jaws are forced open.

Too Fat Under Old Plan?

Senator Questions Diet for Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., says more than 48,000 cans of a concentrated diet substitute have been shipped to South Viet Nam under the foreign aid program.

"Who says our foreign aid program of feeding the undeveloped peoples of the world has not been a success?" said Williams in a statement Tuesday. "Apparently now the International Cooperation Administration finds it necessary to put them on a diet on the basis that they have been getting too fat on Uncle Sam's generosity."

An ICA spokesman said South Viet Nam had been asked for a refund of the $4,000 purchase price before Williams raised a question about the matter.

Noting that the product can be used as a diet supplement in cases of malnutrition, the ICA spokesman said the purchase might be proper if South Viet Nam can show that it was bought for a legitimate therapeutic use.

Focus on Health In Science Field

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Danger at home for unwatched children, marrying cousins in Japan, and the great American sick call are subjects for focus on health:

Danger at Home

Mother, if you're holding down a job and have young children at home, beware!

A study shows that children of working mothers are more likely to become accidentally poisoned by swallowing drugs, cosmetics, insecticides or other dangerous household chemicals. In over 460 cases, 80 per cent involved children of working mothers.

Other findings: peak age of danger was 29 months. Boys were more often the victims than girls. Aspirin and other drugs were the poison agents in two-thirds of the cases. Peak danger hours were between 10 a.m. and noon, between 3 and 5 p.m. Danger areas were the kitchen, bedroom and the bathroom.

Kissing Cousins

Is there danger for offspring of marriages between first or second cousins?

University of Michigan geneticists have made a study of such blood line marriages in Japan. They say, "While we are not recommending that you marry your cousin, in Japan, at least, the results are not as bad as people thought." The study, growing out of earlier work with atomic bomb victims in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, traced the death rates of children from blood line marriages.

Sick Call

The average American lost 16 days from work or other usual activity due to illness or injury in the year ended June 30, 1960.

Six of those days were spent in bed, the U.S. Public Health Service reports. Geographically, the lowest number of lost days were reported in the north central United States, the most in the South.

Women lost more time than men. The higher income groups lost less time than the low income groups.

Northeast Says Air Merger Off

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — The proposed acquisition of Northeast Airlines by Mohawk, Eastern and National Airlines is off, the president of Northeast says.

James W. Austin, Northeast head, said "no merger is now pending."

The three airlines had proposed to the Civil Aeronautics Board that National and Eastern take over Northeast's New York-Florida traffic and that Mohawk take over service between New York and New England.

Austin, at a meeting of the Maine Air Service Committee Tuesday, said the merger never was proposed directly to Northeast officials.

In another development, Mohawk received permission to try out a "group travel development plant" to stimulate air travel.

The CAB granted the Utica, N.Y.-based carrier permission to provide free travel to individuals who organize, obtain tickets for and travel with groups of at least 15 persons paying regular fares.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

It is strange how some 300 years back people thought as they do today, yet so much happened. This strange 600-page book of old documents about New Netherlands, our section here, tells much that I feel, is of interest today.

For instance a short time ago, I mentioned their description of weather, the hurricanes, the change of so quickly from hot to cold and from cold to hot, as has happened recently, from the 90 degree humid weather, to 65. The Dutchmen mentioned it in the old documents of the 1600's.

Here is an item from "the Proposed Articles for the Colonization and Trade of New Netherland, from the original in the Royal Archives, at the Hague; File, West Indie." I feel this in interesting to read at election time.

It reads in part. (dated 1638) "No public servants, whether director, councillors, military commanders, commissaries, skippers, nor any others in the receipt of ordinary wages from the company, shall, unless permitted so to do, be at liberty to carry on any trade either for themselves, or as factors, or on commission for others, much less undertake any farms or bouweries; but be content with their ordinary wages. And if they happen to transgress herein, they shall immediately be deprived of such offices and qualities as they may be invested with, and forfeit, moreover, their earned monthly wages and any purchased lands and goods which may be discovered contrary to this article in their possession, or the value thereof, should they have traded or conveyed those away; and the respective officers and justices are commanded to enforce the execution hereof, without any connivance."

It seems they believed in free enterprise. Item 12, page 113 reads in part: "in case any person shall discover or find any minerals, whether gold, silver or base metals, precious stones, crystals, marble, or such like, they shall, if discovered on the finder's own land, remain his property, on returning, after five years, one-fifth part of the proceeds, without deducting any of the expenses; . . ." going back to Company.

Perhaps No. 9 aided the building of our local ship-industry. It read in part:

"The inhabitants shall be at liberty to build there for themselves, or for such others as shall instruct or commission them thereunto, all descriptions of craft, either large or small, and with such vessels and no others, ascend and descend all rivers, and prosecute there their lawful trade and barter, as well as trade therewith along the entire coast, from Florida to Newfoundland.

"And in case they happen, in the course of such voyage, to take any of the enemy's ships, they shall bring such to the place of residence of the director there, to be by him distributed, or send hither: (meaning old country) one-third part for the benefit of the company, and two-thirds for the captor, provided, if the prize come over here, the proper share for the company shall be first deducted."

Setting up laws for a new country, so far away from home was no doubt difficult, but in the long run it certainly worked out fine. We have changed along with the times, but yet when going back several hundred years, one meets the wisdom of those old-timers and one realizes how they could see into the future.

Perhaps No. 9 aided the building of our local ship-industry. It read in part:

"The inhabitants shall be at liberty to build there for themselves, or for such others as shall instruct or commission them thereunto, all descriptions of craft, either large or small, and with such vessels and no others, ascend and descend all rivers, and prosecute there their lawful trade and barter, as well as trade therewith along the entire coast, from Florida to Newfoundland.

"And in case they happen, in the course of such voyage, to take any of the enemy's ships, they shall bring such to the place of residence of the director there, to be by him distributed, or send hither: (meaning old country) one-third part for the benefit of the company, and two-thirds for the captor, provided, if the prize come over here, the proper share for the company shall be first deducted."

Setting up laws for a new country, so far away from home was no doubt difficult, but in the long run it certainly worked out fine. We have changed along with the times, but yet when going back several hundred years, one meets the wisdom of those old-timers and one realizes how they could see into the future.

Use of Parking Lots Increases, Officers Chosen

A report made at the annual stockholders meeting of Senate Parking, Inc., operators of the Senate House parking lot on Fair Street and Clinton Avenue, indicates the public took advantage of the uptown parking facilities on a far larger scale during the past year.

In a report to the stockholders a 20 per cent increase in use of the lot was indicated and a large increase in use of the "Park and Shop" tickets issued by uptown stores which display the "Park and Shop" sign on their door, was also reported.

Stores which display the free "Park and Shop" sign on their door issue free tickets to customers who use the lot. A report indicated more of the free parking tickets were validated during 1961 than the previous year, indicating that more people are taking advantage of the free parking service offered by the uptown merchants who participate in the program.

At the board of director's meeting held Monday evening at the court house, Christopher D. Morris was elected president, succeeding Adrian Kaplan. The board of directors met immediately following the stockholders' meeting.

Elected first vice-president was Oscar London; second vice-president, Clyde E. Wonderly; treasurer, Francis H. Kolts and secretary, Herbert J. Kletske.

Pledges Argentine Help

Foster is a former foreign aid administrator and assistant secretary of defense.

Kennedy promised U.S. support of efforts by Argentina to raise living standards for "all the people" of that country. He said the United States will consider applications for aid as rapidly as possible.

Kennedy's exchange of views with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi at a conference in New York City was summarized in a communique issued here.

Navy officers and Rhode Island dignitaries headed by Gov. John Notte welcomed the Kennedys at Quonset Naval Air Station. A tire blew out on the Air Force prop plane that brought them here as it taxied after landing, but the President was unperturbed.

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and other industrials were in the forefront of a stock market advance late this afternoon in moderate trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 249.60 with industrials up 1.50, and both rails and utilities up .30.

Gains of fractions to a point among key stocks outbalanced losers.

Fairly substantial gains were posted for some electrical equipments, chemicals, aluminums and electronics.

Utilities and oils also were higher but gains were rather small.

Montgomery Ward and Interstate Department Stores gyrated amid reports of merger talks.

Trading was halted in Montgomery Ward under a wave of selling. An initial gain was erased and it showed a loss of ⅜ at 31⅝ when dealings stopped.

Montgomery Ward reopened on a block of 10,000 shares, up ½ at 32½.

Ford, on a renewed talk on a possible stock split, rose 1½ to 102 on a 4,000-share block, holding most of the gain in later trades. Chrysler also was up about a point while other motors added fractions.

Gains exceeding 4 points were made by Beckman Instruments and Texas Instruments. International Business Machines added about 8.

Up a point or so were Aluminium Ltd., Union Carbide, U.S. Gypsum and Litton Industries. Xerox gained about 2.

Ulster Cancer Group Joins In Fund Canvass on Sunday

American Cancer Society Volunteer researchers will begin ringing doorbells on Sunday, Oct. 1 in this area in a continuation of the society's cancer prevention study, the most extensive investigation of its kind ever attempted in the history of medicine, according to Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, county unit president

The aim of the study, launched two years ago by the American Cancer Society, is to uncover any cancer-causing factors in the general habits and surroundings of individuals and through a six year period of follow-up to learn more about the signs or symptoms which precede the appearance of cancer. The ultimate objective is to prevent the disease by eliminating exposure to known cancer producing factors.

2,000 Make Survey

The 2,000 individuals in Ulster County, who have enrolled in the study will be requested to fill out brief questionnaire cards this fall. These confidential questionnaires deal with personal illness and air pollution. One hundred twenty-five volunteers are serving as researchers for the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur Freeman. county director.

The volunteer researchers here are part of an army of 3,535 volunteers throughout the 54 counties that comprise the Society's New York State Division, having enrolled a total of 54,927 persons. The American Cancer Society has reported that 99 per cent of the 1,000,000 persons enrolled in the study nationally were successfully traced in 1960 by 70,000 volunteer researchers.

Research officials indicate that approximately 43.6 per cent of these enrolled are men and 56.4 per cent are women. Total figures show that 2 per cent of all Americans between the ages of 45 and 59 are enrolled in the Study.

Urges Cooperation

Mrs. Freeman today urged the cooperation of all individuals enrolled here in helping to make the Cancer Prevention Study a continued success.

Participants will be asked to answer the following questions: Were you living here in 1959? Location of your home: country, outskirts of town, center of town. Is your home in an area with heavy air pollution from factories, power plants, refineries, etc.? Do you work in such an area (i. e. heavy air pollution)? How many hours a week are you in automobiles, buses or trucks? Do you now smoke cigarettes? If yes, how many cigarettes do you usually smoke a day? What brand do you usually smoke? Have you ever been vaccinated against: smallpox, tetanus, polio, diphtheria? Have you been hospitalized at any time since Oct. 1, 1959? Have you had a surgical operation since Oct. 1, 1959? Have you ever had cancer? If yes, what type of cancer? Date of first treatment. Have you had any other serious diseases since Oct. 1, 1959?

Favors Tri-Mount New Dining Hall

Executive Board approval of definite plans to construct a dining hall at the Camp Tri Mount Scout Reservation in East Jewitt was obtained Tuesday evening at the meeting of the governing body of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

In the talk stage for many years, the need for a dining hall at the scout camp to replace the present converted barn was brought to the attention of the board by Johan Aalto, former president of the council and a member of the camp committee.

Presenting an eight-point "recommended program of action," Aalto stressed the need of new dining hall facilities and accompanied his remarks with an engineering plan drawn to the specifications of nationally-approved dining halls.

The proposed building, to be used as a combination dining hall and recreational building, will accommodate 250 boys and leaders for meals. Dimensions call for a building approximately 90 feet in length with a 40 foot square addition to house kitchen and storage facilities.

Donations from interested citizens, particularly in Greene County where the scout camp is located, have already been received, and initial steps to begin construction of the hall are being prepared, according to a Scout official.

Girls Still Missing

Search continued for two Highland girls, missing from their Chodikee Lake home since last Saturday. Miss Ella Cole, a relative, said no word had been received from Pamela Doss, 16, and her sister, Bylle Gayle, 14. State police at Highland sent out a 13-state alarm reporting the girls missing.

Two Detectives Getting New York School Training

GURNSEY BURGER

WILLIAM SLOVER

Persistent effort in recent years by Police Chief Robert F. Murphy to gain for local officers the same training experienced by New York City's "finest" finally brought results this year, the chief revealed today.

This week, he noted, and for five more weeks to come, two Kingston detectives, Gurnsey Burger and William Slover, are in a class of some 100 getting the best available in criminal investigation training, and they are the only two non-New York officers in the group attending the New York Police Academy course.

This beginning, the chief expects, will lead to the same training for the local department's four other detectives, as New York continues with its extensive courses in criminal investigation. Each man in such classes is given the opportunity for actual field work during advanced phases of the course.

Many Seek Training

Chief Murphy said he had tried in recent years, without success, to get his detectives in the New York classes, but this year the officers in charge of the courses finally yielded. It is generally known among police officials, he noted, that departments throughout the northeast have long sought the same New York training for their detectives.

Both Burger and Slover have been local detectives for about three years. They are World War 2 veterans and joined the police force soon after their discharge. Burger served in the Air Force and Slover in the Navy.

The other local detectives expected to attend the New York courses as they continue in the near future are Leonard Ellsworth, Harold DeGraff, Charles McCullough and Albert Hutton.

taxes, the Senate is almost certain to go along.

The creation of a department of urban affairs involves the matter of Kennedy's obvious intention to name Robert C. Weaver, housing administrator and a Negro, to the Cabinet post if it is set up.

The reciprocal trade agreements extension cuts across political lines because of the economic threat of imports to industries in all sections of the country. The continuance of the program may well provide the biggest controversy of the next session.

UN Role in . . .

ue. The two previously met last Thursday at Rusk's invitation.

Diplomats noted that Gromyko's report on the Berlin crisis was presented more as an argument for Soviet demands than as a diatribe against the Western powers, although he accused them as usual of threatening war to block Moscow's German peace treaty plan. Some encouragement for hopes of a peaceful settlement was found in the relatively mild tone he employed.

Gromyko laid heavy emphasis on U.N. interest in the dispute and ways in which the United Nations might take an active part in a settlement. He said the United Nations might take an active part in a settlement. He said the United Nations might serve as a "guarantor of the status of the free city" which Russia has been demanding for West Brlin, and which the Western powers have repeatedly rejected.

JFK Noted U.N. Interest

President Kennedy, speaking Monday, had already recognized a major U.N. interest in the Berlin crisis by devoting a long section of his address to it. In addition the United States, Britain, France, and West Germany are known to have discussed possible participation of the United Nations, either in dealing with the crisis or in carrying out a settlement.

What roles the organization might undertake would have to be determined in the proposed negotiations on a settlement. Failing a settlement, U.S. officials believe the unresolved crisis would go into the United Nations, perhaps on the initiative of the Western powers.

Tooth Decay . . .

was eight times greater in Kingston, Dr. Ast said.

Further suggestions made by Dr. Ast included dental health education and proper diet and nutrition.

At the question and answer period which followed, discussion was lively.

A film "Truth About Fluoridation" was shown at the meeting.

P-TA President Marion Maines conducted the business meeting that followed the talk by Dr. Ast.

The next P-TA Council meeting is scheduled for October 23, and the topic will be "Narcotics."

which is 16,000 square feet more than the firm has in the Cantine plant.

The new building will be 242 square feet with an additional office building 30 by 80 feet.

Hendrick A. Wolters, well-known area builder and developer is one of the principals in the Industrial Park Corporation.

Footings for the new plant were completed last week and the laying of blocks for the walls has started.

Wolters said Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., is piping natural gas to the 50-acre industrial park site and a new road into the park is being constructed by his corporation will be turned over to the town when completed.

Extends to Thruway

The industrial park site extends from the New York Central Railroad tracks to the Thruway.

Preliminary plans for the industrial park call for installation of a 250,000-gallon standpipe for water, and a sewage disposal plant. The Industrial Park owns approximately 1,200 feet along the West Shore Division tracks of New York Central Railroad.

The Russell Corporation, known originally as Saugerties Manufacturing Company, was incorporated in 1895.

Russell took over the managerial reins in 1929. In 1936 when he acquired ownership of the company's stock, the name was changed to its present title.

F. L. Russell Corp., was originally located in a plant on East Bridge Street, currently occupied by Ferroxcube Corporation of America, and moved to its present location in 1936.

The Russell Corp., move is the second announced this week in connection with industries moving from the village to larger and modern quarters in the Town of Saugerties.

Ferrocube Corporation of America on Monday announced it was moving its plant operation from the East Bridge Street site to a new building the firm has under contract for construction on the Mt. Marion Road near Churchland. Ferroxcube expects to move into its new plant in June.

atomic bomb," said Wade Stanley, 51, of Four Oaks, N. C., who was fishing about 800 yards from the tanker with two companions.

Started Near Bridge

Ed Early, a circulation representative of the Winston-Salem Journal said witnesses told him that a fisherman dropped a lantern from the bridge spanning the Newport River, between Morehead City and Beaufort. The witnesses said the lantern sent fire speeding across the water to the ship, which was discharging aviation fuel to be used at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station, 20 miles away, and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro.

State Ports Manager Walter Friederichs could not verify the report of the dropped lantern but said it appeared that the fire did begin near the bridge.

An unidentified commercial fisherman piloted his craft through a wall of flaming gasoline to rescue seven crewmen who had leaped from the Potomac.

Long after the burning tanker had settled into the water, apparently broken in half, the flames threatened the storage tanks on Radio Island.

Widow Invests Savings To Provide Income Later

Q) "I am a widow of 51 years. From the equity in my home, I could buy a small cottage. My Social Security will begin at age 62, and I can go to work until then to make ends meet. I now have $20,000 in savings. Could I invest in a way that would help me carry on after I am 62? I don't ever want to be a burden to my children." A.M.

A) Your desire to live your own life deserves the highest commendation. By watching your pennies and investing wisely, the $20,000 may indeed be enough to enable you to carry on after retirement.

I base this conclusion on the fact that you have 11 active years ahead of you—a span which should allow plenty of time for some good investments to grow. Of course, you should be mainly concerned with safety of principal and should restrict your purchases to conservative issues.

All things considered, I suggest that you invest about 60 per cent of your savings in four strong common stocks, with particular emphasis on the defensive qualities of the issues involved.

Specifically, I recommend California Water and Telephone, Marine Midland, American Electric Power, and General Foods. These four stocks should provide you with relative security and gradual appreciation and help to make your retirement a thoroughly happy one.

Q) "During the 1940's I bought shares of Kaiser-Frazer. These were subsequently converted into shares of Kaiser Industries, which I still own. Now retired, I must make the most of what there is remaining. I am not in need of extra income but must endeavor to increase the value of my stocks because of a teen-age daughter who wants to be a nurse." R.S.

A) Kaiser Industries has shown little progress in recent years; and the shares, in my opinion, are going to need a long time to work out. I advise a switch into American Viscose (NYSE), an issue with much better appreciation potentials.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Tempers Flare

the additional billions he asked for a defense buildup and to launch a big effort to get a manned space ship to the moon by 1970, plus authority to call up reservists and National Guardsmen.

Domestic Items Falter

At the same time key items in his domestic program bogged down. Democratic leaders blamed this in part on the sudden shift of attention to international troubls, particularly Berlin, and the belief of many members there must be some economy to offset increased defense spending.

Kennedy's major victories came relatively early in the session and involved measures which Democrats had tried unsuccessfully to get through in the Eisenhower years.

They included:

Major Victories

An increase in the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour by 1963, plus coverage under the Wages and Hours Act for an additional 3.5 million workers, mostly in the retail field.

A depressed areas bill carrying $394 million in federal loan and grant funds to try to help bring new jobs to communities with high, persistent unemployment.

A Social Security measure lowering the retirement age for men to 62, boosting the minimum monthly check from $33 to $40, and raising widow's benefits 10 per cent.

A $5.6-billion housing bill setting up a new program for middle income families including 40-year home mortgages, authorizing 100,000 additional low-rent public housing units, and carrying $2 billion for urban renewal grants and $1.2 billion for college dormitory loans.

A $600-million Latin American aid program.

A $225-million extension of the federal aid to airports program.

A two-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission.

A highway bill authorizing an additional $11.5 billion to complete the 41,000-mile interstate system by 1972 as originally scheduled, and levying the taxes to pay for it.

Two new organizations urged by the President, a Peace Corps and a disarmament agency, were enacted into law in the closing days of the session.

Chief Casualties

The chief casualties in Kennedy's program were:

A $2.55-billion aid bill for public grade and high schools. Passed the Senate but killed in the House. A religious dispute over whether church schools should get aid was a major factor in this defeat.

Three other education bills — aid for colleges, aid for medical education, and a broadening of the National Defense Education Act. Democratic leaders believe all three have a chance in 1962.

A broad tax revision program containing incentives to business modernization and removing various benefits now in present law. Some action likely next year.

A health care program for the 16 million persons over 65 handled largely under the Social Security Ssystem. The House Ways and Means Committee has completed hearings on this; action is possible in 1962.

A far-reaching new farm proposal authorizing producers to write their own programs under guidance of the secretary of agriculture and subject to a congressional veto. Congress put through a measure limited to wheat and feed grains, seeking to win production cuts by an offer of higher support payments.

A postal rate increase boosting the letter stamp from 4 to 5 cents and raising other rates.

Establishment of a Cabinet department of urban affairs.

Ford Pact Near

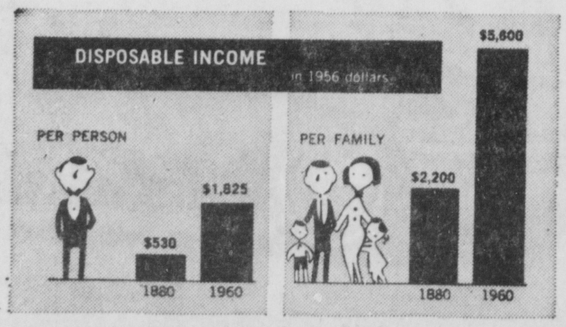
ident Louis G. Seaton joined in the signing ceremonies.

Chrysler Is Next

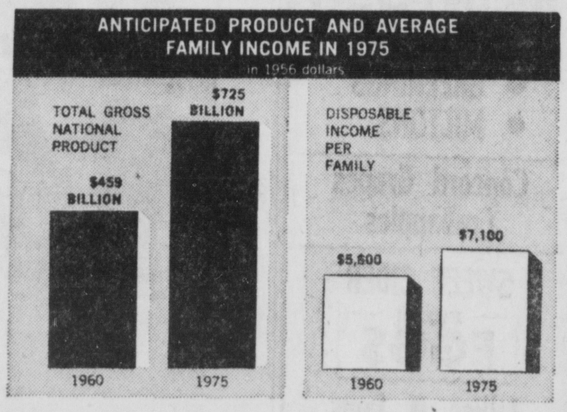
The GM settlement set the pattern for the current Ford negotiations and also for Chrysler, next on the list.

Falling in line with the GM pattern, Ford has offered the UAW substantially the same contract. This would give employes an increase of around 12 cents an hour in take-home pay. Extra benefits include hospital-medical insurance fully paid by the company instead of being shared 50-50, expanded layoff pay, and higher pension levels.

Your 'Spending' Money



THE WHEREWITHAL — Disposable income for each individual (what's left over after all taxes) has more than tripled in the 80 years since 1880, in spite of greatly increased taxes. Disposable income per family also rose, but not by the same percentage because the average family size has declined. Data: Committee for Economic Development.



WHAT'S AHEAD—If the nation's growth continues at a three per cent rate, by 1975 the gross national product will rise to $725 billion (measured by 1956 prices). If the share absorbed by the government does not change, American families will have an average of $7,100 available annually for spending and saving, after taxes. In 1960 they had $5,600 (also in 1956 prices). Data from the Committee for Economic Development.

Use of Parking Lots Increases, Officers Chosen

A report made at the annual stockholders meeting of Senate Parking, Inc., operators of the Senate House parking lot on Fair Street and Clinton Avenue, indicates the public took advantage of the uptown parking facilities on a far larger scale during the past year.

In a report to the stockholders a 20 per cent increase in use of the lot was indicated and a large increase in use of the "Park and Shop" tickets issued by uptown stores which display the "Park and Shop" sign on their door, was also reported.

Stores which display the free "Park and Shop" sign on their door issue free tickets to customers who use the lot. A report indicated more of the free parking tickets were validated during 1961 than the previous year, indicating that more people are taking advantage of the free parking service offered by the uptown merchants who participate in the program.

At the board of director's meeting held Monday evening at the court house, Christopher D. Morris was elected president, succeeding Adrian Kaplan. The board of directors met immediately following the stockholders' meeting.

Elected first vice-president was Oscar London; second vice-president, Clyde E. Wonderly; treasurer, Francis H. Kolts and secretary, Herbert J. Kletske.

Pledges Argentine Help

Foster is a former foreign aid administrator and assistant secretary of defense.

Kennedy promised U.S. support of efforts by Argentina to raise living standards for "all the people" of that country. He said the United States will consider applications for aid as rapidly as possible.

Kennedy's exchange of views with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi at a conference in New York City was summarized in a communique issued here.

Navy officers and Rhode Island dignitaries headed by Gov. John Notte welcomed the Kennedys at Quonset Naval Air Station. A tire blew out on the Air Force prop plane that brought them here as it taxied after landing, but the President was unperturbed.

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors and other industrials were in the forefront of a stock market advance late this afternoon in moderate trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 249.60 with industrials up 1.50, and both rails and utilities up .30.

Gains of fractions to a point among key stocks outbalanced losers.

Fairly substantial gains were posted for some electrical equipments, chemicals, aluminums and electronics.

Utilities and oils also were higher but gains were rather small.

Montgomery Ward and Interstate Department Stores gyrated amid reports of merger talks.

Trading was halted in Montgomery Ward under a wave of selling. An initial gain was erased and it showed a loss of ⅝ at 31⅝ when dealings stopped.

Montgomery Ward reopened on a block of 10,000 shares, up ½ at 32½.

Ford, on a renewed talk on a possible stock split, rose 1½ to 102 on a 4,000-share block, holding most of the gain in later trades. Chrysler also was up about a point while other motors added fractions.

Gains exceeding 4 points were made by Beckman Instruments and Texas Instruments. International Business Machines added about 8.

Up a point or so were Aluminium Ltd., Union Carbide, U.S. Gypsum and Litton Industries. Xerox gained about 2.

Quotations by Wood, Walker & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 62 Wall Street, New York City, branch office, 52 Main Street. Matthew F. Hasbrouck, Jr., manager.

Ulster Cancer Group Joins In Fund Canvass on Sunday

American Cancer Society Volunteer researchers will begin ringing doorbells on Sunday, Oct. 1 in this area in a continuation of the society's cancer prevention study, the most extensive investigation of its kind ever attempted in the history of medicine, according to Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, county unit president

The aim of the study, launched two years ago by the American Cancer Society, is to uncover any cancer-causing factors in the general habits and surroundings of individuals and through a six year period of follow-up to learn more about the signs or symptoms which precede the appearance of cancer. The ultimate objective is to prevent the disease by eliminating exposure to known cancer producing factors.

2,000 Make Survey

The 2,000 individuals in Ulster County, who have enrolled in the study will be requested to fill out brief questionnaire cards this fall. These confidential questionnaires deal with personal illness and air pollution. One hundred twenty-five volunteers are serving as researchers for the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur Freeman, county director.

The volunteer researchers here are part of an army of 3,535 volunteers throughout the 54 counties that comprise the Society's New York State Division, having enrolled a total of 54,927 persons. The American Cancer Society has reported that 99 per cent of the 1,000,000 persons enrolled in the study nationally were successfully traced in 1960 by 70,000 volunteer researchers.

Research officials indicate that approximately 43.6 per cent of these enrolled are men and 56.4 per cent are women. Total figures show that 2 per cent of all Americans between the ages of 45 and 59 are enrolled in the Study.

Urges Cooperation

Mrs. Freeman today urged the cooperation of all individuals enrolled here in helping to make the Cancer Prevention Study a continued success.

Participants will be asked to answer the following questions: Were you living here in 1959? Location of your home: country, outskirts of town, center of town. Is your home in an area with heavy air pollution from factories, power plants, refineries, etc.? Do you work in such an area (i.e. heavy air pollution)? How many hours a week are you in automobiles, buses or trucks? Do you now smoke cigarettes? If yes, how many cigarettes do you usually smoke a day? What brand do you usually smoke? Have you ever been vaccinated against: smallpox, tetanus, polio, diphtheria? Have you been hospitalized at any time since Oct. 1, 1959? Have you had a surgical operation since Oct. 1, 1959? Have you ever had cancer? If yes, what type of cancer? Date of first treatment. Have you had any other serious diseases since Oct. 1, 1959?

Girls Still Missing

Favors Tri-Mount New Dining Hall

Executive Board approval of definite plans to construct a dining hall at the Camp Tri Mount Scout Reservation in East Jewitt was obtained Tuesday evening at the meeting of the governing body of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

In the talk stage for many years, the need for a dining hall at the scout camp to replace the present converted barn was brought to the attention of the board by Johan Aalto, former president of the council and a member of the camp committee.

Presenting an eight-point "recommended program of action," Aalto stressed the need of new dining hall facilities and accompanied his remarks with an engineering plan drawn to the specifications of nationally-approved dining halls.

The proposed building, to be used as a combination dining hall and recreational building, will accommodate 250 boys and leaders for meals. Dimensions call for a building approximately 90 feet in length with a 40 foot square addition to house kitchen and storage facilities.

Donations from interested citizens, particularly in Greene County where the scout camp is located, have already been received, and initial steps to begin construction of the hall are being prepared, according to a Scout official.

Two Detectives Getting New York School Training

GURNSEY BURGER

WILLIAM SLOVER

Persistent effort in recent years by Police Chief Robert F. Murphy to gain for local officers the same training experienced by New York City's "finest" finally brought results this year, the chief revealed today.

This week, he noted, and for five more weeks to come, two Kingston detectives, Gurnsey Burger and William Slover, are in a class of some 100 getting the best available in criminal investigation training, and they are the only two non-New York officers in the group attending the New York Police Academy course.

This beginning, the chief expects, will lead to the same training for the local department's four other detectives, as New York continues with its extensive courses in criminal investigation. Each man in such classes is given the opportunity for actual field work during advanced phases of the course.

Many Seek Training

Chief Murphy said he had tried in recent years, without success, to get his detectives in the New York classes, but this year the officers in charge of the courses finally yielded. It is generally known among police officials, he noted, that departments throughout the northeast have long sought the same New York training for their detectives.

Both Burger and Slover have been local detectives for about three years. They are World War 2 veterans and joined the police force soon after their discharge. Burger served in the Air Force and Slover in the Navy.

The other local detectives expected to attend the New York courses as they continue in the near future are Leonard Ellsworth, Harold DeGraff, Charles McCullough and Albert Hutton.

taxes, the Senate is almost certain to go along.

The creation of a department of urban affairs involves the matter of Kennedy's obvious intention to name Robert C. Weaver, housing administrator and a Negro, to the Cabinet post if it is set up.

The reciprocal trade agreements extension cuts across political lines because of the economic threat of imports to industries in all sections of the country. The continuance of the program may well provide the biggest controversy of the next session.

UN Role in . . .

ue. The two previously met last Thursday at Rusk's invitation.

Diplomats noted that Gromyko's report on the Berlin crisis was presented more as an argument for Soviet demands than as a diatribe against the Western powers, although he accused them as usual of threatening war to block Moscow's German peace treaty plan. Some encouragement for hopes of a peaceful settlement was found in the relatively mild tone he employed.

Gromyko laid heavy emphasis on U.N. interest in the dispute and ways in which the United Nations might take an active part in a settlement. He said the United Nations might take an active part in a settlement. He said the United Nations might serve as a "guarantor of the status of the free city" which Russia has been demanding for West Brlin, and which the Western powers have repeatedly rejected.

JFK Noted U.N. Interest

President Kennedy, speaking Monday, had already recognized a major U.N. interest in the Berlin crisis by devoting a long section of his address to it. In addition the United States, Britain, France, and West Germany are known to have discussed possible participation of the United Nations, either in dealing with the crisis or in carrying out a settlement.

What roles the organization might undertake would have to be determined in the proposed negotiations on a settlement. Failing a settlement, U.S. officials believe the unresolved crisis would go into the United Nations, perhaps on the initiative of the Western powers.

Tooth Decay . . .

was eight times greater in Kingston, Dr. Ast said.

Further suggestions made by Dr. Ast included dental health education and proper diet and nutrition.

At the question and answer period which followed, discussion was lively.

A film "Truth About Fluoridation" was shown at the meeting.

P-TA President Marion Maines conducted the business meeting that followed the talk by Dr. Ast.

The next P-TA Council meeting is scheduled for October 23, and the topic will be "Narcotics."

which is 16,000 square feet more than the firm has in the Cantine plant.

The new building will be 242 square feet with an additional office building 30 by 80 feet.

Hendrick A. Wolters, well-known area builder and developer is one of the principals in the Industrial Park Corporation.

Footings for the new plant were completed last week and the laying of blocks for the walls has started.

Wolters said Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., is piping natural gas to the 50-acre industrial park site and a new road into the park is being constructed by his corporation will be turned over to the town when completed.

Extends to Thruway

The industrial park site extends from the New York Central Railroad tracks to the Thruway.

Preliminary plans for the industrial park call for installation of a 250,000-gallon standpipe for water, and a sewage disposal plant. The Industrial Park owns approximately 1,200 feet along the West Shore Division tracks of New York Central Railroad.

The Russell Corporation, known originally as Saugerties Manufacturing Company, was incorporated in 1895.

Russell took over the managerial reins in 1929. In 1936 when he acquired ownership of the company's stock, the name was changed to its present title. F. L. Russell Corp., was originally located in a plant on East Bridge Street, currently occupied by Ferroxcube Corporation of America, and moved to its present location in 1936.

The Russell Corp., move is the second announced this week in connection with industries moving from the village to larger and modern quarters in the Town of Saugerties.

Ferrocube Corporation of America on Monday announced it was moving its plant operation from the East Bridge Street site to a new building the firm has under contract for construction on the Mt. Marion Road near Churchland. Ferroxcube expects to move into its new plant in June.

atomic bomb," said Wade Stanley, 51, of Four Oaks, N. C., who was fishing about 800 yards from the tanker with two companions.

Started Near Bridge

Ed Early, a circulation representative of the Winston-Salem Journal said witnesses told him that a fisherman dropped a lantern from the bridge spanning the Newport River, between Morehead City and Beaufort. The witnesses said the lantern sent fire speeding across the water to the ship, which was discharging aviation fuel to be used at the Cherry Point Marine Air Station, 20 miles away, and Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro.

State Ports Manager Walter Friederichs could not verify the report of the dropped lantern but said it appeared that the fire did begin near the bridge.

An unidentified commercial fisherman piloted his craft through a wall of flaming gasoline to rescue seven crewmen who had leaped from the Potomac.

Long after the burning tanker had settled into the water, apparently broken in half, the flames threatened the storage tanks on Radio Island.

Widow Invests Savings To Provide Income Later

Q) "I am a widow of 51 years. From the equity in my home, I could buy a small cottage. My Social Security will begin at age 62, and I can go to work until then to make ends meet. I now have $20,000 in savings. Could I invest in a way that would help me carry on after I am 62? I don't ever want to be a burden to my children." A.M.

A) Your desire to live your own life deserves the highest commendation. By watching your pennies and investing wisely, the $20,000 may indeed be enough to enable you to carry on after retirement.

I base this conclusion on the fact that you have 11 active years ahead of you—a span which should allow plenty of time for some good investments to grow. Of course, you should be mainly concerned with safety of principal and should restrict your purchases to conservative issues.

All things considered, I suggest that you invest about 60 per cent of your savings in four strong common stocks, with particular emphasis on the defensive qualities of the issues involved.

Specifically, I recommend California Water and Telephone, Marine Midland, American Electric Power, and General Foods. These four stocks should provide you with relative security and gradual apprecciation and help to make your retirement a thoroughly happy one.

Q) "During the 1940's I bought shares of Kaiser-Frazer. These were subsequently converted into shares of Kaiser Industries, which I still own. Now retired, I must make the most of what there is remaining. I am not in need of extra income but must endeavor to increase the value of my stocks because of a teen-age daughter who wants to be a nurse." R.S.

A) Kaiser Industries has shown little progress in recent years; and the shares, in my opinion, are going to need a long time to work out. I advise a switch into American Viscose (NYSE), an issue with much better appreciation potentials.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Tempers Flare

the additional billions he asked for a defense buildup and to launch a big effort to get a manned space ship to the moon by 1970, plus authority to call up reservists and National Guardsmen.

Domestic Items Falter

At the same time key items in his domestic program bogged down. Democratic leaders blamed this in part on the sudden shift of attention to international troubls, particularly Berlin, and the belief of many members there must be some economy to offset increased defense spending.

Kennedy's major victories came relatively early in the session and involved measures which Democrats had tried unsuccessfully to get through in the Eisenhower years.

They included:

Major Victories

An increase in the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour by 1963, plus coverage under the Wages and Hours Act for an additional 3.5 million workers, mostly in the retail field.

A depressed areas bill carrying $394 million in federal loan and grant funds to try to help bring new jobs to communities with high, persistent unemployment.

A Social Security measure lowering the retirement age for men to 62, boosting the minimum monthly check from $33 to $40, and raising widow's benefits 10 per cent.

A $5.6-billion housing bill setting up a new program for middle income families including 40-year home mortgages, authorizing 100,000 additional low-rent public housing units, and carrying $2 billion for urban renewal grants and $1.2 billion for college dormitory loans.

A $500-million Latin American aid program.

A $225-million extension of the federal aid to airports program.

A two-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission.

A highway bill authorizing an additional $11.5 billion to complete the 41,000-mile interstate system by 1972 as originally scheduled, and levying the taxes to pay for it.

Two new organizations urged by the President, a Peace Corps and a disarmament agency, were enacted into law in the closing days of the session.

Chief Casualties

The chief casualties in Kennedy's program were:

A $2.55-billion aid bill for public grade and high schools. Passed the Senate but killed in the House. A religious dispute over whether church schools should get aid was a major factor in this defeat.

Three other education bills — aid for colleges, aid for medical education, and a broadening of the National Defense Education Act. Democratic leaders believe all three have a chance in 1962.

A broad tax revision program containing incentives to business modernization and renoving various benefits now in present law. Some action likely next year.

A health care program for the 16 million persons over 65 handled largely under the Social Security Ssystem. The House Ways and Means Committee has completed hearings on this; action is possible in 1962.

A far-reaching new farm proposal authorizing producers to write their own programs under guidance of the secretary of agriculture and subject to a congressional veto. Congress put through a measure limited to wheat and feed grains, seeking to win production cuts by an offer of higher support payments.

A postal rate increase boosting the letter stamp from 4 to 5 cents and raising other rates.

Establishment of a Cabinet department of urban affairs.

Ford Pact Near

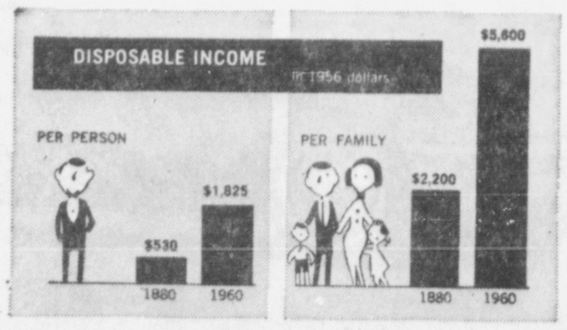
ident Louis G. Seaton joined in the signing ceremonies.

Chrysler Is Next

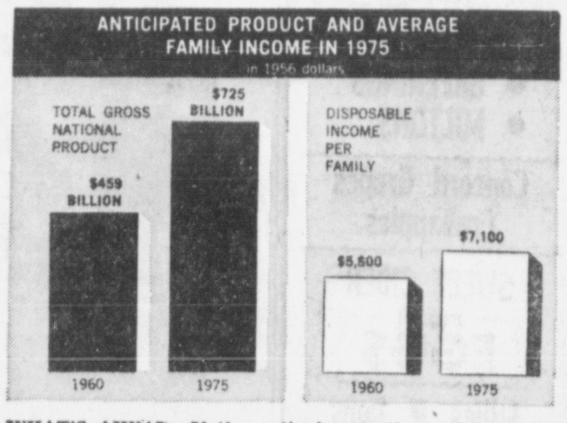
The GM settlement set the pattern for the current Ford negotiations and also for Chrysler, next on the list.

Falling in line with the GM pattern, Ford has offered the UAW substantially the same contract. This would give employes an increase of around 12 cents an hour in take-home pay. Extra benefits include hospital-medical insurance fully paid by the company instead of being shared 50-50, expanded layoff pay, and higher pension levels.

Your 'Spending' Money



THE WHEREWITHAL — Disposable income for each individual (what's left over after all taxes) has more than tripled in the 80 years since 1880, in spite of greatly increased taxes. Disposable income per family also rose, but not by the same percentage because the average family size has declined. Data: Committee for Economic Development.



WHAT'S AHEAD—If the nation's growth continues at a three per cent rate, by 1975 the gross national product will rise to $725 billion (measured by 1956 prices). If the share absorbed by the government does not change, American families will have an average of $7,100 available annually for spending and saving, after taxes. In 1960 they had $5,600 (also in 1956 prices). Data from the Committee for Economic Development.

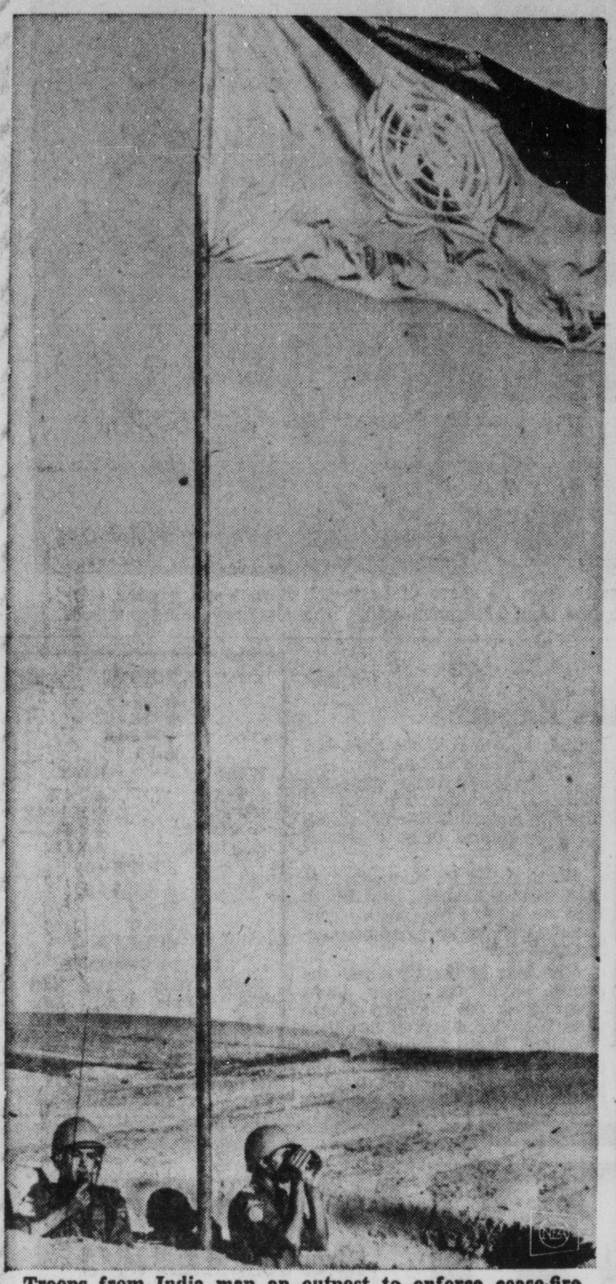
U.N. IN ACTION

Current fighting in the Congo between United Nations and Katanga soldiers evokes the image of other battles in other years. In the turbulent 16 years since the U.N.'s beginning, men from many nations have joined to preserve the peace—often at the cost of their own blood. Below are three views of the U.N. in action: Korea, in which more than 50,000 Americans died; the Middle East, where U. N. guns backed up a truce; the Congo, where militant native and European factions have upset the uneasy truce of emerging Africa.



Troops from India man an outpost to enforce cease-fire between Arabs and Israelis in the Gaza Strip, 1957.

U.S. troops blaze away as U.N. forces in 1951 halt Communist aggression in Korea.

Job Rights Are Defined for Vets In New Pamphlet

In order that area residents called to active military service may be familiar with reemployment rights, the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs has available a pamphlet titled, Reemployment Rights After Military Training, according to Charles L. Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

This publication describes reemployment rights to which members of reserve components of the armed forces and the National Guard—under the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, are entitled.

Copies of this informative pamphlet are free and may be obtained at the local office of the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main Street with branch offices in Saugerties, Ellenville, Highland and Kerhonkson.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Powell got his NBC anthology series off to a smooth start Tuesday night with a glossy detective story which could easily be developed into an attractive weekly feature.

"Who Killed Julie Greer?" was the opening show and Powell shrewdly made it into a special audience-builder by having such stars as Ralph Bellamy, Ronald Reagan, Mickey Rooney and Nick Adams playing small colorful parts.

The story itself was a rather uncomplicated one: somebody strangled a pretty playgirl—somebody whose name was in her little black book. Police Inspector Amos Burke, played by the urbane Powell, headed the investigation to find which of her admirers it was. The windup, unfortunately, was rather easy to predict. But the interesting and attractive character was the one Powell played, a millionaire career cop who rode around in a chauffeur-driven limousine with built-in bar and telephone, jauntily solving crimes.

CBS' new "Ichabod and Me" series also bowed in Tuesday night. If nothing else, the program ought to produce some irate letters from New England viewers who might feel with some justification that their modes and certainly their speech have been libeled.

The comedy series is pegged on that old chestnut; the smart New Yorker who moves into the old, New England small town. Naturally, the big city wise guy is going to be outwitted at every turn.

The script is studded with homely, rural truisms but the truly remarkable aspect of the show is an uninhibited laugh track that sends out loud bleats almost without provocation.

Robert Sterling, a tall, slim, handsome fellow with a rather heavy hand with comedy, plays the transplanted New Yorker. George Chandler is Ichabod, Sterling's elderly Yankee sparring partner.

This one is really a pretty tired, clumsy effort.

Recommended tonight: "The New Steve Allen Show," premiere ABC, 7:30-8:30 EDT—the popular comedian-musician returns to a new network with a variety show sorely missed last season; "Top Cat," premiere, ABC, 8:30-9—new animated cartoon series with Arnold Stang; Victor Borge special, CBS, 9-10; "Carnegie Hall Salutes Jack Benny," CBS special, 10-11.

Democrats Name Town Candidates

Candidates for the November election in the Town of Kingston were nominated at a recent Democratic caucus held in the Town Hall at Sawkill.

Nominees are: John P. Duffy for supervisor; William Ferguson for town clerk; William Hulsair for superintendent of highways; Paul Butler for assessor; George Spoonhauer and Arthur McMahon for councilmen, and Roy Stevens and Sidney Krom for justices of the peace.

James Knox Polk was U. S. president when the Naval Academy was opened at Annapolis, Md.

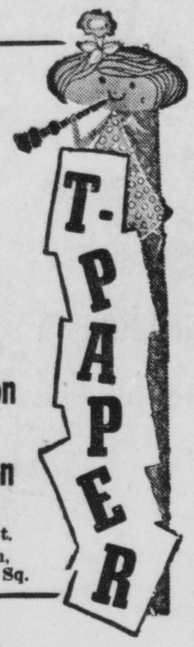
Rutland Strike Enters 3rd Day; No End in Sight

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP)—The Rutland Railway strike went into its third day today with no signs of settlement. Picketing has been peaceful.

Four operating brotherhoods seek an eight cent an hour wage increase. Management has countered with a demand for a 19-cent reduction. Current wages were unavailable.

Federal Mediator Tedford Schoonover, after meeting separately with union and management representatives Tuesday said "There were no signs of any possible grounds for agreement."

He said no date has been set for further meetings. But, he added, he plans to stay in town several days in an effort to settle the walkout affecting some 400 employes.



FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Fruit Nut Bars Use Wheat Germ

DELICIOUS fruit nut bars are healthful additions to the school lunch box. Wheat germ adds more nutritional value.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fruit nut bars are good eating. Children wolf them after school with tall glasses of milk. They make nutritious bedtime snacks for adults. To give them a little extra nutrition value and a more crunchy texture; add wheat germ to your recipe. The result is rather special snacking.

Put the fruit bars in school or factory lunch box, or serve for lunch or dinner at home. Top with a scoop of ice cream for festive affairs. For future use, make an extra batch, wrap in foil and store in the freezer.

Wheat Germ Fruit Nut Bars
(Yield: 16 bars)

¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup (packed) lump-free brown sugar
¾ cup wheat germ
2 eggs
¼ cup melted shortening or cooking oil
¼ cup honey
½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans
¼ cup chopped mixed candied fruits
Confectioners' sugar if desired

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Stir in brown sugar and wheat germ. Beat eggs, shortening or oil and honey together well. Gradually add dry ingredients and mix well after each addition. Fold in nuts and fruits. Spread batter evenly into a greased 10x6x1¾-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, about 30 minutes. Cool on rack. Cut into bars 2½-inches long and 1½-inches wide. Serve plain or with confectioners' sugar sifted over top.

Lake Shores Searched

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—State Police searched the shores of Lake Champlain today for a New York City man believed drowned Sept. 18.

An aluminum canoe found floating upside down near Crab Island, off Plattsburgh, on that date was traced eventually to a local sports shop by troopers, who said the craft had been rented by Edward S. Rolf, 33.

Rolf arrived at Plattsburgh airport Sept. 16 and rented the canoe to go on a three-day camping trip alone. Troopers said he had not been seen since.

California and Oklahoma rivaled each other for 20 years for top position among oil-producing states of the Union, but in 1928 Texas surpassed them both.

At Murder Trial

Wood Incapable Of Knowing Acts Doctors Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Bellevue Hospital psychiatrists say a man accused of stabbing two elderly men to death in Queens last year was incapable of understanding his acts.

The psychiatrists, Dr. A. Leonard Abrams and Dr. Jordan Lachman, previously had pronounced Frederick Wood incapable of understanding his trial, but they were overruled by a judge.

Wood, 48, formerly of Elmira, is being tried on first degree murder charges in the deaths of Frederick Sess, 78, and John Rescigno, 62.

Police said he confessed to the slayings, which occurred in the victims' Astoria, Queens, apartment on June 30, 1960.

The psychiatrists, who testified at the trial Tuesday, described Wood as a schizophrenic who did not know the nature and quality of his acts at the time of the killing.

The killings occurred only a few days after Wood was paroled after serving 17 years of a life sentence in another killing.

Insurgents Delay Cavanagh Action But Vote Likely

NEW YORK (AP) — Insurgent Democratic leaders today delayed formal action on Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr.'s designation as New York County (Manhattan) party chairman.

But Arnold Fein, whom the insurgents picked last week as their candidate for the post, said today he was withdrawing.

Despite the absence of an announcement by the insurgents, there were newspaper reports that they had bowed—or were ready to bow—to the selection of Cavanagh.

The old-line Tammany Hall district leaders, who have a majority in the 3,400-member county committee, have endorsed Cavanagh for chairman.

Cavanagh, who is Mayor Robert F. Wagner's campaign manager in his bid for re-election, is the mayor's choice for the chairmanship. Wagner has been trying to effect a truce between the Tammany Hall and insurgent leaders for the election of Cavanagh by the county committee.

There were indications that the insurgent leaders would caucus again before tonight's meeting of the county committee called to elect a new chairman to replace Carmine G. DeSapio.

DeSapio is ineligible for the post because he failed to win re-election as a Democratic district leader in Greenwich Village in the Sept. 7. primary.

COVEY OF COSMOPOLITAN CUTIES—Auto in Paris has more than its share of back-seat drivers—all French starlets. One of the aspirants will be chosen to play opposite no less than 17 French actors in a film now being planned.

Slamitis Also Atacks Experts

BY OSWALD JACOBY

The disease of slamitis is not confined to average players. Give an expert one of those nice collections of aces and kings and he will give into a slam just as enthusiastically as anyone else.

Anyway, the bidding went the same at both tables in the team game. One West player decided on the safe lead of the eight of trumps.

South won the trick with dummy's queen and led the queen of diamonds for a finesse. West took his king and led a second trump whereupon South had to go down one trick.

He was able to discard his losing heart on the jack of diamonds and to ruff one club, but the fourth club was a loser.

At the other table West decided on the aggressive lead of the five clubs and this act of aggression proved to be a serious mistake.

South called for dummy's jack and when it held the trick South had no trouble making his contract. One club loser had been accounted for.

The rest of the play was the same as at the other table. South lost the diamond finesse and West led a trump just once too late. South won in dummy, cashed his ace of diamonds and ace of clubs, ruffed his remaining low club, discarded his losing heart on the good diamond, drew trumps and claimed his slam.

3 Chest Chairmen, Named for Drive

Three additional drive chairmen have been named for the community chest drive which gets underway next month.

Assisting William Zeigler, general chairman, will be Nat Aaron, vice chairman, Mrs. Richard Messina, advanced gifts chairman and Franklin P. Clum, commercial division chairman.

A goal of $6,500 had been set for the Saugerties area.

Aaron is vice president of the chamber of commerce, a member of the Saugerties Lions Club and village planning board, and has been active in many civic events in the past few years.

Mrs. Messina, wife of a local dentist, is also active in community events including Campfire Girls, and Jayncees. She is a member of the board of directors of the Mid-Hudson Philharmonic Society.

A former Mayor of Saugerties and a past president of th chamber of commerce, Clum has served his community as trustee and member of the village board for 17 years. He is a member of the R. A. Snyder Hose Co., Ulster Lodge, F & AM, and many other civic organizations. He was chairman of the March of Dimes fund drive for several years and is a vice president of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and chairman of the Merchant's committee of the chamber.

Aims of Teaching Are Explored at School Workshops

"How can you, the teacher, do the things that make the difference?" This was the question asked by Dr. Walter Crewson, associate commissioner of education for New York State, as he addressed the local Saugerties Central Schools faculty at their workshop Monday at the high school auditorium. His answer was: "In the no man's land that lies between you and the pupil you will find the places — the places to do the things that mean so much to the boy and girl."

"The most important place for educational control is in the local board of education," Dr. Crewson said. "That is why the choice of board members is so important. Teach your young people what a good board member looks like. Is the board member big enough to put the boys and girls first?—that is the big test."

"I shall never forget the benefits I received from good teachers. I had two outstanding ones. That is one more than some boys and girls get. Some of us can be great teachers, all of us can be great teachers part of the time. The most important thing I ever did as a classroom teacher was to make a child seem important to himself."

"What makes a good High School?" Dr. Crewson asked. His answer: "The excellence of the teaching; the adequacy of buildings; the character of the equipment; the atmosphere of the classroom."

The elementary teachers spent two sessions in the afternoon with Dr. Esther M. Morgan, part-time psychologist on the local staff; and with Mrs. Vera Mack, elementary librarian. Dr. Morgan, who is a member of the staff of the State University College of Education at New Paltz, said, "I am interested in the growth and behavior of children. A new concept of intelligence is now being sought. Intelligence and behavior cannot be separated. An intelligent child is one who behaves efficiently. A child's mind cannot be separated from its body.

"In all situations—in the family, in class, on tests—if a child's behavior does not adjust to the situation the reasons should be sought. Diagnosis by the psychologist is frequently more difficult than diagnosis by a medical physician. As a teacher we need to try to remove the factors that cause maladjustment. My basic philosophy," Dr. Morgan said, "is this: I believe every child is capable of growth and change; every child is good potentially.:"

Mrs. Vera Mack, elementary librarian said, "The purpose of the librarian is to lift boys and girls through books so that they may help themselves. Start teaching at the lowest grade level that reading is very important to each one much as eating is. Children have very few years in which to build the reading habit. America needs people who can read well and think clearly—even read between the lines. Before children can read, expose them to books on the picture book level."

At the high school, each department met in its own subject field headed by the following department heads and assisted by nine members of the State Education Department acting as consultants:

English department, Mrs. Lynnette Flewelling, head, Miss Janet M. Lewis, associate in English education, consultant; Social Studies Department, Mrs. Frances Behr, head; Science department, Robert T. Emery, head, Hugh B. Templeton, supervisor of science education, consultant.

Mathematics department, Miss N. Leona Hogan, head; foreign language department, Miss Elinor Lente, head, Edgar Moreau, associate in foreign language education, consultant; commerce department, Mrs. Marian Heermance, head, Donald T. Adamson, associate in business education, consultant.

Home Economics department, Miss Florence E. Wagner, associate in home economic education, consultant; industrial arts department, Charles Schumacher, head, Clarence Parry, associate in industrial arts, consultant; Music department, Miss Janice Peterson, head, Walter Cochrane, associate in music education, consultant.

G. Challiss Franklin, general supervisor, Bureau of Secondary School Supervision, State Education Department, acted as general consultant to all departments.

Local Student Is Semi-Finalist in National Contest

Miss Sharon Johnson, a senior in Saugerties High School, has been selected as a semi-finalist in the 1961-62 series of the National Merit Scholarship competition.

She has been awarded the honor on the basis of outstanding performance in the qualifying test administered last spring. She is one of approximately 10,000 seniors throughout the country who attained semi-finalist status by reason of high scores in this examination, a test of educational development, given in March in more than 15,000 high schools.

The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in the United States territories. Each semi-finalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice. Semi-finalists will take another rigorous examination in December. The results of this examination will determine the finalists.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of 5 Warren Place, Saugerties.

In addition to being an excellent student, she has been active in the school club program and is an outstanding member of the debate squad.

Demos Schedule Rally Thursday

The Democratic Rally at the Holiday Inn on the Woodstock-Saugerties road will be held Thursday night 8 o'clock. All Ulster County and Town of Saugerties candidates will be present.

Ulster County candidates expected to be present are Joseph Koenig, who is running for county treasurer; Hubert Richter, county judge; Harry McNamara, coroner, and George Beck district attorney. Town candidates are Kenneth Blundell, supervisor; town clerk, Mrs. Frances Knuth; superintendent of highways, John Curry; receiver of taxes, Peter C. Cashara; justice of the peace, Richard Hoffman; and councilmen, Ralph Raimondi, Maurice D. Hinchey Sr., and George Becker.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. M. Hinchey and the women's committee.

Jayncee Fashion Show Is Tuesday

Final plans for the annual Jayncee Fashion Show were discussed at the Monday night meeting of the organization held at the home of Mrs. George Turner.

There were more than 18 enteries in the sewing contest, sponsored by the Jayncees, which were judged last Saturday at the Reformed Church basement room. Winners have not been announced, as all clothes entered in the contest will be modeled at the fashion show at the Saugerties High School Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 8 p. m. In addition to the homemade fashions, fall shoes, hats and furs will be worn by the models, courtesy of local merchants. Mrs. Richard Messina will be commentator.

Pennie Pettinger, Miss Saugerties of 1962 and Miss Marguerite Clowry, Miss Woodstock, 1961 will be present to entertain. Miss Pettinger entered the sewing contest and will model her dresses worn during the recent Miss Saugerties Pageant.

Refreshments will be served during intermission. Tickets will be available at the door.

Interest Committee To Cancel Meetings

It was decided at Monday nights meeting of the Citizens Interest Committee that no more meetings will be held until April of 1962 as they will be working with the Citizens Advisory Group, (which was appointed by the Board of Education) on the forthcoming bond issue for new school buildings. Miss Grace Anderson, who is chairman of the Interest Committee, is also co-chairman of the Advisory Committee.

At Monday's meeting Lawrence Cahill, director of transportation for the Saugerties Central School District, gave an informative talk on school bus transportation procedures and problems. The present fleet of buses consists of 27 large vehicles nine feeder routes cover the district. It takes about a year to work out the bus schedule, and he is already planning next year's routes.

Lions Club Honors Long-Time Members

Six members of the Lions Club were presented with pins at Monday night's supper meeting at the Flamingo Restaurant for length of service with the organization.

Henry Breitenbach, president, made the awards to Dr. B. W. Giffort, 25 years; Peter Stoly, 20 years; Joseph Crotty, 20 years; Dennis J. Wynne, 15 year; Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, 10 years; and Frank Costello. 10 years.

Adult Education Notes

"Planning for Advanced Education" will be the general topic of a meeting Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of Saugerties High School, Washington Avenue Extension, Saugerties.

Miss A. Frances Larned, director of guidance, will provide information for parents of seniors to enable them to assist their children in planning for post-high school education. She will explain the procedure to be used in applying for admission, describe the entrance examinations and the admissions policies of different types of institutions.

She will provide information concerning the New York State loan program, the federal loan program, and the New York Scholar Incentive Awards. Questions from the audience will be answered at the close of the meeting.

Registration for adult education classes was held at the high school building Monday evening. Registration was high enough in only a few subject areas to warrant starting of a class. Classes will be started in the following subjects: high school equivalency tests, instructor, Robert Moser; stenoscript shorthand, instructor, Patrick Rodden; typing, Milton Sommers, instructor; welding, Charles Schumacher, instructor; driver training, Leon McLaughlin, instructor.

Only two more are needed in order to start a class in sewing. A few more are needed also in Conversational French and in Conversational Russian.

Classes in other areas for which an adequate number of students has not yet signed up can be offered if there are a proper number of additional registrations. It is not too late to offer classes in other subject areas if there is sufficient demand. Inquiries regarding the offering in adult education should be directed to Leon McLaughlin, assistant director.

Law Everyone Should Know will be added to the adult education offering if there is a sufficient demand.

3 Chest Chairmen Named for Drive

Three additional drive chairmen have been named for the community chest drive which gets underway next month.

Assisting William Zeigler, general chairman, will be Nat Aaron, vice chairman, Mrs. Richard Messina, advanced gifts chairman and Franklin P. Clum, commercial division chairman.

A goal of $6,500 had been set for the Saugerties area.

Aaron is vice president of the chamber of commerce, a member of the Saugerties Lions Club and village planning board, and has been active in many civic events in the past few years.

Mrs. Messina, wife of a local dentist, is also active in community events including Campfire Girls, and Jayncees. She is a member of the board of directors of the Mid-Hudson Philharmonic Society.

A former Mayor of Saugerties and a past president of th chamber of commerce, Clum has served his community as trustee and member of the village board for 17 years. He is a member of the R. A. Snyder Hose Co., Ulster Lodge, F & AM, and many other civic organizations. He was chairman of the March of Dimes fund drive for several years and is a vice president of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company and chairman of the Merchant's committee of the chamber.

Aims of Teaching Are Explored at School Workshops

"How can you, the teacher, do the things that make the difference?" This was the question asked by Dr. Walter Crewson, associate commissioner of education for New York State, as he addressed the local Saugerties Central Schools faculty at their workshop Monday at the high school auditorium. His answer was: "In the no man's land that lies between you and the pupil you will find the places — the places to do the things that mean so much to the boy and girl."

"The most important place for educational control is in the local board of education," Dr. Crewson said. "That is why the choice of board members is so important. Teach your young people what a good board member looks like. Is the board member big enough to put the boys and girls first?—that is the big test."

"I shall never forget the benefits I received from good teachers. I had two outstanding ones. That is one more than some boys and girls get. Some of us can be great teachers, all of us can be great teachers part of the time. The most important thing I ever did as a classroom teacher was to make a child seem important to himself."

"What makes a good High School?" Dr. Crewson asked. His answer: "The excellence of the teaching; the adequacy of buildings; the character of the equipment; the atmosphere of the classroom."

The elementary teachers spent two sessions in the afternoon with Dr. Esther M. Morgan, part-time psychologist on the local staff; and with Mrs. Vera Mack, elementary librarian. Dr. Morgan, who is a member of the staff of the State University College of Education at New Paltz, said, "I am interested in the growth and behavior of children. A new concept of intelligence is now being sought. Intelligence and behavior cannot be separated. An intelligent child is one who behaves efficiently. A child's mind cannot be separated from its body.

"In all situations—in the family, in class, on tests—if a child's behavior does not adjust to the situation the reasons should be sought. Diagnosis by the psychologist is frequently more difficult than diagnosis by a medical physician. As a teacher we need to try to remove the factors that cause maladjustment. My basic philosophy," Dr. Morgan said, "is this: I believe every child is capable of growth and change; every child is good potentially.:"

Mrs. Vera Mack, elementary librarian said, "The purpose of the librarian is to lift boys and girls through books so that they may help themselves. Start teaching at the lowest grade level that reading is very important to each one much as eating is. Children have very few years in which to build the reading habit. America needs people who can read well and think clearly—even read between the lines. Before children can read, expose them to books on the picture book level."

At the high school, each department met in its own subject field headed by the following department heads and assisted by nine members of the State Education Department acting as consultants:

English department, Mrs. Lynnette Flewelling, head, Miss Janet M. Lewis, associate in English education, consultant; Social Studies Department, Mrs. Frances Behr, head; Science department, Robert T. Emery, head, Hugh B. Templeton, supervisor of science education, consultant.

Mathematics department, Miss N. Leona Hogan, head; foreign language department, Miss Elinor Lente, head, Edgar Moreau, associate in foreign language education, consultant; commerce department, Mrs. Marian Heermance, head, Donald T. Adamson, associate in business education, consultant.

Home Economics department, Miss Florence E. Wagner, associate in home economic education, consultant; industrial arts department, Charles Schumacher, head, Clarence Parry, associate in industrial arts, consultant; Music department, Miss Janice Peterson, head, Walter Cochrane, associate in music education, consultant.

G. Challiss Franklin, general supervisor, Bureau of Secondary School Supervision, State Education Department, acted as general consultant to all departments.

Local Student Is Semi-Finalist in National Contest

Miss Sharon Johnson, a senior in Saugerties High School, has been selected as a semi-finalist in the 1961-62 series of the National Merit Scholarship competition.

She has been awarded the honor on the basis of outstanding performance in the qualifying test administered last spring. She is one of approximately 10,000 seniors throughout the country who attained semi-finalist status by reason of high scores in this examination, a test of educational development, given in March in more than 15,000 high schools.

The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in the United States territories. Each semi-finalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice. Semi-finalists will take another rigorous examination in December. The results of this examination will determine the finalists.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of 5 Warren Place, Saugerties.

In addition to being an excellent student, she has been active in the school club program and is an outstanding member of the debate squad.

Demos Schedule Rally Thursday

The Democratic Rally at the Holiday Inn on the Woodstock-Saugerties road will be held Thursday night 8 o'clock. All Ulster County and Town of Saugerties candidates will be present.

Ulster County candidates expected to be present are Joseph Koenig, who is running for county treasurer; Hubert Richter, county judge; Harry McNamara, coroner, and George Beck district attorney, Town candidates are Kenneth Blundell, supervisor; town clerk, Mrs. Frances Knuth; superintendent of highways, John Curry; receiver of taxes, Peter C. Cashara; justice of the peace, Richard Hoffman; and councilmen, Ralph Raimondi, Maurice D. Hinchey Sr., and George Becker.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. M. Hinchey and the women's committee.

Jayncee Fashion Show Is Tuesday

Final plans for the annual Jayncee Fashion Show were discussed at the Monday night meeting of the organization held at the home of Mrs. George Turner.

There were more than 18 enteries in the sewing contest, sponsored by the Jayncees, which were judged last Saturday at the Reformed Church basement room. Winners have not been announced, as all clothes entered in the contest will be modeled at the fashion show at the Saugerties High School Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 8 p. m. In addition to the homemade fashions, fall shoes, hats and furs will be worn by the models, courtesy of local merchants. Mrs. Richard Messina will be commentator.

Pennie Pettinger, Miss Saugerties of 1962 and Miss Marguerite Clowry, Miss Woodstock, 1961 will be present to entertain. Miss Pettinger entered the sewing contest and will model her dresses worn during the recent Miss Saugerties Pageant.

Refreshments will be served during intermission. Tickets will be available at the door.

Interest Committee To Cancel Meetings

It was decided at Monday nights meeting of the Citizens Interest Committee that no more meetings will be held until April of 1962 as they will be working with the Citizens Advisory Group, (which was appointed by the Board of Education) on the forthcoming bond issue for new school buildings. Miss Grace Anderson, who is chairman of the Interest Committee, is also co-chairman of the Advisory Committee.

At Monday's meeting Lawrence Cahill, director of transportation for the Saugerties Central School District, gave an informative talk on school bus transportation procedures and problems. The present fleet of buses consists of 27 large vehicles nine feeder routes cover the district. It takes about a year to work out the bus schedule, and he is already planning next year's routes.

Lions Club Honors Long-Time Members

Six members of the Lions Club were presented with pins at Monday night's supper meeting at the Flamingo Restaurant for length of service with the organization.

Henry Breitenbach, president, made the awards to Dr. B. W. Giffort, 25 years; Peter Stoly, 20 years; Joseph Crotty, 20 years; Dennis J. Wynne, 15 year; Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, 10 years; and Frank Costello, 10 years.

Adult Education Notes

"Planning for Advanced Education" will be the general topic of a meeting Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of Saugerties High School, Washington Avenue Extension, Saugerties.

Miss A. Frances Larned, director of guidance, will provide information for parents of seniors to enable them to assist their children in planning for post-high school education. She will explain the procedure to be used in applying for admission, describe the entrance examinations and the admissions policies of different types of institutions.

She will provide information concerning the New York State loan program, the federal loan program, and the New York Scholar Incentive Awards. Questions from the audience will be answered at the close of the meeting.

Registration for adult education classes was held at the high school building Monday evening. Registration was high enough in only a few subject areas to warrant starting of a class. Classes will be started in the following subjects: high school equivalency tests, instructor, Robert Moser; stenoscript shorthand, instructor, Patrick Rodden; typing, Milton Sommers, instructor; welding, Charles Schumacher, instructor; driver training, Leon McLaughlin, instructor.

Only two more are needed in order to start a class in sewing. A few more are needed also in Conversational French and in Conversational Russian.

Classes in other areas for which an adequate number of students has not yet signed up can be offered if there are a proper number of additional registrations. It is not too late to offer classes in other subject areas if there is sufficient demand. Inquiries regarding the offering in adult education should be directed to Leon McLaughlin, assistant director.

Law Everyone Should Know will be added to the adult education offering if there is a sufficient demand.

The course will be taught by Attorney William D. Brinnier, assisted by guest attorneys. The course would involve lectures on special fields of law with the emphasis on avoidance of legal problems through proper counseling. Each session will be two hours in length and will be offered on Mondays. If the enrollment is adequate, the course can begin Oct. 2, at the latest it can begin on Oct. 9.

Groucho Shifts, In Serious Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Groucho Marx in a dead serious drama?

Yep—but not the lecherous, impudent, crouch-walking Professor Hackenbush of the Marx brothers comedies. Nor the sly, impudent quiz master of television.

Groucho was doing a scene on a country club terrace in which he and Fred Clark discussed the impending marriage of their children. Fred was all for supporting the kids through college. Groucho argued that they should wait to marry, rather than start their wedded life on a handout basis.

"Cut!" said director Charlie Haas after the lengthy no-joke scene.

Groucho came over to explain this turn in his career.

"This is the first time I've ever played a serious role," he said, "unless you count that last comedy I made.

"They took away all my trademarks. I can't even smoke a cigar. I can't go like this (waggling his eyebrows)."

He explained his reasons for taking the dramatic role, which will appear on G.E. Theater.

"Not for the money, I assure you. I'm okay there. In fact this check goes right to the government.

"Why am I doing it? Because I always thought that comedy was much harder to do than drama and I wanted to see if I was right. I think I am.

"Besides, I didn't want to spend the rest of my life lunching at Hillcrest and staring at the same faces."

He referred to the famed comedians' round table at Hillcrest Country Club where he matches quips with Jack Benny, George Jessell, George Burns, Danny Kaye, Danny Thomas and the like.

"And," he added, "I think this show has something to say. Too many kids nowadays expect to get married in a hurry and have the way paved for them. I've got a daughter 15½. In another couple of years she might run off with some gas station attendant and find out she's living a lot differently from how she did before."

More dramatic roles? Maybe, though he isn't looking for anything strenuous. He turned down a "Wagon Train" because of the location. Well-fixed at 66 — next week—he aims to enjoy life.

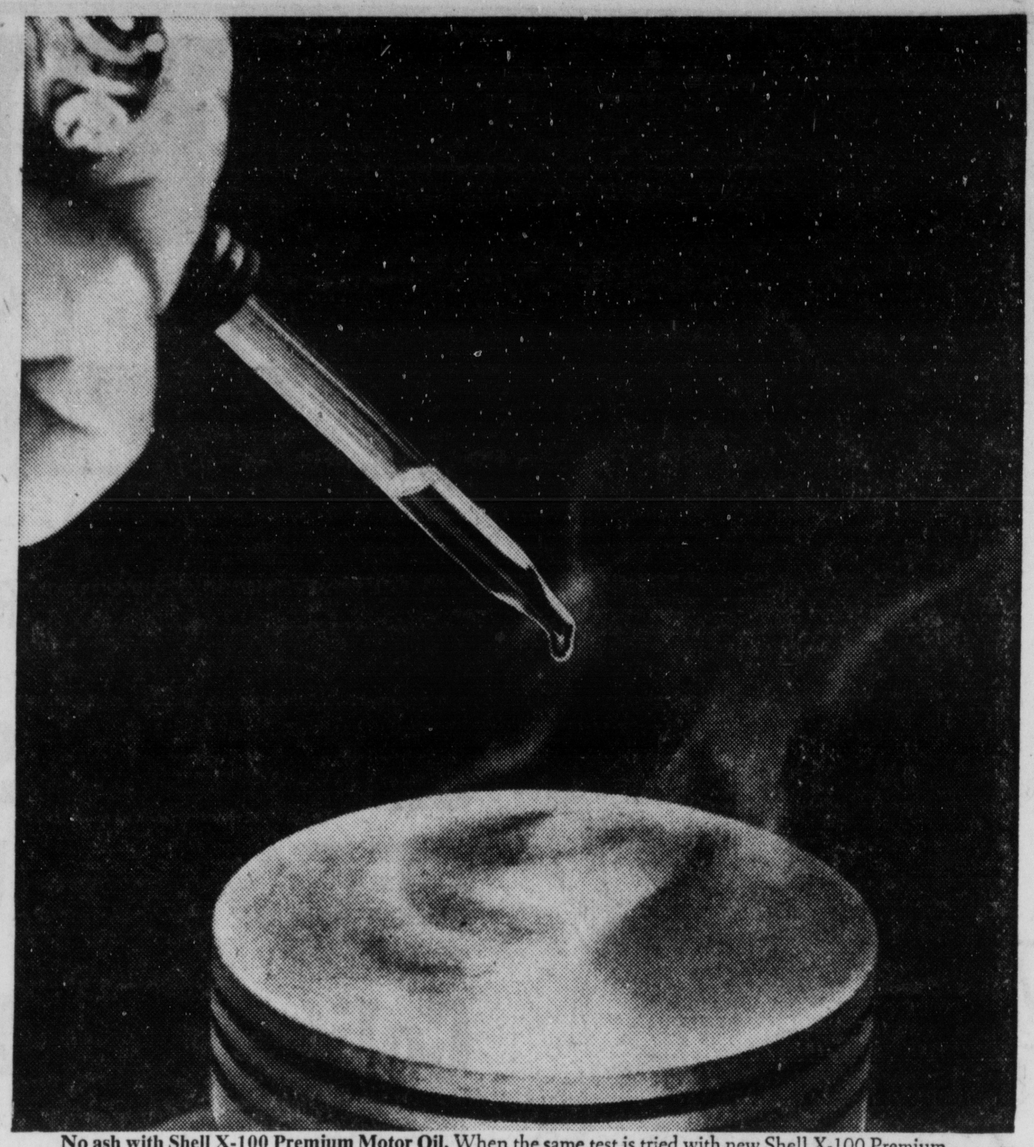
Ordinary oils can create their own metallic ash. Above you see what happens when a conventional multi-grade oil is dropped on this electrically heated piston device. These dark spots are deposits containing additive ash. When additive ash builds up in your car's engine, it's bad news.



No ash with Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil. When the same test is tried with new Shell X-100 Premium all the oil vaporizes. The piston device is clean. There is no additive ash. You can expect a cleaner, longer-lasting engine, with less chance for knock and rough running.

Hot piston test shows that new Shell motor oil eliminates a trouble other oils can create. Read how this revolutionary oil can prolong engine life 5 ways.

Here is an astonishing fact every motorist should know before his next oil change: Premium motor oils—with one exception—will produce a deposit called additive ash. This ash can contribute to rough running and knock.

Shell X-100 Premium is the one premium oil that can't produce an additive ash deposit in your engine. Read how this remarkable oil helps your engine last longer.

TODAY, every Shell dealer has new Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil ready for your next oil change.

New X-100® Premium is unlike any other motor oil. Its revolutionary new formula eliminates a troublesome deposit that all other premium motor oils actually help create themselves. This deposit is additive ash.

No metallic additives

Additive ash is caused by the metallic additives used to prevent scuffing, sludge deposits, oxidation, and so forth.

With each stroke of the piston, these additives can deposit a tiny amount of metallic salts in the combustion chamber. Here they burn and form additive ash.

This crusty ash can build up in your combustion chamber, can cause your engine to knock and run roughly.

New X-100 Premium doesn't contain a single metallic additive. No metallic additives—no additive ash. It's as simple as that.

Additive ash is just one internal trouble that can cause engine problems. You should know about four others, too—and how new Shell X-100 Premium protects your engine against all of them.

Helps prevent sludge from anti-freeze leaks

Remember this when you fill up with anti-freeze this fall: Anti-freeze can leak out of your cooling system into your crankcase.

Many oils can react chemically with permanent anti-freeze to form a horrible sludge—so sticky that it can bring an otherwise healthy engine to a standstill.

New Shell X-100 Premium resists reaction with any sort of anti-freeze. It shrugs it off. This new oil formula puts to rest fears of hidden anti-freeze leaks.

Disarms crankcase dirt

All engines accumulate crankcase dirt. The problem is to stop the many different kinds of dirt particles from ganging up and forming sticky sludge, which can clog your engine.

Most premium oils use a detergent additive to do the job. But the majority of these additives are metallic and cause that old devil—ash.

Shell's solution is to replace the detergent with a dispersant—a remarkable new ingredient called Alkadine.*

Alkadine works to disperse dirt particles—in effect, holds them apart—so that they don't form sticky sludge.

Alkadine additive is potent stuff. After 1,200,000 miles of city driving, engines lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium were torn down and inspected. The amount of sludge was astonishingly low. In some cases there was so little it could hardly be measured.

Ignores temperature changes

Many motor oils tend to become too thick when cold and too thin when hot. This is hard on your engine—and it can be especially troublesome during sudden autumn cold snaps.

New Shell X-100 Premium is an all-year oil. Here's how it works. Alkadine has a molecular structure that resembles a basket of eels.

When the oil is cold, Alkadine's eel-like molecules curl up as if for comfort. In effect, they take up less space in the oil—and the oil flows freely through the tightest bearing.

When the oil is hot, the molecules uncurl, take up more room—and the oil resists thinning. New X-100 Premium lubricates just as effectively in June as it does in January.

This is Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil. Look for the white can with the red letters.

Fights engine acid a new way

All automobile engines manufacture acid. It can cause far more wear than friction. It can attack engine parts much the way that stomach acid causes ulcers.

Most motor oils combat this engine acid with alkaline additives. But the neutralizing effect of the oil gets weaker as engine acid eats up the alkalinity—until eventually such an additive stops working altogether.

Shell X-100 Premium doesn't depend on alkalinity. It actually plates all engine surfaces with a thin chemical film. The metal "adsorbs" some of the oil's protective qualities. Chemists call this phenomenon "chemisorption."

The process of "chemisorption" offers unique long-lasting protection against acid attack.

How much does it cost?

If you now use a premium motor oil, you'll get Shell X-100 Premium for about the same price.

If you're now making do with ordinary motor oil, you'll pay about $3.60 a year more—less than a penny a day extra—assuming you drive at about the national average of 10,000 miles a year, and get regular oil changes.

Quite a bargain for the one motor oil that fights additive ash and four other troubles to help prolong the life of your engine.

Gruelling road tests. Shell piled up 5½ million miles testing X-100 Premium. Sample results: sludge reduced by half, engine wear amazingly slight.

OLD TIMER'S CIVIL WAR NOTES

By C. A. WINCHELL, Shokan, N. Y.

May 4, 1864, Ulster County's 120th Regiment—what was left of the 900-man unit which had left Kingston in the summer of '62—found itself encamped for the night on the old battlefield of Chancellorsville where it had been in camp the year before. Our boys could see the bones of their fallen comrades scattered over the ground, some still unburied and others protruding from the shallow graves in which they had been hastily buried following the battle. They even found weather-stained caps bearing their own regimental number, 120th N.Y.V. Captain John B. Krom fell wounded during the fury of the second day's conflict and in the course of these two engagements the 120th, its ranks already sadly depleted by Gettysburg and other battles, lost in killed, wounded and missing 61 men. Company I which had entered the fray with only 18 men was left with only six.

Followed next, May 10, 11 and 12, the terrific fighting at Spottsylvania Courthouse. After this battle the 120th was transferred to the Fourth Brigade of the Third Division, commanded by General Birney, and thereafter shared the activities of the succeding campaign with Birney's men. But there was no rest for the weary, and on May 20 the regiment found itself on the march to the Chichahominy and Cold Harbor where they worked night and day building entrenchments in preparation for the enemy attack which began June 3. The regiment from June 15 to April 5 was engaged in the long siege before Petersburg where their total casualties were 51 men. October 8, Captain Snyder and seven men were wounded while holding a position only 300 yards from the Confederate line on the Weldon railroad.

February 4, 1865, the 120th received orders to proceed to Dinwidddie Court House to break up the Confederate route of supplies. The regiment then returned to winter quarters and remained there until March 25, when it began following the general line of the Union forces towards Lee's army. It remained in the front rank until the final surrender at Appomattox where Gen. George H. Sharpe, Kingston man who had organized the 120th in '62, was present as one of the staff officers at the ceremony. This famed volunteer infantry organization which ranked very near the top for valor and continuued service among the 300 fighting regiments in the Civil War, was made up principally of Ulster County men and three companies from the mountain townships of neighboring Greene County. Recruiting stations were established at Kingston, Hurley, Olive, Wawarsing, Marlborough, Shandaken, Marbletown, Rochester, Rosendale, Gardiner, Ellenville, Saugerties, Lloyd and Denning. Practically the entire county was combed for physically fit men who had not been among the 800 mustered into the 20th Infantry, or Ulster Guards the previous summer. Later on, the 156th Infantry also was to fill its ranks largely from this county. And as if this were not enough, many of our boys enlisted in the 102nd Infantry, the Harris Light Cavalry and the Fifth Heavy Artillery. Yes, this old county did itself right proud, back there in the early Sixties!

Egbert Lewis, a local veteran for many years after the war, in his reminiscences described the solemn scene of executions for desertion while the 120th and other units of the Fifth Army Corps were in camp in Virginia. About 10,000 men were present upon this awesome occasion. "Five graves were dug in line and five coffins were placed beside them. The whole corps was drawn up in a solid column on a rise of ground, enabling all to have a good view. The five deserters were neatly dressed in white shirts and blue pants. The band played solemn music for about an hour, while the assembled crowd seemed deeply impressed with the sadness of the occasion. The men, fine looking soldiers, were led to their graves where each was seated on the end of his coffin with hands folded behind his back. Sixty soldiers with loaded muskets were drawn up in line in front of them. The right and left men met and kissed each other and were again placed upon their coffins. After the chaplain had spoken a few words the order came to fire, when sixty muskets flashed and the men lay dead upon their coffins. (Truly an incident replete with sadness, in a terrible war fraught with pain and suffering).—C.A.W.

Heads Office for Aging

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today appointed Garson Meyer of Rochester chairman of the Advisory Committee to the State Office for the Aging.

Meyer, president of the Council of Social Agencies of Rochester and Monroe County, serves in the non-salaried post at the pleasure of the governor.

Fisherman Thought Drowned During Gale

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—Michael Shannon, about 60, of Oswego, apparently was drowned Tuesday in Lake Ontario.

A man saw Shannon's red rowboat overturned in five-foot waves near Oswego harbor. The coast guard recovered a seat cushion and an oil can and sighted an oar. No trace of the boat was found, however.

Shannon had gone fishing, neighbors said. Gale warnings were issued for the area along the lake and wind gusts to 50 miles an hour pounded the harbor.

Lung Cancer Is Most Common Among State Men

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state health commissioner reported today that lung cancer had become the most common form of cancer affecting men — especially cigarette smokers —in the Upstate-Long Island area.

Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe said breast cancer remained the most common form of the disease in women.

Hilleboe also said the number of new cases of all forms of the disease in both men and women in the area last year had risen to 24,990, an increase of 160 over 1959.

At the same time, he said, there were 14,570 deaths from cancer reported last year compared to 14,464 in 1959.

Lung cancer affected 1,940 men last year. This marked an increase in its incidence from 12.09 to 46.46 cases per 100,000 men since 1942.

Cancer of the skin had been the most common form of the disease occurring in men before 1960.

Hilleboe said research by the State Health Department and other research facilities "clearly indicates that lung cancer occurs much more frequently among persons who smoke cigarettes than among non-smokers. Air Pollution and breathing in certain dusts and fumes are also factors in lung cancer."

There has, however, been some disagreement among medical researchers as to whether cigarette smoking contributed to the development of lung cancer.

Last year, Hilleboe said, 1,906 new cases of skin cancer and 1,234 cases of cancer of the prostate were reported among men.

Breast cancer affected 2,792 women last year, while 1,250 cases of cancer of the large intestine, 1,170 cases of cancer of the cervix and 1,507 cases of skin cancer were reported among women.

WHO CAN ARGUE?—As good a definition of a hurricane as you'll find anywhere graces a Red Cross display made by school children. Christine Burrous, San Francisco, Calif., Red Cross poster girl admires a first-grader's work. A hurricane? Just "too much wind."

Western Solidarity, Pulaski Days Named

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Oct. 10 will be Western Hemisphere Day in New York State while General Pulaski will be honored Oct. 11.

Gov. Rockefeller, in a proclamation Tuesday, called for reaffirmation of "our adherence to the principle of hemisphere solidarity."

Oct. 11 is the 182nd anniversary of the death of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, a Polish count who was fatally wounded at the siege of Savannah while serving in the Continental Army, the governor said.

Shippers Warned Of Seaway Speed

MONTREAL (AP) — Vessels on the St. Lawrence Seaway have been warned to keep down their speed or face imposition of speed restrictions on the inland waterway.

The Canadian Department of Transport said vessels creating large waves had caused a serious risk to lives of children playing at seaway beaches and an increase in damage along seaway banks.

The notice Tuesday warned shippers and ship masters that they may be liable for damages caused by such waves.

It added that if the ship masters did not moderate the speed of their ships, a limit would have to be established "to prevent damage by any type of ship."

Group Studying Master Sections For All Crafts

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) —A committee of builders and construction workers is studying the possibility of master agreements in labor contracts, rather than separate agreements with each craft.

The committee was formed Tuesday at the fourth annual Joint Labor-Management Conference of the State Building Industry.

Management representatives said master agreements would stabilize the industry in New York State and encourage construction.

Under a master agreement, one contract would cover plumbers, bricklayers and other crafts. At present, each craft negotiates a separate contract with builders.

Labor spokesman said master agreements were a possibility. The agreements were used in New York City from 1946 until labor dissension ended the practice in 1953.

OLD TIMER'S CIVIL WAR NOTES

By C. A. WINCHELL, Shokan, N. Y.

May 4, 1864, Ulster County's 120th Regiment—what was left of the 900-man unit which had left Kingston in the summer of '62—found itself encamped for the night on the old battlefield of Chancellorsville where it had been in camp the year before. Our boys could see the bones of their fallen comrades scattered over the ground, some still unburied and others protruding from the shallow graves in which they had been hastily buried following the battle. They even found weather-stained caps bearing their own regimental number, 120th N.Y.V. Captain John B. Krom fell wounded during the fury of the second day's conflict and in the course of these two engagements the 120th, its ranks already sadly depleted by Gettysburg and other battles, lost in killed, wounded and missing 61 men. Company I which had entered the fray with only 18 men was left with only six.

Followed next, May 10, 11 and 12, the terrific fighting at Spottsylvania Courthouse. After this battle the 120th was transferred to the Fourth Brigade of the Third Division, commanded by General Birney, and thereafter shared the activities of the succeding campaign with Birney's men. But there was no rest for the weary, and on May 20 the regiment found itself on the march to the Chichahominy and Cold Harbor where they worked night and day building entrenchments in preparation for the enemy attack which began June 3. The regiment from June 15 to April 5 was engaged in the long siege before Petersburg where their total casualties were 51 men. October 8, Captain Snyder and seven men were wounded while holding a position only 300 yards from the Confederate line on the Weldon railroad.

February 4, 1865, the 120th received orders to proceed to Dinwidddie Court House to break up the Confederate route of supplies. The regiment then returned to winter quarters and remained there until March 25, when it began following the general line of the Union forces towards Lee's army. It remained in the front rank until the final surrender at Appomattox where Gen. George H. Sharpe, Kingston man who had organized the 120th in '62, was present as one of the staff officers at the ceremony. This famed volunteer infantry organization which ranked very near the top for valor and continued service among the 300 fighting regiments in the Civil War, was made up principally of Ulster County men and three companies from the mountain townships of neighboring Greene County. Recruiting stations were established at Kingston, Hurley, Olive, Wawarsing, Marlborough, Shandaken, Marbletown, Rochester, Rosendale, Gardiner, Ellenville, Saugerties, Lloyd and Denning. Practically the entire county was combed for physically fit men who had not been among the 800 mustered into the 20th Infantry, or Ulster Guards the previous summer. Later on, the 156th Infantry also was to fill its ranks largely from this county. And as if this were not enough, many of our boys enlisted in the 102nd Infantry, the Harris Light Cavalry and the Fifth Heavy Artillery, Yes, this old county did itself right proud, back there in the early Sixties!

Egbert Lewis, a local veteran for many years after the war, in his reminiscences described the solemn scene of executions for desertion while the 120th and other units of the Fifth Army Corps were in camp in Virginia. About 10,000 men were present upon this awesome occasion. "Five graves were dug in line and five coffins were placed beside them. The whole corps was drawn up in a solid column on a rise of ground, enabling all to have a good view. The five deserters were neatly dressed in white shirts and blue pants. The band played solemn music for about an hour, while the assembled crowd seemed deeply impressed with the sadness of the occasion. The men, fine looking soldiers, were led to their graves where each was seated on the end of his coffin with hands folded behind his back. Sixty soldiers with loaded muskets were drawn up in line in front of them. The right and left men met and kissed each other and were again placed upon their coffins. After the chaplain had spoken a few words the order came to fire, when sixty muskets flashed and the men lay dead upon their coffins. (Truly an incident replete with sadness, in a terrible war fraught with pain and suffering).—C.A.W.

Local Officials Plan to Attend Red Cross Parley

The annual Red Cross territorial conference to be held at The Laurels Hotel, Monticello, Thursday, will be attended by Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Foehser, Wakeman R. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hanstein, General Sherman V. Hasbrouck (USA Ret.) and Mrs. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Walter K. Hubbard, Louis A. Lewis, Mrs. Benjamin H. Matteson and Mrs. Richard K. Stewart, all of the local chapter.

The purpose of the meeting is to provide an opportunity for chapters in the area to discuss problems and share experiences. There will be speakers from the Sheriffs' Association, Office of Civil Defense and The American Red Cross. Workshops on disaster, fund raising, chapter administration, office of volunteers, first aid, water safety and nursing services will be held in the afternoon.

Heads Office for Aging

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today appointed Garson Meyer of Rochester chairman of the Advisory Committee to the State Office for the Aging.

Meyer, president of the Council of Social Agencies of Rochester and Monroe County, serves in the non-salaried post at the pleasure of the governor.

Fisherman Thought Drowned During Gale

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—Michael Shannon, about 60, of Oswego, apparently was drowned Tuesday in Lake Ontario.

A man saw Shannon's red rowboat overturned in five-foot waves near Oswego harbor. The coast guard recovered a seat cushion and an oil can and sighted an oar. No trace of the boat was found, however.

Shannon had gone fishing, neighbors said. Gale warnings were issued for the area along the lake and wind gusts to 50 miles an hour pounded the harbor.

Lung Cancer Is Most Common Among State Men

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state health commissioner reported today that lung cancer had become the most common form of cancer affecting men — especially cigarette smokers —in the Upstate-Long Island area.

Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe said breast cancer remained the most common form of the disease in women.

Hilleboe also said the number of new cases of all forms of the disease in both men and women in the area last year had risen to 24,990, an increase of 160 over 1959.

At the same time, he said, there were 14,570 deaths from cancer reported last year compared to 14,464 in 1959.

Lung cancer affected 1,940 men last year. This marked an increase in its incidence from 12.09 to 46.46 cases per 100,000 men since 1942.

Cancer of the skin had been the most common form of the disease occurring in men before 1960.

Hilleboe said research by the State Health Department and other research facilities "clearly indicates that lung cancer occurs much more frequently among persons who smoke cigarettes than among non-smokers. Air Pollution and breathing in certain dusts and fumes are also factors in lung cancer."

There has, however, been some disagreement among medical researchers as to whether cigarette smoking contributed to the development of lung cancer.

Last year, Hilleboe said, 1,906 new cases of skin cancer and 1,234 cases of cancer of the prostate were reported among men.

Breast cancer affected 2,792 women last year, while 1,250 cases of cancer of the large intestine, 1,170 cases of cancer of the cervix and 1,507 cases of skin cancer were reported among women.

Baratta Opposes Appeals of Two Accused Slayers

Appeals filed by two convicted Dutchess County slayers will be opposed by District Attorney Raymond Baratta.

Edwin Codarre, 30, who was convicted of slaying a 10-year-old East Fishkill girl on Aug. 13, 1943, is taking an appeal to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court. He is appealing a decision of the Supreme Court's Appellate Division which denied Codarre's writ of error motion.

Codarre, who was 13 at the time of the slaying, is serving 30 years to life in prison.

Baratta said he also will oppose an appeal Salvatore Zarcone, 32, has taken to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

In 1953, Zarcone pleaded guilty in Dutchess County Court to a reduced charge of second degree murder. He was sentenced to a prison term of 20 years to life. Zarcone was charged with the fatal stabbing of Howard Miller, 31, a fellow inmate at Green Haven prison on Oct. 22, 1952.

Zarcone had been serving time on a robbery conviction. He is appealing a decision of County Judge John R. Schwartz, who denied a previous bid for freedom.

State Police said the mishap occurred about a mile and a half east of Glasco Turnpike at 12:30 a. m. today when Hill cut a curve too sharp went off the north side of the highway, flipped over and landed with his car top down against a sedan owned by Joan Fratini of New York City, presently staying on Route 212.

Hill was arrested by Troopers Dave Wachtel and Robert Mackey and taken before Justice Rudolf Baumgarten of Woodstock who fined him $25 for failure to keep to the right of the road. The Hill car was a total wreck, state police said.

Penalty Stiffened For Sabotaging Communications

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Legislation stiffening the penalties for sabotage of communications systems became law Tuesday with the signature of President Kennedy.

The bill increases to a maximum of 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine the penalties for destruction or damage of commercial companies' facilities that might be used by the government.

The measure grew out of the dynamiting last May of television relay facilities.

Highland Child Hit By Car Is Improved

A two-year-old Highland boy, injured Monday when struck by a truck in a driveway at his parents' home, today was reported improved at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Brian Paul Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Harris, North Road, Highland, received contusions of the chest and other injuries when struck by a Dugan Brothers bakery truck as the vehicle was backing in the driveway.

Troopers said the truck was driven by Edward Dombrowski, 38, of Chester.

The boy's mother said today her son is expected to be discharged from the hospital in a couple of days. She reported his condition is "much better."

Lions Hear Talk, See Movie About Fight on Cancer

At the weekly Lions luncheon on Tuesday, guest speaker was Dr. Stuart Fong, of Memorial Hospital, New York City. Dr. Fong is a consultant to the Ulster County Tumor clinic.

Introduced by Dr. Herbert Derman, Dr. Fong spoke on chemo-therapy for cancer patients and showed a movie prepared at the Sloan-Kettering Institute. Dr. Fong, who obtained his baccalaureate at Stanford, was graduated from Harvard Medical School. He served in France with the Air Force as a chief surgeon and in 1949 became associated with Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Fong related some surprising statistics concerning cancer: This year 500,000 people will get cancer in one form or another; half will die and one third can be saved by early recognition. Dr. Fong stressed the importance of early diagnosis and early symptom recognition in curing or correcting cancer.

In speaking of chemo-therapy, he related that surgery and radiation are still the two main modes of treatment. Of 100,000 compounds tested, only 20 have proved effective and these 20 are not wholly satisfactory.

The movie shown by Dr. Fong emphasized the complexities of isolating and testing new drugs. Even after exhaustive tests, which may take up to two years and cost $500,000, a drug may prove of little or no value.

Dr. Fong also stressed that no cure of cancer is known, and that while the fight to find one goes on, a check-up every year is the greatest way to avoid the fatal disease.

Also at yesterday's meeting was Edwin Sanft of 25 Roosevelt Avenue. Young Sanft was honored for his action in rescuing a man from the peak of a roof where he was marooned when his ladder broke. Sanft formed a human link between the two segments of the ladder and allowed the man to reach the ground in safety. Sanft received a certificate of recognition from the club.

Tax Relief Died During Long '61 Congress Session

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hope for a tax cut next year, a promising young sprout in the spring of 1961, dried up and died during the long, hot session of the 1961 Congress.

There's still brave talk about thoroughgoing reform of the rambling income tax structure, which could well include a reductin in tax rates for many. But congressional realists say the odds are long against any such change being accomplished before 1963 at the earliest.

The House Ways and Means Committee is committed to starting the 1962 session with an all-out effort to write the kind of limited, first-step tax reform bill which President Kennedy wanted enacted this year. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says he hopes to send a bill to the House by February.

That would take some doing, since the committee is known to be deeply divided, even after weeks of discussion, on such basic questions as withholding of income tax on interest and dividends, tightening up on expense account allowances and the form of tax encouragement to be given business modernization investment.

The chances for enactment of reformed and perhaps lowered taxes during the next session depend on the chances of the committee finishing work on the interim bill, taking care of other inevitable chores and then completing the formidable preliminary work on a major overhaul—all this in a session likely to be much shorter than the 1961 session. All House members and one-third of the senators by this time next year will be deep in election campaigns.

Fall Social Season Getting Under Way At the White House

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is getting its fall social season under way, piecemeal and following tradition after a fashion.

The first major event that falls into the scheme of customary presidential entertaining is a big judicial reception scheduled for Monday night, Oct. 9.

The Supreme Court, federal judges and about 400 guests will be invited. Instead of the usual 9 p.m. formal white tie reception time of other years, the Kennedys will entertain from 6 to 8 p.m., with dress informal.

The White House is issuing its social plans monthly instead of for the entire season.

The problem, according to the social secretary, is the increasing number of state visits that require the scheduling of a formal White House state dinner for visiting heads of state.

Such a white tie dinner was held Sept. 19 for President Manuel Prado of Peru. It brought Mrs. Kennedy back briefly from a Cape Cod vacation.

She'll come back from a Newport, R.I., vacation to join her husband in greeting President Ibrahim Abboud of Sudan, Wednesday, Oct. 4.

For this occasion, Mrs. Kennedy is trying something new in White House entertainment. Seven players from the American Shakespeare Festival Theater and Academy at Stratford, Conn., will put on excerpts from their Shakesperian repertoire. A special stage will be set up in the east ballroom of the White House.

Of Interest to Men

We read and see so much about women's fashions these days—the longer skirt, the shorter skirt, the dropped waistline—it might be amusing to take note of some of the unusual tips we have accumulated about men's fashions.

The Khaibar Khan of Iran, for instance, recently visited Paris for a two-day stay. His wardrobe included 440 pairs of shoes, 55 tuxedo jackets, 127 lightweight suits, 77 fall suits, 714 neckties, 180 sweaters, and many other items. He also changed his clothes, and his white carnation, six times a day! (Doesn't everyone?).

We notice that some etiquette books on marriage ceremonies advise the bridegroom to have the soles of his shoes well polished so that he will look proper even from a kneeling position.

Rep. Daniel Flood of Virginia wears a distinctive ensemble all summer—a white suit with black shirt and tie. With his black hair and moustache, someone recently said he looked like a "photograph negative."

Historical note—during the 19th Century stores sold their customers an extra piece of fabric with every suit to enable them to patch their garments when necessary.

Every so often, some bright publicity man will list all his male clients on a piece of paper, add the names of a top athlete or political office holder, label it "The Ten Best Dressed Men" and rush it to the papers. Their excitement falls within the category of "Stop the Presses! This Is News!" Of course it isn't so—it's meaningless. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' wear informs us that one such list included Van Johnson and Howard Hughes. At the time the former was wearing bright red socks with his tuxedo and the latter was pictured wearing sneakers with his!

Some fashion highlights—Conventional sports jackets of corduroy are now available in the smart plaid and checked patterns, the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports. Many of them are color-coordinated with plain slacks.

Fancy silk pocket handkerchiefs are consistently growing in popularity. This style, which had its first resurgence on the West Coast, is now sweeping the country. Cardigan sweaters in the seven-button style, rather than the low-buttoned ones, will be the big knitwear style note this fall and winter.

There's a new travel suit on the market that has almost double the quota of pockets found in conventional clothes. Several are "safe pockets"—to keep tickets, passport, money, etc., from being stolen or lost.

The growing acceptance of the two-button suit is being widely accredited to the influence of President Kennedy. The suit is highly flattering to most physiques and shows more "linen" than the higher-buttoned models.

Shoes for fall and winter will continue to have the lighter weight look. Tapered front to give a narrow appearance. Highrisers will continue to be popular. Topcoats should make a comeback this season. Many British "short-warm"' models and others are seen in bright and colorful tweeds.

There's a slack now being market tested that has an unusual construction. The waistband has a built-in abdominal support!

There's a restaurant in New York that recently announced a fine idea—gray to match any tie!

And did you know that Harry Hershfield, this nation's most prolific toastmaster, reportedly wears out six to seven tuxedos each year.

Man hours—a man of 75 can figure he's spent about 2,478 hours shaving, and will have removed an aggregate of 60 feet of hair from his chin!

Additional trends—daytime business shirts in a wide variety of plain colors and patterns (checks, stripes and plaids) are now being shown by stores and will probably become increasingly popular with men and the ladies who do a lot of their shopping. They're smart and practical.

The Camel Coat—in camel hair or camel color, in topcoat and in car coat is coming on strong this season.

Dutchess College Has Two Graduate Level Courses

New York University's School of Education will offer two graduate-level courses on the Dutchess Community College campus during the fall semester. They are: Current World Affairs, which began September 25, and Coordinating and Supervising the Secondary School, beginning October 2. Both courses carry three college credits and may be used to fulfill degree requirements in graduate and undergraduate study programs at N.Y.U. Classes will meet biweekly from 6 to 10 p. m. at the local College. Class meeting times are tentative and subject to revision.

The Current World Affairs course to be taught by Dr. Jessie Dossick will analyze the political, economic and cultural changes in the postwar history of Great Britain, France, East and West Germany, Russia, China, Japan and India.

The course in Coordinating and Supervising the Secondary School will deal with the application of leadership skills in improving the teaching of secondary school subjects. Varied procedures for coordinating and supervising secondary school programs in a variety of subject fields will be considered in the class. Professor Samuel Keys will be the instructor.

Registration for these courses may be arranged through the Evening and Extension Division of the College.

Miss Patricia Ann O'Reilley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. O'Reilley of Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with David Clark Fuellhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Of Interest to Men

We read and see so much about women's fashions these days—the longer skirt, the shorter skirt, the dropped waistline—it might be amusing to take note of some of the unusual tips we have accumulated about men's fashions.

The Khaibar Khan of Iran, for instance, recently visited Paris for a two-day stay. His wardrobe included 440 pairs of shoes, 55 tuxedo jackets, 127 lightweight suits, 77 fall suits, 714 neckties, 180 sweaters, and many other items. He also changed his clothes, and his white carnation, six times a day! (Doesn't everyone?).

We notice that some etiquette books on marriage ceremonies advise the bridegroom to have the soles of his shoes well polished so that he will look proper even from a kneeling position.

Rep. Daniel Flood of Virginia wears a distinctive ensemble all summer—a white suit with black shirt and tie. With his black hair and moustache, someone recently said he looked like a "photograph negative."

Historical note—during the 19th Century stores sold their customers an extra piece of fabric with every suit to enable them to patch their garments when necessary.

Every so often, some bright publicity man will list all his male clients on a piece of paper, add the names of a top athlete or political office holder, label it "The Ten Best Dressed Men" and rush it to the papers. Their excitement falls within the category of "Stop the Presses! This Is News!" Of course it isn't so—it's meaningless. The American Institute of Men's and Boys' wear informs us that one such list included Van Johnson and Howard Hughes. At the time the former was wearing bright red socks with his tuxedo and the latter was pictured wearing sneakers with his!

Some fashion highlights—Conventional sports jackets of corduroy are now available in the smart plaid and checked patterns, the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports. Many of them are color-coordinated with plain slacks.

Fancy silk pocket handkerchiefs are consistently growing in popularity. This style, which had its first resurgence on the West Coast, is now sweeping the country. Cardigan sweaters in the seven-button style, rather than the low-buttoned ones, will be the big knitwear style note this fall and winter.

There's a new travel suit on the market that has almost double the quota of pockets found in conventional clothes. Several are "safe pockets"—to keep tickets, passport, money, etc., from being stolen or lost.

The growing acceptance of the two-button suit is being widely accredited to the influence of President Kennedy. The suit is highly flattering to most physiques and shows more "linen" than the higher-buttoned models.

Shoes for fall and winter will continue to have the lighter weight look. Tapered front to give a narrow appearance. Highrisers will continue to be popular. Topcoats should make a comeback this season. Many British "short-warm" models and others are seen in bright and colorful tweeds.

There's a slack now being market tested that has an unusual construction. The waistband has a built-in abdominal support!

There's a restaurant in New York that recently announced a fine idea—gray to match any tie!

And did you know that Harry Hershfield, this nation's most prolific toastmaster, reportedly wears out six to seven tuxedos each year.

Man hours—a man of 75 can figure he's spent about 2,478 hours shaving, and will have removed an aggregate of 60 feet of hair from his chin!

Additional trends—daytime business shirts in a wide variety of plain colors and patterns (checks, stripes and plaids) are now being shown by stores and will probably become increasingly popular with men and the ladies who do a lot of their shopping. They're smart and practical.

The Camel Coat—in camel hair or camel color, in topcoat and in car coat is coming on strong this season.

Dutchess College Has Two Graduate Level Courses

New York University's School of Education will offer two graduate-level courses on the Dutchess Community College campus during the fall semester. They are: Current World Affairs, which began September 25, and Coordinating and Supervising the Secondary School, beginning October 2. Classes will meet biweekly from 6 to 10 p. m. at the local College. Class meeting times are tentative and subject to revision.

The Current World Affairs course to be taught by Dr. Jessie Dossick will analyze the political, economic and cultural changes in the postwar history of Great Britain, France, East and West Germany, Russia, China, Japan and India.

The course in Coordinating and Supervising the Secondary School will deal with the application of leadership skills in improving the teaching of secondary school subjects. Varied procedures for coordinating and supervising secondary school programs in a variety of subject fields will be considered in the class. Professor Samuel Keys will be the instructor.

Registration for these courses may be arranged through the Evening and Extension Division of the College.

Three KHS Students Receive Recognition For Achievement in National Merit Testing

Principal M. Clifford Miller of Kingston High School announced today that three of the school's students have been given recognition for their high achievement in the initial stage of the seventh annual National Merit Scholarship competition.

He said the students were named semi-finalists in the 1961-62 Merit Program as a result of their outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The students are Richard H. Fertel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fertel of 95 West Chestnut Street;

Bruce M. Pech, son of Roy A. Wulff, Lucas Avenue extension;

Eric A. Timrud, son of Dr. David H. Timrud of 82 Fair Street.

These students are among approximately 10,000 seniors throughout the country who attained Semifinalist status through their high scores on the qualifying examination, a test of educational development given last March in more than 15,000 high schools.

The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in the United States territories. Each semi-finalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice.

The annual program is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, a non-profit organization. Its president, John M. Stalnaker, said:

"This nation's future intellectual leaders will come from young people who have the qualities of the semi-finalists in the Merit Program. Their accomplishment brings credit to themselves, their schools, their parents, and their communities.

"The achievement of any student is usually the product of many influences. Ability is of course a major factor. The wish and the will to make the most of that ability are equally important. Ambition and drive are key factors.

"But the able can be discouraged as well as encouraged. That is why the attitudes of parents, the extent to which a community supports its schools, and the amount of recognition given to intellectual attainment also significantly influence the development of talent.

"At a time when brain power is increasingly the source of national power, we must all encourage, in every way possible, the pursuit of intellectual excellence by our able students."

To increase their opportunities to obtain financial assistance if they need it, the Merit Corporation sends the names of semi-finalists to all accredited colleges and universities and to other scholarship-granting agencies and financial aid sources. Studies show that about 50 per cent of the semi-finalists obtain scholarship assistance from sources other than the Merit Program.

The semi-finalists will take another rigorous examination, the three-hour Scholarship Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board, to be given in testing centers throughout the nation on December 2, 1961.

Students whose scores on the second test substantiate their performance on the qualifying test and who are endorsed by their high schools will become Finalists in the competition. In past years, more than 97 per cent of the semi-finalists have become finalists. All finalists received a Certificate of Merit in recognition of their outstanding performance in the program.

As finalists, the students will be eligible for scholarship awards sponsored by about 130 business corporations, foundations, associations, individuals, and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation itself.

In the final phase of the competition, the high school grades, extracurricular activities, school citizenship, and leadership qualities of the students will be evaluated along with their scores on the tests.

About April 26, 1962, the names of the Merit Scholars will be announced, the exact number depending on the extent of sponsor support of the Merit Program.

Each Merit Scholarship is a four-year award to cover the undergraduate college years. The recipient's stipend is tailored to his need. Stipends now average about $800 a year.

For Merit Scholars who require financial assistance, awards may reach a maximum of $1,500 annually. For students who already possess finnancial resources which will enable them to attend the college of their choice, awards of $100 a year are granted.

The minimum stipend is a form of "educationanl insurance" for the student who receives it, because the amount will be increased at any time while he is in college if there is a significant change in his family's financial situation.

Finalists designate the college they wish to attend and the course of study they plan to pursue. The colleges chosen by the Merit Scholars in most instances also receive supplementary grants up to $500 per year to help defray the actual costs of educating the students.

The Merit Scholarship Program was established in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation and sponsors have thus far contributed direct financial assistance to nearly 5,000 students and their colleges.

Three KHS Students Receive Recognition For Achievement in National Merit Testing

Principal M. Clifford Miller of Kingston High School announced today that three of the school's students have been given recognition for their high achievement in the initial stage of the seventh annual National Merit Scholarship competition.

He said the students were named semi-finalists in the 1961-62 Merit Program as a result of their outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The students are Richard H. Fertel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fertel of 95 West Chestnut Street;

Bruce M. Pech, son of Roy A. Wulff, Lucas Avenue extension;

Eric A. Timrud, son of Dr. David H. Timrud of 82 Fair Street.

These students are among approximately 10,000 seniors throughout the country who attained Semifinalist status through their high scores on the qualifying examination, a test of educational development given last March in more than 15,000 high schools.

The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in the United States territories. Each semi-finalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice.

The annual program is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, a non-profit organization. Its president, John M. Stalnaker, said:

"This nation's future intellectual leaders will come from young people who have the qualities of the semi-finalists in the Merit Program. Their accomplishment brings credit to themselves, their schools, their parents, and their communities.

"The achievement of any student is usually the product of many influences. Ability is of course a major factor. The wish and the will to make the most of that ability are equally important. Ambition and drive are key factors.

"But the able can be discouraged as well as encouraged. That is why the attitudes of parents, the extent to which a community supports its schools, and the amount of recognition given to intellectual attainment also significantly influence the development of talent.

"At a time when brain power is increasingly the source of national power, we must all encourage, in every way possible, the pursuit of intellectual excellence by our able students."

To increase their opportunities to obtain financial assistance if they need it, the Merit Corporation sends the names of semi-finalists to all accredited colleges and universities and to other scholarship-granting agencies and financial aid sources. Studies show that about 50 per cent of the semi-finalists obtain scholarship assistance from sources other than the Merit Program.

The semi-finalists will take another rigorous examination, the three-hour Scholarship Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board, to be given in testing centers throughout the nation on December 2, 1961.

Students whose scores on the second test substantiate their performance on the qualifying test and who are endorsed by their high schools will become Finalists in the competition. In past years, more than 97 per cent of the semi-finalists have become finalists. All finalists received a Certificate of Merit in recognition of their outstanding performance in the program.

As finalists, the students will be eligible for scholarship awards sponsored by about 130 business corporations, foundations, associations, individuals, and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation itself.

In the final phase of the competition, the high school grades, extracurricular activities, school citizenship, and leadership qualities of the students will be evaluated along with their scores on the tests.

About April 26, 1962, the names of the Merit Scholars will be announced, the exact number depending on the extent of sponsor support of the Merit Program.

Each Merit Scholarship is a four-year award to cover the undergraduate college years. The recipient's stipend is tailored to his need. Stipends now average about $800 a year.

For Merit Scholars who require financial assistance, awards may reach a maximum of $1,500 annually. For students who already possess finnancial resources which will enable them to attend the college of their choice, awards of $100 a year are granted.

The minimum stipend is a form of "educationanl insurance" for the student who receives it, because the amount will be increased at any time while he is in college if there is a significant change in his family's financial situation.

Finalists designate the college they wish to attend and the course of study they plan to pursue. The colleges chosen by the Merit Scholars in most instances also receive supplementary grants up to $500 per year to help defray the actual costs of educating the students.

The Merit Scholarship Program was established in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The National Merit Scholarship Corporation and sponsors have thus far contributed direct financial assistance to nearly 5,000 students and their colleges.

Maris Starts Swinging for 61st Homer, Has Four Games Left

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now for No. 61.

Roger Maris, who hit his 60th homer Tuesday night as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 3-2, has four games remaining in which to get the home run that will make him the most productive one-season homer hammerer in major league baseball history.

He'll get his first shot at No. 61 today against the Orioles' Steve Barber (17-12). Then he takes a day off Thursday before resuming his efforts to surpass Babe Ruth's 60-homer total of 1927 with a three-game set against Boston that closes out the 162-game schedule.

No. 60 for Maris was a high arching shot off a 2-2 pitch by Baltimore right-hander Jack Fisher in the third inning. It came four games too late to qualify for an official tie with Ruth's 34-year-old record under the 154—decision limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick. The game was the Yanks 159th, including one tie.

After grounding a single to center in the first inning, Maris fouled off the first two pitches by Fisher in the third, took two balls, then fouled one into the dirt before connecting with a drive that shot into the upper right field stands, about three feet fair.

"It's the greatest thing that has happened to me," said Maris after the game, "probably the greatest thing that ever will happen to me. Now that I've got it, I'd like to get one more, just one more."

Maris' homer was the Yanks first run off Fisher (10-13), who led 2-0 going into the third, but lost the game on Johnny Blanchard's run-producing single in the sixth and an error by outfielder Jackie Brandt in the seventh that let in the clincher following singles by Billy Gardner and Tom Tresh. Reliever Rollie Sheldon (10-5) was the winner.

In other AL games, Kansas City beat Detroit 8-5, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 7-3, Washington nipped Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago and Boston split. The White Sox won the first 7-5. The Red Sox came back to take the nightcap by the same score.

Colavito Connects

Rocky Colavito hit homer No. 44 for the Tigers but the A's rapped rookie starter Ron Nischwitz (0-1) for six runs in the first three innings to put it away.

Gary Bell (12-15), who had a shutout until Zoilo Versalles hit a three-run homer in the eighth, went all the way for the Indians and stroked three hits in a 14-hit attack against the Twins.

Gene Green's ninth-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Senators and Bennie Daniels (11-11) the victory over the Angels as homers accounted for all the runs.

Roy Sievers, who also hit a homer in the second game, won the opener for the White Sox and Ray Herbert (12-12) with a two-run shot in the seventh off Gene Conley (11-14). The Red Sox won the nightcap when pinch hitter Gary Geiger smashed a two-run triple in the eighth.

Reds Celebrate After Winning First Pennant in 21 Years

Defeat Cubs, 6-3, Then Hear LA, Bucs Split

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Reds si, Yankees no."

That was the main theme as the long-frustrated Cincinnati citizenry celebrated the Reds' first National League pennant in 21 years with a rash of superlatives for their heroes and a deep bow in the direction of Pittsburgh pitcher Joe Gibbon.

The Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3 in a day game Tuesday earning a tie for the NL flag, then had to wait for Gibbon to get the actual clinching job done by eliminating the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers with a one-hitter.

That victory, an 8-0 shutout after the Dodgers had remained in contention with a 5-3 victory in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader, sent the Reds into the World Series against the American League champion New York Yankees.

Brosnan Clinches It

To ace reliever Jim Brosnan (10-3) went the honor of nailing down Cincinnati's long-awaited pennant. Brosnan set the Cubs down on one hit over the final three innings. Jerry Lynch provided the winning runs with a two-run homer in the eighth that snapped a 3-3 tie.

The Reds' long day started in the first inning when Chicago scored against starter Bob Purkey on Don Zimmer's single, a passed ball and George Altman's double. The Cubs added two in the fifth when the Reds defense collapsed following a two-out single by Cub starter Bob Anderson.

Richie Ashburn's roller went for a hit when second baseman Don Blasingame failed to rush in, and Don Zimmer was credited with a hit when Gene Freese allowed his tap down third to roll and the ball stayed fair.

Ernie Banks then bounced to shortstop Eddie Kasko but his throw to Blasingame for a force-out was wide. Anderson scored and the bases remained loaded. Altman's walk forced in the other run before the side was retired.

The Reds battled back. Held to one hit over five innings, they scored their first run in the fifth on a leadoff homer by John Edwards and put it away when Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer in the seventh off Anderson (7-10) and Lynch connected in the eighth.

At Pittsburgh, the Dodgers hung on by winning the opener behind Stan Williams (14-12) with a five-run second inning outburst against Bob Friend (14-19). Jim Gilliam's bases-loaded triple was the key blow.

Only One Hit

That was the Dodgers last chance. Gibbon completely subdued them in the nightcap, allowing only a leadoff sixth inning pinch-hit single by Bob Aspromonte.

The Pirates won it in the third, chasing Don Drysdale (12-10) with a five-run splurge after two were out.

In the only other NL game, Milwaukee beat St. Louis 9-2. Joe Adcock's three-run homer in the first inning off Ray Sadecki (14-10) gave Lew Burdette (18-10) a cushion he never relinquished.

Maris, Reds Realize Goals, 60 Home Runs, NL Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roger Maris, 27-year-old New York Yankee outfielder, and the Cincinnati Reds, a pennant-starved team for 21 years, both have realized their season goals —Maris a little late and the Reds in plenty of time.

Maris blasted his 60th home run Tuesday night to equal Babe Ruth's record output of 1927. It will go down in the books as a separate record by order of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick because Maris wasn't able to do it in 154 games.

This season, the American League schedule was lengthened to 162 games and Frick ruled that Maris' efforts—even if he hits more homers in the final four games—will be listed in a separate category from Ruth's.

The Reds, who finished sixth last year and were not rated any better than fifth by the experts this season, won the National League pennant with a big assist from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs Tuesday, 6-3, in Chicago, then headed back for Cincinnati to await the results of the Los Angeles-Pittsburgh twi-night doubleheader in Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers, the only team that had a mathematical chance of catching the Reds, won the first game, 5-3. The Pirates, who had won the pennant and defeated the New York Yankees in the World Series last year, won the second game, 8-0.

So the Reds will meet the Yankees, who clinched the American League pennant a week ago, in the World Series starting in New York Oct. 4.

Words Come Hard To Maris When With Mrs. Ruth

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris hit the home run he wanted most Tuesday night—his 60th of the season. Now he wants one even more—home run No. 61.

"I was beginning to wonder whether I'd ever get it," he said today referring to the historic four-bagger he walloped in the third inning off Jack Fisher, Baltimore right-hander.

"Now that I've got it, I'd like to get one more, just one more." He has four games in which to do it.

Words weren't coming easily to the New York Yankee slugger who, normally is a shy, almost reticent introvert. He was fully aware that he had equalled Babe Ruth's fantastic 60 in a season and it embarrassed him when he was introduced to Mrs. Ruth, the immortal Babe's wife, immediately after the game.

"I'm glad I didn't break Babe Ruth's record in 154 games," he told her shyly. "This record is enough for me."

Machen Now 2nd In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., has replaced Britain's Henry Cooper as the No. 2 heavyweight contender in the new Ring Magazine boxing ratings released today.

Machen moved up from the third spot while Cooper was dropped from second to third. Ring editor Nat Fleischer made the shift because of Machen's impressive knockout of Mike DeJohn of Syracuse, N.Y., and Cooper's idleness. Sonny Liston of Philadelphia is ranked first contender by Ring.

Cooper is ranked first by the National Boxing Association which dropped Liston out of the ratings because of his suspension by Pennsylvania.

The monthly ratings show two new No. 1 contenders in other divisions. Rafiu King of Nigeria was made the leading challenger in the featherweight division following his knockout of European champion Gracieux Lamperti of France. The Frenchman, who had been No. 1, was demoted to second.

Louis Piscopo had the second and third place bird, giving the brothers from Accord a clean sweep of honors.

Maris Starts Swinging for 61st Homer, Has Four Games Left

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now for No. 61.

Roger Maris, who hit his 60th homer Tuesday night as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 3-2, has four games remaining in which to get the home run that will make him the most productive one-season homer hammerer in major league baseball history.

He'll get his first shot at No. 61 today against the Orioles' Steve Barber (17-12). Then he takes a day off Thursday before resuming his efforts to surpass Babe Ruth's 60-homer total of 1927 with a three-game set against Boston that closes out the 162-game schedule.

No. 60 for Maris was a high arching shot off a 2-2 pitch by Baltimore right-hander Jack Fisher in the third inning. It came four games too late to qualify for an official tie with Ruth's 34-year-old record under the 154—decision limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick. The game was the Yanks 159th, including one tie.

After grounding a single to center in the first inning, Maris fouled off the first two pitches by Fisher in the third, took two balls, then fouled one into the dirt before connecting with a drive that shot into the upper right field stands, about three feet fair.

"It's the greatest thing that has happened to me," said Maris after the game, "probably the greatest thing that ever will happen to me. Now that I've got it, I'd like to get one more, just one more."

Maris' homer was the Yanks first run off Fisher (10-13), who led 2-0 going into the third, but lost the game on Johnny Blanchard's run-producing single in the sixth and an error by outfielder Jackie Brandt in the seventh that let in the clincher following singles by Billy Gardner and Tom Tresh. Reliever Rollie Sheldon (10-5) was the winner.

In other AL games, Kansas City beat Detroit 8-5, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 7-3, Washington nipped Los Angeles 3-2 and Chicago and Boston split. The White Sox won the first 7-5. The Red Sox came back to take the nightcap by the same score.

Colavito Connects

Rocky Colavito hit homer No. 44 for the Tigers but the A's rapped rookie starter Ron Nischwitz (0-1) for six runs in the first three innings to put it away.

Gary Bell (12-15), who had a shutout until Zoilo Versalles hit a three-run homer in the eighth, went all the way for the Indians and stroked three hits in a 14-hit attack against the Twins.

Gene Green's ninth-inning homer broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Senators and Bennie Daniels (11-11) the victory over the Angels as homers accounted for all the runs.

Roy Sievers, who also hit a homer in the second game, won the opener for the White Sox and Ray Herbert (12-12) with a two-run shot in the seventh off Gene Conley (11-14). The Red Sox won the nightcap when pinch hitter Gary Geiger smashed a two-run triple in the eighth.

Reds Celebrate After Winning First Pennant in 21 Years

Defeat Cubs, 6-3, Then Hear LA, Bucs Split

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Reds si, Yankees no."

That was the main theme as the long-frustrated Cincinnati citizenry celebrated the Reds' first National League pennant in 21 years with a rash of superlatives for their heroes and a deep bow in the direction of Pittsburgh pitcher Joe Gibbon.

The Reds beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3 in a day game Tuesday earning a tie for the NL flag, then had to wait for Gibbon to get the actual clinching job done by eliminating the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers with a one-hitter.

That victory, an 8-0 shutout after the Dodgers had remained in contention with a 5-3 victory in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader, sent the Reds into the World Series against the American League champion New York Yankees.

Brosnan Clinches It

To ace reliever Jim Brosnan (10-3) went the honor of nailing down Cincinnati's long-awaited pennant. Brosnan set the Cubs down on one hit over the final three innings. Jerry Lynch provided the winning runs with a two-run homer in the eighth that snapped a 3-3 tie.

The Reds' long day started in the first inning when Chicago scored against starter Bob Purkey on Don Zimmer's single, a passed ball and George Altman's double. The Cubs added two in the fifth when the Reds defense collapsed following a two-out single by Cub starter Bob Anderson.

Richie Ashburn's roller went for a hit when second baseman Don Blasingame failed to rush in, and Don Zimmer was credited with a hit when Gene Freese allowed his tap down third to roll and the ball stayed fair.

Ernie Banks then bounced to shortstop Eddie Kasko but his throw to Blasingame for a force-out was wide. Anderson scored and the bases remained loaded. Altman's walk forced in the other run before the side was retired.

The Reds battled back. Held to one hit over five innings, they scored their first run in the fifth on a leadoff homer by John Edwards and put it away when Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer in the seventh off Anderson (7-10) and Lynch connected in the eighth.

At Pittsburgh, the Dodgers hung on by winning the opener behind Stan Williams (14-12) with a five-run second inning outburst against Bob Friend (14-19). Jim Gilliam's bases-loaded triple was the key blow.

Only One Hit

That was the Dodgers last chance. Gibbon completely subdued them in the nightcap, allowing only a leadoff sixth inning pinch-hit single by Bob Aspromonte.

The Pirates won it in the third, chasing Don Drysdale (12-10) with a five-run splurge after two were out.

In the only other NL game, Milwaukee beat St. Louis 9-2. Joe Adcock's three-run homer in the first inning off Ray Sadecki (14-10) gave Lew Burdette (18-10) a cushion he never relinquished.

Maris, Reds Realize Goals, 60 Home Runs, NL Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roger Maris, 27-year-old New York Yankee outfielder, and the Cincinnati Reds, a pennant-starved team for 21 years, both have realized their season goals —Maris a little late and the Reds in plenty of time.

Maris blasted his 60th home run Tuesday night to equal Babe Ruth's record output of 1927. It will go down in the books as a separate record by order of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick because Maris wasn't able to do it in 154 games.

This season, the American League schedule was lengthened to 162 games and Frick ruled that Maris' efforts—even if he hits more homers in the final four games—will be listed in a separate category from Ruth's.

The Reds, who finished sixth last year and were not rated any better than fifth by the experts this season, won the National League pennant with a big assist from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs Tuesday, 6-3, in Chicago, then headed back for Cincinnati to await the results of the Los Angeles-Pittsburgh twi-night doubleheader in Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers, the only team that had a mathematical chance of catching the Reds, won the first game, 5-3. The Pirates, who had won the pennant and defeated the New York Yankees in the World Series last year, won the second game, 8-0.

So the Reds will meet the Yankees, who clinched the American League pennant a week ago, in the World Series starting in New York Oct. 4.

Words Come Hard To Maris When With Mrs. Ruth

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris hit the home run he wanted most Tuesday night—his 60th of the season. Now he wants one even more—home run No. 61.

"I was beginning to wonder whether I'd ever get it," he said today referring to the historic four-bagger he walloped in the third inning off Jack Fisher, Baltimore right-hander.

"Now that I've got it, I'd like to get one more, just one more." He has four games in which to do it.

Words weren't coming easily to the New York Yankee slugger who, normally is a shy, almost reticent introvert. He was fully aware that he had equalled Babe Ruth's fantastic 60 in a season and it embarrassed him when he was introduced to Mrs. Ruth, the immortal Babe's wife, immediately after the game.

"I'm glad I didn't break Babe Ruth's record in 154 games," he told her shyly. "This record is enough for me."

Machen Now 2nd In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., has replaced Britain's Henry Cooper as the No. 2 heavyweight contender in the new Ring Magazine boxing ratings released today.

Machen moved up from the third spot while Cooper was dropped from second to third. Ring editor Nat Fleischer made the shift because of Machen's impressive knockout of Mike DeJohn of Syracuse, N.Y., and Cooper's idleness. Sonny Liston of Philadelphia is ranked first contender by Ring.

Cooper is ranked first by the National Boxing Association which dropped Liston out of the ratings because of his suspension by Pennsylvania.

The monthly ratings show two new No. 1 contenders in other divisions. Rafiu King of Nigeria was made the leading challenger in the featherweight division following his knockout of European champion Gracieux Lamperti of France. The Frenchman, who had been No. 1, was demoted to second.

Joe Piscopo of Accord had the winning entry in the 300 young bird pigeon race held last week from Meadville, Pa. There were 550 birds taking part from 40 lofts and the winner covered the distance of 305.599 miles in eight hours, 10 minutes. The average speed was 1101.334 yards per minute.

Louis Piscopo had the second and third place bird, giving the brothers from Accord a clean sweep of honors.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If there is an authority on the Rag Bag Reds other than Fred Hutchinson and members of the Cincinnati coaching staff, he is Waite Hoyt. Hoyt, the Yankees' pitching ace of the 1920's, broadcasts the Cincinnati games.

Does the one-time Brooklyn schoolboy teammate of Babe Ruth give the faceless Redlegs a chance against the Yankees in the World Series?

"I most certainly do," replied Hoyt, "against the Yankees or any other club, especially in a short series.

"The Reds are deeper in good pitching than were the Pirates of a year ago. They have starting and relief pitchers who, when right, are capable of stopping the Yanks or anybody else. Jerry Lynch, (Wally) Post, (Gus) Bell, (Vada) Pinson, (Frank) Robinson and (Gene) Freese can hurt you at bat. The club has extraordinary over-all speed, takes the extra base and runs the bases well. Elio Chacon makes the double play better than Don Blasingame, and Hutchinson has players he can manipulate to strengthen the defense.

"You can't laugh off the Reds. After all, they beat the superior National League clubs, won when they had to, kept bouncing back like a yo-yo."

Being an old pitcher, Hoyt quite naturally dwelled on the pitching.

"It will be (Jim) O'Toole, (Bob) Purkey, (Joey) Jay, (Ken) Johnson and the firemen, (Jim) Brosnan and (Bill) Henry. Throw out the others, except maybe where there is occasion to use a middle man.

"A cocky left-hander with control who now knows he can get big league batters out, O'Toole has been a tremendous pitcher since the second All-Star Game. He is pretty fast and has a natural slider that right-hand batters miss. He has completed most of his games.

"Jay throws a screwball and his curve makes his real hard one look even swifter than it is. He is a big, courageous kid who strikes out batters with his fast ball.

"Darrell Johnson will catch the knuckle ballers, Purkey and Ken Johnson. Purkey is fast enough and genuinely tough. Johnson has a curve going with his knuckler and eight different motions. Brosnan and Henry give the club remarkable relief pitching from either side."

Johnson says that Joe Gordon wouldn't let him throw the knuckler when he was with Kansas City in the spring. Peddled outright to Toronto, the old Philadelphia Athletics' one-time bat boy at West Palm Beach was purchased by the makeshift Reds in time to win six key games.

"Johnson has been terrific," emphasized Waite Hoyt. "What a pick up!"

Speaking of pick up, the hungry Reds have plenty of that, too.

Maris Parents Proud, Not Surprised at Feat

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — The parents of Roger Maris were proud but not surprised when their son slugged his 60th homer for the Yankees Tuesday.

Roger's father Rudy, hearing of number 60, said "I feel great. I hope he gets another one. I felt he'd get a tie when he got back to Yankee Stadium. The pressure is off now."

Mrs. A. Corrine Maris, Roger's mother, said, it was wonderful and that she'd predicted he'd tie the record. She said "whenever he'd hit a homer, it brought tears to my eyes."

matter of Fact

Traditionally, fine baseball bats are made of ash wood from 75-foot-high trees off the northeast side of a mountain, where cooler temperatures mean fewer woodpeckers and later-melting snow for constant moisture to the roots. Ash trees of New York and Pennsylvania are preferred. Sound silly? Babe Ruth went further than this. He insisted on bats marked with tiny pin knots.

Cincinnati Goes Wild After 1st Flag in 21 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — It will be a long time before Cincinnatians forget the night the Reds won the National League pennant.

Downtown Fountain Square was crowded—so crowded it was hard to walk. Everybody seemed happy. Many were drinking beer as they wandered around. Others were yelling, as loudly and as often as they wanted to. Cars went past the square, horns blaring.

There were plenty of policemen around. But this was the baseball fans' night, so the men in uniform just looked on. They were having a good time too.

"Sound like a glass factory, doesn't it?" said one of them to no one in particular as people streamed by, their shoes crushing the beer bottles in the gutter.

And, when the yell went up that someone was climbing the three-stories high fountain, the police looked, shook their heads and grinned.

After 21 years, the Reds had won the pennant.

Player Has Big Edge In Total Earnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player continues to hold a demanding edge in his bid for professional golf's money crown.

Player's total earnings for 26 tournaments this year is $63,490. This is far short of Arnold Palmer's record total of more than $80,000 last year.

Palmer continues in second spot with $57,732 but his position is being seriously challenged by Doug Sanders who has made 34 tournaments pay off for $53,513.

Stickles Second In Pass Catching After Two Games

Monty Stickles, former Poughkeepsie High School star athlete, is in a four way tie for second place in the National Football League's pass catching department. Figures after the first two games show Stickles with 10 catches, good for 144 yards gained and a pair of touchdowns.

Del Shofner of the New York Giants is pacing the circuit with 13 catches, good for 174 yards and one touchdown. Tied with Stickles, a former Notre Dame two-time All America end, are Jim Phillips of the Los Angeles Rams, Max McGee of the Green Bay Packers and Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

Su Mac Lad Hurt, Out for Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Su Mac Lad, the biggest money-winning trotter of all time, will not race again this season because of an injury suffered at Yonkers Raceway.

The seven-year-old son of Potomac will be shipped to driver Stanley Dancer's New Egypt, N. J., farm Thursday. Su Mac Lad, winner of $455,499, reportedly suffered a quarter crack in his front left hoof after the $25,000 Jean Laird Trot Monday at Yonkers. A similar injury last year was cured when Su Mac Lad grew a new hoof.

Feature winners at New York State harness tracks Tuesday night were:

Yonkers Raceway—Royal Melody ($12), 2:03 2-5, George Sholty driving, in the $4,500 Dobbs Ferry Pace.

Saratoga Raceway —Hunter Pace ($19.40), 2:05 3-5, Don Bromley driving, in a $2,000 pace for 2-year-olds.

Vernon Downs — Meadow Josh ($3.80), 2:05, Angus Allen driving, in a $1,400 feature pace.

Buffalo Leading Jr. World Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Buffalo Manager Kerby Farrell feels confident he's riding a winner today as baseball's Junior World Series moves to the land of blue grass and mint juleps.

Farrell's "horses" raced to a 3-0 advantage over Louisville of the American Association in the best-of-7 series Tuesday night in Buffalo's War Memorial Stadium.

Bobby Sadowski's three-run homer in the eighth inning gave the Bisons a 6-5 decision after the Colonels had taken a two-run edge in the top of the frame.

Miss America Bowls

Pushaway

BY SHARON KAY RITCHIE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The first step usually sets the pace for the entire delivery.

The best bowlers concentrate mightily on the first step, called the pushaway. This is so important it often has been called "the point of no return."

California All Events champion Ruby Chong, who stands only five feet, three inches and weighs less than 100 pounds, says the error most bowlers make is in not moving the ball soon enough. They wait until the second or third step before starting to swing, then try to force the ball through by sheer arm power. This ruins timing.

Start on the right foot, if right-handed.

Don't push the ball violently. The pushaway should be a smooth, outward motion that carries the ball in front of you to a distance equal to the first step.

Keep the ball a little to the right to avoid bruising your leg.

Find a comfortable spot between the waist and shoulders to hold the ball.

Synchronize the movement—right foot and arm out at the same time.

DON'T push ball violently.

Rog Can Obtain 59th Homer Ball

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roger Maris knocked most of the glamour off home run ball No. 59 Tuesday night by slugging his 60th homer of the season at New York's Yankee Stadium.

But if the Yankee outfielder still has a sentimental attachment for No. 59, he can get it without charge.

Several hours before Tuesday night's homer, an agreement was reached here between Bob Reitz, the 32-year-old Baltimorean who caught No. 59 last Wednesday night, and the Sports Boosters of Maryland.

Reitz agreed to accept $500 from the sports group, and announced he would turn the money over to the Associated Catholic Charities, of Baltimore. The Sports Boosters, in turn, would present the baseball to Maris.

Major League Stars

Hitting — Roger Maris, Yankees, hit 60th home run in third inning of 3-2 victory over Orioles and matched Babe Ruth's 60-homer total of 1927.

Pitching — Joe Gibbon, Pirates, hurled one-hitter for 8-0 victory over Dodgers in nightcap of doubleheader that eliminated Los Angeles and gave Cincinnati Reds their first National League pennant in 21 years.

Gets Bosox Bonus

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — James Russin, Ithaca College baseball star, has signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox for a $24,000 bonus, the college announced today.

Russin, a junior from Whippany, N.J., has been assigned to the Johnstown, Pa., club of the Class A Eastern League.

As a sophomore pitcher and outfielder at Ithaca, he batted .413 and won six games on the mound. The Ithacans captured 11 of 12 contests.

Castro Revamps Army, Now Has 3 Main Corps

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba has reorganized its army into three main corps as a defense against new invasions, Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Tuesday night.

Addressing a graduation ceremony for 400 militia officers in Matanzas, Castro said his revolutionary army no longer is a collection of guerrillas but is composed of "companies, battalions, divisions, armies and army corps."

He again accused the United States of preparing a new invasion of Cuba but said his forces would "inflict on our enemies an even bigger defeat" than in the April invasion that was crushed at the Bay of Pigs on Cuba's southern coast.

Shelter for 50,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Rockefeller Center officials have disclosed a plan to protect some 50,000 people from nuclear fallout for as long as two weeks.

In one of the biggest single shelter programs ever undertaken, the complex of 16 skyscrapers in the heart of Manhattan is to be provided with up-to-the-minute shelters.

Present plans, disclosed Tuesday, call for shelters that could house people for up to two weeks of fallout danger. Rockefeller Center operators do not know whether this is feasible, but they are in the process of finding out.

Iowa Seen A Winner Over Cal

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The college football toughies swing into action this weekend with the result that predicting becomes tougher, too. Last week there were 30 correct ones among the 38 games that reached a decision for an average of .799.

Iowa over California: The Hawkeye quarterback, Wilburn Hollis, can call on too many guns.

Notre Dame over Oklahoma: Neither is up to its par of several years ago, as the TV viewers will discover, but the Irish have more experience in the backfield.

Mississippi over Kentucky: That speedy Mississippi line will be too much for Kentucky's youngsters.

Ohio State over Texas Christian: TCU upset Kansas last weekend and Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State got the message. He's got All-America fullback Bob Ferguson primed.

Michigan over UCLA: Michigan's first team rates with any in the Big Ten.

Syracuse over West Virginia: Syracuse has football players, West Virginia only has dreams of yesteryear's greatness.

PRESENTATION TIME—Harold (Sonny) Dancer Jr., the leading dash winner and percentage driver at Monticello Raceway, is awarded a cup in recognition of his feats during the season, which ended Saturday night. Making the presentation is Ed Palladino of the Freeman, a member of the Monticello Chapter of the U. S. Harness Writers Assn. The awards were presented at the annual banquet, held Sept. 17 at the Tamarack Lodge, Greenfield Park.

Su Mac Lad, the biggest money-winning trotter of all time, will not race again this season because of an injury suffered at Yonkers Raceway.

The seven-year-old son of Potomac will be shipped to driver Stanley Dancer's New Egypt, N. J., farm Thursday. Su Mac Lad, winner of $455,499, reportedly suffered a quarter crack in his front left hoof after the $25,000 Jean Laird Trot Monday at Yonkers. A similar injury last year was cured when Su Mac Lad grew a new hoof.

Feature winners at New York State harness tracks Tuesday night were:

Yonkers Raceway—Royal Melody ($12), 2:03 2-5, George Sholty driving, in the $4,500 Dobbs Ferry Pace.

Saratoga Raceway — Hunter Pace ($19.40), 2:05 3-5, Don Bromley driving, in a $2,000 pace for 2-year-olds.

Vernon Downs — Meadow Josh ($3.80), 2:05, Angus Allen driving, in a $1,400 feature pace.

Batavia Downs — Scotch Lil ($11.90), 2:05 3-5, Lou Filer driving, in the $1,200 Class B-3 Pace.

Buffalo Leading Jr. World Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Buffalo Manager Kerby Farrell feels confident he's riding a winner today as baseball's Junior World Series moves to the land of blue grass and mint juleps.

Farrell's "horses" raced to a 3-0 advantage over Louisville of the American Association in the best-of-7 series Tuesday night in Buffalo's War Memorial Stadium.

Bobby Sadowski's three-run homer in the eighth inning gave the Bisons a 6-5 decision after the Colonels had taken a two-run edge in the top of the frame.

Miss America Bowls

Pushaway

BY SHARON KAY RITCHIE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The first step usually sets the pace for the entire delivery.

The best bowlers concentrate mightily on the first step, called the pushaway. This is so important it often has been called "the point of no return."

California All Events champion Ruby Chong, who stands only five feet, three inches and weighs less than 100 pounds, says the error most bowlers make is in not moving the ball soon enough. They wait until the second or third step before starting to swing, then try to force the ball through by sheer arm power. This ruins timing.

Start on the right foot, if right-handed.

Don't push the ball violently. The pushaway should be a smooth, outward motion that carries the ball in front of you to a distance equal to the first step.

Keep the ball a little to the right to avoid bruising your leg.

Find a comfortable spot between the waist and shoulders to hold the ball.

Don't hold it too high. This will cause the right shoulder to drop, throwing you off balance.

Synchronize the movement—right foot and arm out at the same time.

DON'T push ball violently.

Rog Can Obtain 59th Homer Ball

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roger Maris knocked most of the glamour off home run ball No. 59 Tuesday night by slugging his 60th homer of the season at New York's Yankee Stadium.

But if the Yankee outfielder still has a sentimental attachment for No. 59, he can get it without charge.

Several hours before Tuesday night's homer, an agreement was reached here between Bob Reitz, the 32-year-old Baltimorean who caught No. 59 last Wednesday night, and the Sports Boosters of Maryland.

Reitz agreed to accept $500 from the sports group, and announced he would turn the money over to the Associated Catholic Charities, of Baltimore. The Sports Boosters, in turn, would present the baseball to Maris.

Major League Stars

Hitting — Roger Maris, Yankees, hit 60th home run in third inning of 3-2 victory over Orioles and matched Babe Ruth's 60-homer total of 1927.

Pitching — Joe Gibbon, Pirates, hurled one-hitter for 8-0 victory over Dodgers in nightcap of doubleheader that eliminated Los Angeles and gave Cincinnati Reds their first National League pennant in 21 years.

Gets Bosox Bonus

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — James Russin, Ithaca College baseball star, has signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox for a $24,000 bonus, the college announced today.

Russin, a junior from Whippany, N.J., has been assigned to the Johnstown, Pa., club of the Class A Eastern League.

As a sophomore pitcher and outfielder at Ithaca, he batted .413 and won six games on the mound. The Ithacans captured 11 of 12 contests.

Castro Revamps Army, Now Has 3 Main Corps

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba has reorganized its army into three main corps as a defense against new invasions, Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Tuesday night.

Addressing a graduation ceremony for 400 militia officers in Matanzas, Castro said his revolutionary army no longer is a collection of guerrillas but is composed of "companies, battalions, divisions, armies and army corps."

He again accused the United States of preparing a new invasion of Cuba but said his forces would "inflict on our enemies an even bigger defeat" than in the April invasion that was crushed at the Bay of Pigs on Cuba's southern coast.

A group of officers of Cuba's armed services, including military school commanders, stood behind Castro during his speech, which was broadcast by TV.

Shelter for 50,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Rockefeller Center officials have disclosed a plan to protect some 50,000 people from nuclear fallout for as long as two weeks.

In one of the biggest single shelter programs ever undertaken, the complex of 16 skyscrapers in the heart of Manhattan is to be provided with up-to-the-minute shelters.

Present plans, disclosed Tuesday, call for shelters that could house people for up to two weeks of fallout danger. Rockefeller Center operators do not know whether this is feasible, but they are in the process of finding out.

Iowa Seen A Winner Over Cal

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The college football toughies swing into action this weekend with the result that predicting becomes tougher, too. Last week there were 30 correct ones among the 38 games that reached a decision for an average of .799.

Iowa over California: The Hawkeye quarterback, Wilburn Hollis, can call on too many guns.

Notre Dame over Oklahoma: Neither is up to its par of several years ago, as the TV viewers will discover, but the Irish have more experience in the backfield.

Mississippi over Kentucky: That speedy Mississippi line will be too much for Kentucky's youngsters.

Ohio State over Texas Christian: TCU upset Kansas last weekend and Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State got the message. He's got All-America fullback Bob Ferguson primed.

Michigan over UCLA: Michigan's first team rates with any in the Big Ten.

Alabama over Tulane: You can't win if you can't score—and that Alabama defense is rugged.

Syracuse over West Virginia: Syracuse has football players, West Virginia only has dreams of yesteryear's greatness.

Sorensen Mum on Charge

JFK Aide Called Objector to War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., has inserted in the Congressional Record an article describing Theodore C. Sorensen as having "escaped military service as a conscientious objector, and Korean War service as a father."

Sorensen, 33, President Kennedy's executive counsel, was unavailable for comment on the article by Walter Trohan, Chicago Tribune writer.

Goldwater, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, told the Senate Tuesday night, "It often requires more courage to seek this classification than to serve" in the armed forces.

"However, I can't help but wonder at the thought of the fathers and mothers of American boys who right now are being called up for active military service when they learn that one of the President's closest advisers is an objector because of conscience," Goldwater added.

In his "Report from Washington" column in the Tribune, Sept. 23, Trohan said that Nebraska draft board records show that Sorensen was classified on Dec. 31, 1948, as a "conscientious objector" available only for noncombat military service.

Trohan said that "on Aug. 18, 1950, after the outbreak of the Korean War, Sorensen was reclassified as 3-A, extreme hardship deferment, or registrant with child or children. On Nov. 20, 1951, his status was reviewed by the board and he remained in 3-A."

Trohan's article, which Goldwater put in the Record, continued:

"On Jan. 8, 1952, he was reclassified 1-AO, a conscientious objector, and ordered to report for physical examination. He took the physical Feb. 4, 1952, and was reclassified 4-F, physically unfit. This was after the tumor operation (he had a tumor removed from behind his ear).

"On April 13, 1954, he was reclassified 3-A. A notation at the end of the line on the book states: 'Liable for service until 35 years old.'"

Still Reasonably Good, Rocky Says To Tax Complaint

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—"You're still in reasonably good shape," Gov. Rockefeller told a group of Niagara Falls businessmen today in answer to a complaint about rising taxes.

The businessmen in this resort-industrial city cited a loss of taxable real estate now being used for tax-free projects, such as the $720 million Niagara power project.

Rockefeller agreed, however, that the area had economic problems in continuing unemployment, loss of tax-paying business in downtown Niagara Falls and a decline in military orders for heavy industry.

Rockefeller, in Western New York for a three-day visit, said his administration was working on the state and federal levels to overcome those problems in New York areas that have them.

There were 300 business, labor, industrial and other community leaders at the breakfast meeting, the first of 30 appearances the governor has scheduled.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A Syracuse University professor and the production manager of an Upstate paper mill said today their enterprises depended on continued New York Central Railroad passenger and freight service.

Both appeared at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing as witnesses for the Central in a major railroad merger battle.

The Central and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway seek control of the financially pressed Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The Central, if it fails, proposes a three-way merger of the Central, C&O and B&O.

Tshombe Suggests Ndola Parley to Air Differences

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe called on Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula today to meet him quickly at some neutral point to settle differences that have disturbed the Congo for 15 months.

Tshombe said, seemingly in answer to a newsman's question, he would be willing to go to London. He himself suggested Ndola, in nearby Northern Rhodesia, where a U.N.-Katanga cease-fire was agreed upon last week.

"Everyone knows my conciliatory position and my desire to solve the problems of the various Congolese parties by way of peaceful negotiations. But I'd never accept negotiations under duress such as was provoked by the recent intervention of the United Nations army in Katanga," Tshombe said at a news conference.

A dusk-to-dawn curfw that had lapsed with the end of the shooting last Wednesday was restored in Elisabethville Tuesday night. All bars and restaurants were ordered closed by 7 p.m. All traffic was banned until 6 a.m.

Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo complained at a news conference that "among the horrors of the recent fighting" was the theft by U.N. troops of his personal car and of sheep, goat sand chickens belonging to Paul Kazembe, chief of security police.

Munongo said damage and thefts committed by U.N. troops on the security police headquarters totaled 2,216,300 francs—$110,815—and he is sending a bill to the United Nations.

Slater Is Placed On Probation for Trouble at Bridge

John W. Slater, 32, of 132 Clinton Avenue, a farmhand, who created a stir in his reported Sept. 8 threat to jump from the Esopus Creek bridge, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail by Judge Aaron E. Klein Tuesday night and was placed on indefinite probation.

Slater had apparently gone to the bridge after informing police headquarters by telephone of his intentions, and soon after he arrived police received reports that he was on the bridge and threatening to jump.

Brought down by officers Louis Sapp, Anthony Turck, Frank Monte and George Barringer with the aid of a Central Hudson truck elevator, he was booked on a charge of seriously disturbing the peace. Firemen and state police had also been dispatched to the bridge.

Hearing Postponed

Hearing on a charge dealing with his reported possession of a loaded revolver against Troy Porter, 24, of 73 East Strand, was put over to next Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. Bail of $1,500 was not immediately posted. He lists his occupation as farm laborer.

Porter was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a warrant executed by Detective Harold DeGraff and Officer Wilmont Hall. Police said he was picked up on information claiming that he had possessed the revolver several days ago, but none was found at the time of his arrest.

Case Put Over

The case of Anthony H. LaRocco, 51, of 44 Post Street, charged with third degree assault, was put over to Sept. 29. Police said the arrest last night was on camplaint of Duane Castellano, of Lisa Lane.

Only one traffic case was disposed of last night, but several were adjourned. Arline Onysyk, 43, of Forest Glen Park, charged with speeding, was fined $10.

Firemen Fall Back, 5-Story Wall Drops

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A fire chief ordered his men to retreat minutes before the north wall of an unoccupied, five-story apartment building collapsed in a predawn fire today.

The firemen escaped the cascading mass of brick and mortar but 80-year-old Harry Sandford, Syracuse banker and fire buff, tripped over a hose line in retreating and suffered possible pelvic or hip fractures.

The apartment building at Seymour and West Onondaga streets had been under demolition.

Ulster NAACP Is Opposing Shows Done in Blackface

Blackface minstrel shows "cannot offer any true educational or entertainment value to the general public," and are opposed along with other variety shows derogratory to minority groups by the National Association for The Advancement of Colored People.

This was stressed today in a letter from Everette Hodge, president of Ulster Branch, NAACP, who said he had heard a report that one area church contemplated staging a minstrel show in the near future. He said he preferred not to name the church.

The letter was an open one to all civic, service and church organizations.

President Hodges' letter said that shows opposed by the organization "perpetuate derogatory racial misunderstanding by using the Negro as the butt of jokes and outmoded dialects. Such shows brand the whole Negro community as buffoons, clowns, shiftless, ignorant, uncouth and ill-mannered . . ."

The Hodge letter further stressed that "Since 1909 the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has worked tirelessly to bring about a wholesome racial climate in this country, and Americans of all classes and races take a certain pride in this steady racial improvement.

"May we sugges in lieu of a minstrel show that a program designed to project to the local community some of the contributions made by Negroes, for example, Dr. Charles Drew, discoverer of the process for drying blood; Dr. Daniel Hale William, founder of the Provident Inter-Racial Hospital, Chicago, Ill., and pioneer of the first successful heart operation in 1893; Dr. George W. Carver, renowned scientist; Marion Anderson, world's greatest contralto; Roland Hayes, world's greatest tenor; Crispus Attucks, first person to die for American freedom and others too numerous to mention."

"It is hoped that all civic, service organizations and churches who feel that minstrel shows are harmless will give this matter serious oconsideration."

Gleason joined IBM in 1956 at the Command Control Center as a technical assistant in subcontracts. In early 1958 he was named a senior accountant in pricing and contracts specialist in late 1958. He was named a contract negotiator on research and development in January, 1960, a post he has held until his present appointment.

He is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

Gleason, his wife Sue, and children John, 11, Frederick, 9, and James, 6, will reside in the Bethesda area.

Border Incident

Reds Fire Shots At W. Berliners Who Throw Rocks

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—East German police fired warning shots Tuesday night when 600 angry West Berliners threw rocks across the border.

Demonstrating against forced evacuations of East Germans from border areas, the crowd aimed rocks at Communist searchlights illuminating the barbed wire barrier. West Berlin police pushed the demonstrators back. The incident occurred in Reinickendorf, in the northern part of Berlin.

Communist authorities have been moving residents out of houses along the border dividing Berlin, slowly turning a strip along their side into a no-man's land. They also began digging a trench 10 feet wide for a mile along a strip of open ground on the southern end of the border in the American sector.

Workmen cut down trees and leveled the terrain to give border guards a clearer view of anyone who might attempt a dash for freedom.

Similar operations also have been under way at Reinickendorf for several days, and some earth-shifting was observed today behind the Fredrichstrasse crossing point for foreigners. It was not clear whether a trench also is being dug there.

Moving vans turned up early this morning at houses on the border in the East Berlin suburb of Pankow. Communist police stood guard as the moving men loaded furniture to clear out houses that could be used for escapes.

The Communists said today 140 families were evacuated from Bernauerstrasse last Sunday to other parts of East Berlin. The figure was given by the official Communist party paper, Neuss Deutschland.

"Everyone knows my conciliatory position and my desire to solve the problems of the various Congolese parties by way of peaceful negotiations. But I'd never accept negotiations under duress such as was provoked by the recent intervention of the United Nations army in Katanga," Tshombe said at a news conference.

A dusk-to-dawn curfw that had lapsed with the end of the shooting last Wednesday was restored in Elisabethville Tuesday night. All bars and restaurants were ordered closed by 7 p.m. All traffic was banned until 6 a.m.

Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo complained at a news conference that "among the horrors of the recent fighting" was the theft by U.N. troops of his personal car and of sheep, goat sand chickens belonging to Paul Kazembe, chief of security police.

Munongo said damage and thefts committed by U.N. troops on the security police headquarters totaled 2,216,300 francs—$110,815—and he is sending a bill to the United Nations.

Slater Is Placed On Probation for Trouble at Bridge

John W. Slater, 32, of 132 Clinton Avenue, a farmhand, who created a stir in his reported Sept. 8 threat to jump from the Esopus Creek bridge, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail by Judge Aaron E. Klein Tuesday night and was placed on indefinite probation.

Slater had apparently gone to the bridge after informing police headquarters by telephone of his intentions, and soon after he arrived police received reports that he was on the bridge and threatening to jump.

Brought down by officers Louis Sapp, Anthony Turck, Frank Monte and George Barringer with the aid of a Central Hudson truck elevator, he was booked on a charge of seriously disturbing the peace. Firemen and state police had also been dispatched to the bridge.

Hearing Postponed

Hearing on a charge dealing with his reported possession of a loaded revolver against Troy Porter, 24, of 73 East Strand, was put over to next Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. Bail of $1,500 was not immediately posted. He lists his occupation as farm laborer.

Porter was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a warrant executed by Detective Harold DeGraff and Officer Wilmont Hall. Police said he was picked up on information claiming that he had possessed the revolver several days ago, but none was found at the time of his arrest.

Case Put Over

The case of Anthony H. LaRocco, 51, of 44 Post Street, charged with third degree assault, was put over to Sept. 29. Police said the arrest last night was on camplaint of Duane Castellano, of Lisa Lane.

Only one traffic case was disposed of last night, but several were adjourned. Arline Onysyk, 43, of Forest Glen Park, charged with speeding, was fined $10.

Firemen Fall Back, 5-Story Wall Drops

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A fire chief ordered his men to retreat minutes before the north wall of an unoccupied, five-story apartment building collapsed in a predawn fire today.

The firemen escaped the cascading mass of brick and mortar but 80-year-old Harry Sandford, Syracuse banker and fire buff, tripped over a hose line in retreating and suffered possible pelvic or hip fractures.

The apartment building at Seymour and West Onondaga streets had been under demolition.

Ulster NAACP Is Opposing Shows Done in Blackface

Blackface minstrel shows "cannot offer any true educational or entertainment value to the general public," and are opposed along with other variety shows derogratory to minority groups by the National Association for The Advancement of Colored People.

This was stressed today in a letter from Everette Hodge, president of Ulster Branch, NAACP, who said he had heard a report that one area church contemplated staging a minstrel show in the near future. He said he preferred not to name the church.

The letter was an open one to all civic, service and church organizations.

President Hodges' letter said that shows opposed by the organization "perpetuate derogatory racial misunderstanding by using the Negro as the butt of jokes and outmoded dialects. Such shows brand the whole Negro community as buffoons, clowns, shiftless, ignorant, uncouth and ill-mannered . . ."

The Hodge letter further stressed that "Since 1909 the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has worked tirelessly to bring about a wholesome racial climate in this country, and Americans of all classes and races take a certain pride in this steady racial improvement.

"May we sugges in lieu of a minstrel show that a program designed to project to the local community some of the contributions made by Negroes, for example, Dr. Charles Drew, discoverer of the process for drying blood; Dr. Daniel Hale William, founder of the Provident Inter-Racial Hospital, Chicago, Ill., and pioneer of the first successful heart operation in 1893; Dr. George W. Carver, renowned scientist; Marion Anderson, world's greatest contralto; Roland Hayes, world's greatest tenor; Crispus Attucks, first person to die for American freedom and others too numerous to mention."

"It is hoped that all civic, service organizations and churches who feel that minstrel shows are harmless will give this matter serious oconsideration."

The appointment of Lewis E. Gleason of Woodstock as a contract negotiator in systems management, Bethesda, Md., has been announced by IBM Federal Systems Division President Charles Benton Jr.

Gleason joined IBM in 1956 at the Command Control Center as a technical assistant in subcontracts. In early 1958 he was named a senior accountant in pricing and contracts specialist in late 1958. He was named a contract negotiator on research and development in January, 1960, a post he has held until his present appointment.

He is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

Gleason, his wife Sue, and children John, 11, Frederick, 9, and James, 6, will reside in the Bethesda area.

Border Incident

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—East German police fired warning shots Tuesday night when 600 angry West Berliners threw rocks across the border.

Demonstrating against forced evacuations of East Germans from border areas, the crowd aimed rocks at Communist searchlights illuminating the barbed wire barrier. West Berlin police pushed the demonstrators back. The incident occurred in Reinickendorf, in the northern part of Berlin.

Communist authorities have been moving residents out of houses along the border dividing Berlin, slowly turning a strip along their side into a no-man's land. They also began digging a trench 10 feet wide for a mile along a strip of open ground on the southern end of the border in the American sector.

Workmen cut down trees and leveled the terrain to give border guards a clearer view of anyone who might attempt a dash for freedom.

Similar operations also have been under way at Reinickendorf for several days, and some earth-shifting was observed today behind the Fredrichstrasse crossing point for foreigners. It was not clear whether a trench also is being dug there.

Moving vans turned up early this morning at houses on the border in the East Berlin suburb of Pankow. Communist police stood guard as the moving men loaded furniture to clear out houses that could be used for escapes.

The Communists said today 140 families were evacuated from Bernauerstrasse last Sunday to other parts of East Berlin. The figure was given by the official Communist party paper, Neuss Deutschland.

Firm Introduces Innovation for TV Antenna Gain

Jerrold Electronics Corp., Philadelphia, Pa., this week announced the introduction of its first transistorized antenna preamplifier.

Walter Goodman, manager of the distributor sales division, said the new Powermate, when added to any TV or FM antenna, old or new, creates a powerful system for highest quality fringe area reception.

Greylock Electronics, Albany Avenue Extension is the local distributor.

The Powermate, applied to new TV antennas, he stated, also eliminates the need in many cases, for dangerously high antenna structures in fringe areas.

The unit's compact, lightweight construction permits its mounting directly on the antenna boom, for maximum signal boost.

Utilizing less current than an electric clock, the unit's remote AC power supply provides 15 volts AC.

Reports Hundreds Die at Peiping's Prison in Tibet

DARJEELING, India (AP) — A Buddhist lama estimates that hundreds of persons have died recently in a Chinese concentration camp near Lhasa, Tibet.

Lobsang Changba, 57, an Indian citizen from Ladakh province just west of Tibet, said most of the deaths were from starvation. They occurred in the last few months before the Chinese released him last July from Dhapchi camp.

Lobsang said the camp contained some Chinese Communists imprisoned on unknown charges, some Tibetans who formerly had collaborated with the Chinese, a few persons from China's far western province of Sinkiang and numerous Tibetan Buddhist monks and lamas.

We The Women

Tip for Husband-Students: Wives Need to Unwind

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Times do change! When wives fifirst started working in large numbers they were told they must soft-pedal their jobs to keep from antagonizing their husbands.

They were also warned not to let their pay checks go to their heads and make them independent in their attitude, instead of remaining clinging vines.

And, of course, they weren't supposed to expect any extra consideration from their husbands because they were helping to earn the family living.

Now, in a new book, "A Woman's Guide to Earning a Good Living," the author goes into the problem of the young wife who is putting her husband through college.

"One of the problems arising from this strictly contemporary mode of marriage is that of home study for the husband. If the wife is the 'tired businessman,' she is the one who craves occasional diversion in the evening after a hard day in office or classroom. But evenings are the husband's study time.

"How you as the wife work this out is strictly a personal affair, but worked out it must be, and on the same frank, calm basis as any other divergence of views that may emanate from your working life.

"Some husbands can see the wisdom (from a psychological point of view) of their wives relaxing over a bridge table or at the movies after a full day's work."

And that wasn't written by a career woman, either—but by a man. So it looks as though the working wife has made great strides in the last 20 years. Wives then had already won the right to work, if they chose, but they hadn't won the right to think of themselves as working partners, due all the consideration and privileges of any breadwinner. That's a giant step—but whether or not it is in the right direction will remain to be seen.

Whether family life can thrive with the working wife demanding all the privileges of the "tired businessman" is another story.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

World of Difference Between 'Pry' and 'Care'

On Saturday morning Jill is late getting up. When she finally drifts into the kitchen for coffee, she looks so tired that we ask, "Something wrong? Didn't you and Alec have a good time last night?" In a voice as pale as her face, Jill says, "What? Oh. Oh, yes, we had a fine time, thanks."

But 10 minutes later, it appears that she and Alec had anything but a good time. From the telephone in the hall where she is confiding her distress to a friend, bits of intense conversation float in to us:

"So I said, 'What makes you think you can tell me what parties I can go to?' . . . and he said 'That's all I wanted to know' . . . and I said, 'What's that mean' . . . and Al said. . . ."

We hear our daughter crying.

It is self-respecting for young people to withhold their dating problems from us.

It is also self-respecting for us to feel concern with these problems.

So while it is proper to refrain from pressing Jill to give us her confidence, it is also proper for us to express our interest in her distress.

Quite often an adolescent child's secrecy with sexual problems is due to his terror that any confidence he extends to us will lead to our monopolizing his interests. This fear gives his evasion of our questions a false appearance of resentment. Unless we know this, we can retreat too hastily when a son or daughter is struggling with the disturbing perplexities of a love affair that he may really want to confide to us.

So on these occasions, the wise thing seems to be to say, "I don't want to know anything you don't want to tell me. On the other hand, I will be very glad to listen to you if you do want to talk to me."

We parents can lean over backward to avoid accusations of "prying" by adolescent children. We can be so anxious to avoid any appearance of intruding on their emotional business that we actually give the impression that we don't care about their suffering.

Such an impression isn't fair to us. We care deeply about their suffering, should not allow them to confuse our interest in them with "prying" into their affairs.

Two Days Remain To Get Renewals

Area motorists were reminded today that only two days remain to renew their operator's license, if it expires on Saturday, Sept. 30.

The State of New York, Division of Motor Vehicles, Albany mailed punch card applications to operators whose license expires this year. The department advises that if a motorist did not receive an application, he should go to the nearest office immediately and obtain an application.

Form DP-120 may be obtained at the local issuing office at 32 Main Street. These request forms then should be filled out and mailed to the State Motor Vehicle department in Albany. Upon receipt of a punch card application, the motorist should take it to the local office immediately and have it stamped.

Part of the punch card becomes the operator's license.

The local office hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

Says U.S. Led Attacks

TOKYO (AP) — The pro-Communist Pathet Lao charged today that Thai, South Vietnamese and royal Laotian troops attacked its positions in Laos during the recent visit to Vientiane of roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

The Pathet Lao said in a statement relayed by the New China News Agency that all the attacking units were commanded by U.S. officers.

Similar charges have been made before. They have been denied by American, Thai and Vietnamese officials.

Tree Slips Off Bulldozer, Puts Man in Hospital

The condition of James E. Davis Jr., 47, of Noxon Road, LaGrange, critically injured in an unusual bulldozer accident Tuesday afternoon, remained very poor today at St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Department reported that Davis was hurt when hit by the whiplash of a heavy limb. Deputy Sheriffs John Dakin and Arthur Krug theorized that Davis was pushing against the heavy limb with the bulldozer and the limb slipped over the blade and struck the man with tremendous force fracturing his skull. Davis was working in an area off Titusville Road, not far from his LaGrange home. He was rushed to the hospital by the LaGrange Fire Company ambulance. His condition is so critical that authorities have been unable to question him regarding the accident.

Firm Introduces Innovation for TV Antenna Gain

Jerrold Electronics Corp., Philadelphia, Pa., this week announced the introduction of its first transistorized antenna preamplifier.

Walter Goodman, manager of the distributor sales division, said the new Powermate, when added to any TV or FM antenna, old or new, creates a powerful system for highest quality fringe area reception.

Greylock Electronics, Albany Avenue Extension is the local distributor.

The Powermate, applied to new TV antennas, he stated, also eliminates the need in many cases, for dangerously high antenna structures in fringe areas.

The unit's compact, lightweight construction permits its mounting directly on the antenna boom, for maximum signal boost.

Reports Hundreds Die at Peiping's Prison in Tibet

DARJEELING, India (AP) — A Buddhist lama estimates that hundreds of persons have died recently in a Chinese concentration camp near Lhasa, Tibet.

Lobsang Changba, 57, an Indian citizen from Ladakh province just west of Tibet, said most of the deaths were from starvation. They occurred in the last few months before the Chinese released him last July from Dhapchi camp.

Lobsang said the camp contained some Chinese Communists imprisoned on unknown charges, some Tibetans who formerly had collaborated with the Chinese, a few persons from China's far western province of Sinkiang and numerous Tibetan Buddhist monks and lamas.

Tip for Husband-Students: Wives Need to Unwind

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Times do change! When wives fifirst started working in large numbers they were told they must soft-pedal their jobs to keep from antagonizing their husbands.

They were also warned not to let their pay checks go to their heads and make them independent in their attitude, instead of remaining clinging vines.

And, of course, they weren't supposed to expect any extra consideration from their husbands because they were helping to earn the family living.

Now, in a new book, "A Woman's Guide to Earning a Good Living," the author goes into the problem of the young wife who is putting her husband through college.

"One of the problems arising from this strictly contemporary mode of marriage is that of home study for the husband. If the wife is the 'tired businessman,' she is the one who craves occasional diversion in the evening after a hard day in office or classroom. But evenings are the husband's study time.

"How you as the wife work this out is strictly a personal affair, but worked out it must be, and on the same frank, calm basis as any other divergence of views that may emanate from your working life.

"Some husbands can see the wisdom (from a psychological point of view) of their wives relaxing over a bridge table or at the movies after a full day's work."

And that wasn't written by a career woman, either—but by a man. So it looks as though the working wife has made great strides in the last 20 years. Wives then had already won the right to work, if they chose, but they hadn't won the right to think of themselves as working partners, due all the consideration and privileges of any breadwinner. That's a giant step—but whether or not it is in the right direction will remain to be seen.

Whether family life can thrive with the working wife demanding all the privileges of the "tired businessman" is another story.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

World of Difference Between 'Pry' and 'Care'

On Saturday morning Jill is late getting up. When she finally drifts into the kitchen for coffee, she looks so tired that we ask, "Something wrong? Didn't you and Alec have a good time last night?" In a voice as pale as her face, Jill says, "What? Oh, Oh, yes, we had a fine time, thanks."

But 10 minutes later, it appears that she and Alec had anything but a good time. From the telephone in the hall where she is confiding her distress to a friend, bits of intense conversation float in to us:

"So I said, 'What makes you think you can tell me what parties I can go to?' . . . and he said 'That's all I wanted to know' . . . and I said, 'What's that mean' . . . and Al said. . . ."

We hear our daughter crying.

It is self-respecting for young people to withhold their dating problems from us.

It is also self-respecting for us to feel concern with these problems.

So while it is proper to refrain from pressing Jill to give us her confidence, it is also proper for us to express our interest in her distress.

Quite often an adolescent child's secrecy with sexual problems is due to his terror that any confidence he extends to us will lead to our monopolizing his interests. This fear gives his evasion of our questions a false appearance of resentment. Unless we know this, we can retreat too hastily when a son or daughter is struggling with the disturbing perplexities of a love affair that he may really want to confide to us.

So on these occasions, the wise thing seems to be to say, "I don't want to know anything you don't want to tell me. On the other hand, I will be very glad to listen to you if you do want to talk to me."

We parents can lean over backward to avoid accusations of "prying" by adolescent children. We can be so anxious to avoid any appearance of intruding on their emotional business that we actually give the impression that we don't care about their suffering.

Such an impression isn't fair to us. We care deeply about their suffering, should not allow them to confuse our interest in them with "prying" into their affairs.

Two Days Remain To Get Renewals

Area motorists were reminded today that only two days remain to renew their operator's license, if it expires on Saturday, Sept. 30.

The State of New York, Division of Motor Vehicles, Albany mailed punch card applications to operators whose license expires this year. The department advises that if a motorist did not receive an application, he should go to the nearest office immediately and obtain an application.

Form DP-120 may be obtained at the local issuing office at 32 Main Street. These request forms then should be filled out and mailed to the State Motor Vehicle department in Albany. Upon receipt of a punch card application, the motorist should take it to the local office immediately and have it stamped.

Part of the punch card becomes the operator's license.

The local office hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

Says U.S. Led Attacks

TOKYO (AP) — The pro-Communist Pathet Lao charged today that Thai, South Vietnamese and royal Laotian troops attacked its positions in Laos during the recent visit to Vientiane of roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

The Pathet Lao said in a statement relayed by the New China News Agency that all the attacking units were commanded by U.S. officers.

Similar charges have been made before. They have been denied by American, Thai and Vietnamese officials.

Summations Made Today in Alleged Gun Part Thefts

Testimony was closed Tuesday in the Hugh Mulligan grand larceny case in County Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and summations took place today. Mulligan, a former employe of Numeric Arms Corporation of West Hurley was charged by the grand jury with taking materials valued at over $500 from the arms plant while he was employed there between May and October 1960.

Mulligan denied he took the gun parts as alleged and contended he had purchased them from the company to repair guns.

G. Thomas Rea appeared for defendant and Assistant District Attorney Joseph Toracca appeared for the prosecution.

Burglary Case Next

Scheduled to follow the Mulligan case is an indictment charging Michael Christoforo and Howard Quick Jr., Kingston, with third degree burglary and unlawful entry. The charge grows out of an alleged entrance to the premises of Pine Grove Manufacturing Co. Inc., 45 Pine Grove Avenue, last March. Christoforo was brought back from Sullivan County where he was serving a year in jail on a charge of unlawful possession of burglary tools. Sullivan County Judge Lawrence H. Cooke also sentenced Benjamin Hamilton and Peter Suski, both of Kingston, in connection with the same offense. Suski was given nine months in jail at Monticello on two counts and Hamilton was given a year suspended sentence. Francis Martocci appears for Christoforo and Charles Saccoman for Quick.

Thomas Neary, charged with third degree burglary and second degree grand larceny, alleged to have been committed May 14, 1961, was given a year suspended sentence by Judge Mino on a plea of guilty under the second count of the indictment. The first count was dismissed on motion of his counsel John Gotelli and bail was exonerated

Sentence Date Sept. 29

On pleas of guilty to petit larceny, second count of an indictment charging third degree burglary, Joseph Orson Luis and Robert Larry Wolpinsky, will be sentenced at 10 a. m. on September 29 by Judge Mino.

Howard R. Dawson, charged with third degree burglary and second degree grand larceny, alleged to have been committed February 18, 1961, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and was given a suspended jail sentence of one year. John Gotelli appeared for Dawson.

Robert Bruce Meyer, charged with third degree burglary, unlawful entry and petit larceny, through his counsel Joseph Avis, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and imposition of sentence was suspended. The first two counts of the indictment were dismissed and bail exonerated. He was accused of entering the Alcon shoe store on East Strand, where he was formerly employed.

Summations Made Today in Alleged Gun Part Thefts

Testimony was closed Tuesday in the Hugh Mulligan grand larceny case in County Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and summations took place today. Mulligan, a former employe of Numeric Arms Corporation of West Hurley was charged by the grand jury with taking materials valued at over $500 from the arms plant while he was employed there between May and October 1960.

Mulligan denied he took the gun parts as alleged and contended he had purchased them from the company to repair guns.

G. Thomas Rea appeared for defendant and Assistant District Attorney Joseph Toracca appeared for the prosecution.

Burglary Case Next

Scheduled to follow the Mulligan case is an indictment charging Michael Christoforo and Howard Quick Jr., Kingston, with third degree burglary and unlawful entry. The charge grows out of an alleged entrance to the premises of Pine Grove Manufacturing Co. Inc., 45 Pine Grove Avenue, last March. Christoforo was brought back from Sullivan County where he was serving a year in jail on a charge of unlawful possession of burglary tools. Sullivan County Judge Lawrence H. Cooke also sentenced Benjamin Hamilton and Peter Suski, both of Kingston, in connection with the same offense. Suski was given nine months in jail at Monticello on two counts and Hamilton was given a year suspended sentence. Francis Martocci appears for Christoforo and Charles Saccoman for Quick.

Thomas Neary, charged with third degree burglary and second degree grand larceny, alleged to have been committed May 14, 1961, was given a year suspended sentence by Judge Mino on a plea of guilty under the second count of the indictment. The first count was dismissed on motion of his counsel John Gotelli and bail was exonerated

Sentence Date Sept. 29

On pleas of guilty to petit larceny, second count of an indictment charging third degree burglary, Joseph Orson Luis and Robert Larry Wolpinsky, will be sentenced at 10 a. m. on September 29 by Judge Mino.

Howard R. Dawson, charged with third degree burglary and second degree grand larceny, alleged to have been committed February 18, 1961, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and was given a suspended jail sentence of one year. John Gotelli appeared for Dawson.

Robert Bruce Meyer, charged with third degree burglary, unlawful entry and petit larceny, through his counsel Joseph Avis, entered a plea of guilty to petit larceny and imposition of sentence was suspended. The first two counts of the indictment were dismissed and bail exonerated. He was accused of entering the Alcon shoe store on East Strand, where he was formerly employed.

State Discloses Increase in Beds At Institutions

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The number of general-hospital beds in the state increased by 511 last year, to 73,068, the State Health Department reported today.

There were 1,084 new beds added to the capacity of nursing homes, for a total of 41,374.

The total number of beds of all types declined, however, from 171,900 to 170,740, chiefly because of a continuing program of closing tuberculosis hospitals.

New methods of treating tuberculosis have led to the closing of many of the sanatarium-hospitals formerly used for victims of the disease.

The health department reported the hospital-bed statistics in its annual review of construction in New York State under the Hill-Burton Act providing federal aid for hospital construction.

The department said the total number of beds had increased from 138,100 and that 197 projects, costing $263

Officers Cleared Of Paar Wrong

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today withdrew disciplinary action it had taken against two officers in connection with the filming of a Jack Paar television show at the Berlin barrier. It said re-investigation showed the two had done nothing wrong.

Army headquarters here issued a statement released in Europe by Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, U.S. commander there.

A formal admonition against Col. John R. Deane Jr., of San Francisco, was withdrawn.

Clarke also said he had ordered removed from the files of the case anything referring to Lt. Col. Dallas W. Hoadley of Baltimore.

Deane will be continued in command of the 2nd Battle Group, 60th Infantry, in Berlin.

Hoadley, who was public information officer there, was transferred to Heidelberg after the Paar incident. He "will continue his new assignment in the information division at my headquarters in a position I consider to be of equal importance to the assignment he had in Berlin," Clarke said.

Officers Cleared Of Paar Wrong

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army today withdrew disciplinary action it had taken against two officers in connection with the filming of a Jack Paar television show at the Berlin barrier. It said re-investigation showed the two had done nothing wrong.

Army headquarters here issued a statement released in Europe by Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, U.S. commander there.

A formal admonition against Col. John R. Deane Jr., of San Francisco, was withdrawn.

Clarke also said he had ordered removed from the files of the case anything referring to Lt. Col. Dallas W. Hoadley of Baltimore.

Deane will be continued in command of the 2nd Battle Group, 60th Infantry, in Berlin.

Hoadley, who was public information officer there, was transferred to Heidelberg after the Paar incident. He "will continue his new assignment in the information division at my headquarters in a position I consider to be of equal importance to the assignment he had in Berlin," Clarke said.
